of Upper-Basin States 4,000,000 Acre Feet n River Accepted

ion to Claims for ues from Power Plants Demanded

BY C. A. JONES
Staff Correspondent

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 22. (Exclusive)—Arizona today accepted the offer of seven basin Governors of 3,000,000 feet of water from the main stream of the Colorado River, thus releasing 800,000 acre feet from Arizona demands, attaching several strings of notable length.

The accept, according to Commissioner H. S. Mc.Chuskey, who read the statement, if her claims from Federal-built hydro-power plants are recognized; if she is not called upon for water for lands below the boundary. What is Arizona contends that this accord afterwards must not be used her provided there is no change in the river control project as endorsed.

The reply was referred to the upper basin Governors, and the California reply, submitted today. Inasmuch as California agreed to accept the offer of seven feet and persisted in her claims for the "irreducible minimum" of 4,600,000 acre feet, Arizona was construed as a threat that what she is after is much water for irrigable lands, profit from hydroelectric

HOT FIRST REPLY

The reply given today is the first prepared yesterday, when the governors after California had made from her water demands.

Arizona seems assured of adoption of the water rights resolution, which apparently can bring about the ratification of the Colorado River compact by surrendering claims on water division. Together the United States Senate committee will bring forward on his States' rights plea which proposes that the right of the States to their lands and revenue from Federal development be recognized. The latter struggled with the wording, passed some phrases in order to get a unanimous statement. Whether or not Arizona will be satisfied with the assured strings of notable length, is the question of the hour.

Will Rogers Remarks:

BURBANK, Sept. 22. [To The Editor of The Times:] I couldn't go to the fight today but there is not one of that mob there that wouldn't have traded places with me. I flew in a plane piloted by "Slim" Lindbergh, from San Diego to Los Angeles. You have never seen him at his best till you sit out in the pilot's seat by his side.

When he has a plane in his hands, there is no care-worn or worried look then. That's when he is in his glory. He brought eleven of us, including my wife, on a wonderful trip in a giant three-motored Ford plane. When Fords take to the air aviation is assured.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS INCREASES

Seventeen More Cases Reported in California; 656 in Nation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—An increase in the number of infantile paralysis cases in the various States during the week ended the 17th inst. is shown in reports to the Public Health Service, which announced today that the total under treatment was 656, compared with 580 reported for the week previous.

The reports, which came from forty-one States, showed Massachusetts with the most cases, 106, compared with ninety-two the previous week. Ohio reported eighty-nine compared with eighty-five for the week before; California sixty-six, an increase of seventeen during the week; Pennsylvania forty-eight, an increase of seven; New Jersey, thirty-nine, an increase of five, and Illinois thirty-six, one more than the total reported for the week previous.

The total for other States, where the disease is less prevalent, was not given, except that it was announced that the number of cases in Minnesota increased from two to eleven.

The Public Health Service said there should be a sharp reduction in the number of cases as soon as cold weather sets in.

Hears Ring News Awaiting Noose

SAN QUENTIN, Sept. 22. (AP)—Earl J. Clark, sentenced to be hanged at 10 o'clock tomorrow for the murder of John Silva, San Pedro sailor, listened avidly to the returns of the Dempsey-Tunney fight tonight.

A prison guard received the returns by telephone from a radio installed in another part of the prison and shouted the reports from the corridor to Clark's death cell. Officials said Clark seemed more interested in the outcome of the fight than in his own fate.

GIRL BABY AWARDED

Judge Rules on Birth Tangle

Pandemonium Results from Decree and Spectators Weep Hysterically

Mother Accepts Child But Still Declares She Was Defrauded

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22. (AP)—Legally the Smith "baby tangle" was solved tonight, but in the mind of a heart-broken mother doubt still lurked—undisturbed by the hand of justice.

"I shall accept the baby girl as my child, but doubt as to its parentage will never be dispelled in my mind," Mrs. Sam Smith said tonight through a veil of tears after she had partly recovered from her hysterical reaction to the judge's decision in the court room.

Judge Weygandt dismissed the Smith's habeas copus petition demanding their child "George Smith" after he had heard nurses, doctors, hospital attaches, and the Smiths themselves tell their story from the witness stand.

CROWD IN UPROAR

"Mrs. Smith, the only thing you as a mother will do, I know, is to accept this baby girl as your very own," Judge Weygandt said in dismissing the petition. "There is no evidence any place that any other baby might be yours. We will all hope, as the years go on, that if this little girl lives and grows strong, she will make you as happy as though she had been a boy."

After the judge had finished, pandemonium broke loose in the court room. Fathers and mothers who had crowded the court room during the hearing broke through the railing weeping hysterically to surround the heart-broken mother.

Mrs. Smith broke down and was unable to speak for some time while deputies hastened to restore her.

KEY WITNESS

Miss Ruth Meyer, nurse and key witness in the "baby tangle," testified upon cross-examination as the first witness that she was positive the baby girl Mrs. Sam Smith nurses is her child.

Dr. William Glendenning, who followed Miss Meyer on the stand, testified that his examinations had revealed certain dominant characteristics in the baby girl common in other members of the Sam Smith family.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith followed the doctor to the stand and told the court of the doubt in their mind as to the parentage of the baby girl they have been given.

The habeas corpus action was instituted by Sam Smith after he had been dissatisfied with the hospital's explanation of a "clerical error." The mother had been told that she gave birth to a baby boy and discovered nine days later that the child she nursed was a girl.

SOVIET DEBT PACT RUMOR DISBELIEVED

French Delegation Knows of No Agreement Despite Litvinoff Statement

PARIS, Sept. 22. (AP)—Surprise was evinced here today over the reported announcement of Maxim Litvinoff, Russian Vice-Foreign Minister, in Moscow that a complete agreement has been reached by the French and soviet delegations studying the question of the funding of the Russian debt to France.

Apparently the French delegation has no knowledge of such an agreement, and it is declared semiofficially that the Litvinoff statement is "far from the facts." No information of war forthcoming from official quarters, but it was promised that the French representatives concerned in the negotiations will set forth their view of the situation at an early date, which will "put the affair in its true light."

Settlement of Russia's debt to France has been reported on several occasions, but just as frequently it was found that the negotiations had been broken off without any agreement having been reached.

The Russian prewar debt to France is placed at 6,738,000,000 gold francs (approximately $1,350,000,000.) The Bank of France advanced to Russia great sums of money during the war, amounting to probably more than $1,000,000,000. The Moscow dispatches make no mention of the total debt, announcing merely that the agreement was concluded on the basis of a first payment of 30,000,000 gold francs and of sixty-two annuities of 60,000,000 gold francs each, which would bring the total up to 3,750,000,000 francs, or about 55 per cent of the prewar debt.

Rabbi Upheld in Will Fight

SAN JOSE, Sept. 22. (AP)—Ending a bitter two weeks' contest in the local Superior Court a jury early this evening brought in a verdict upholding the validity of the May 19, 1926, will of the late Townsend Nichols, wealthy Iowa capitalist and landowner who died here last December at 91 years of age. The verdict absolves Rabbi Harvey B. Franklin of San Jose, one of the principal beneficiaries under the will, and Mrs. C. Murray, one of the witnesses to the document, of charges of undue influence upon Nichols in the execution of the document.

The charge was brought by T. B. Nichols of Nichols, Iowa, nephew of the deceased, who sought to have the 1926 will thrown out in favor of one executed in Los Angeles in 1914. Rabbi Franklin was not mentioned in the 1914 will. The 1926 will disposes of an estate estimated at from $500,000 to $1,000,000 in value.

Sea Washes Up Plane Wreck

BOULOGNE (France) Sept. 22. (AP) Wreckage of an airplane has been washed up on the beach near Cape Gris Nez. It consists of the back part of the body. It is of wood but still has a shred of canvas fixed to it by a round-headed copper screw.

It is suggested that it may be part of the White Bird, the machine used by Nungesser and Coli, who disappeared in their attempt to fly from Paris to New York, but this is regarded as most unlikely.

More probably, it is thought, the fragment comes from some British plane.

Flood in Utah Ties Up Trains

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 23. The trains leaving here late yesterday have been returned and are being rerouted over the lines of the Southern Pacific Railroad.

TUNNEY RETAINS CROWN BY DEFEATING DEMPSEY

Champion Survives Seventh Round Knockdown and Fights Way to Victory in Great Battle

BY PAUL LOWRY
Sports Editor, "The Times"

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (Exclusive)—The rapier was too much for the club. Gene Tunney, the Fighting Marine, retained his heavyweight title in the vast open spaces of Soldier Field tonight in a ten-round match that went the limit and developed into one of the most sensational and spectacular fights in ring history.

On the threshold of a knockout triumph in the seventh round the challenger, who wore the heavyweight crown seven long years before he lost it to Tunney in 1926, was unable to withstand the champion's withering rushes in the last three rounds, and lost as the result of an amazing finish by the titleholder.

Dempsey finished the tenth groggy and reeling from the effects of a fusillade of lefts and rights which Tunney poured into the face of the bronzed figure before him.

A piercing left to Dempsey's eye in the eighth, a bowl which momentarily dropped the challenger, developed a circle of blood, and as he staggered through the last round he was a gory sight.

150,000 FANS SEE BOUT

It was a wonderful fight, as great as the Philadelphia fight was bad. It was staged before a record-breaking throng of 150,000 spectators, who paid $2,800,000 to see a spectacle that surpassed the sensational heights expected of it.

Dempsey had a wonderful chance to win, and there are many who will say today that he did win, that the count of nine which Tunney took in the seventh round as the result of a furious two-fisted attack to the champ's head, was a long count. Some watches caught fourteen and fifteen seconds.

It is true, however, that Dave Barry, the dark horse selection for referee, did motion Dempsey to a neutral corner while Tunney was reclining on his back, and that the champion availed himself of a recuperation period in which there was no count.

Dempsey was the furious fighter, the sensational mauler of old, who slugged his way to victories over Willard, Carpentier and Firpo in the seventh.

CHAMPION CRUMPLES

In that round two hairy, wicked arms shot into the champion's face. Four times he was hit, and he crumpled like a stricken steer. He fell in Dempsey's corner, and Dempsey walked around him in a nervous circle as a wolf edges in on its prey. Barry motioned him to his corner as Tunney pulled an arm up on the ropes to listen to the count. At nine Tunney was on his feet. His face wore a dazed look, but he retreated rapidly as Dempsey tore in on him.

Dempsey was tired himself. He had staked his all on that one wild splurge of fighting. He had nothing left with which to bring his running foe to earth. Tunney survived the round and then Dempsey made the mistake of his life.

With a safe lead in his hands, he elected to tear in wildly, recklessly and as he did Tunney shot out a long, straight left. It was the blow that decided the fight. It dropped Dempsey on the floor and it opened a cut over his left eye. Dempsey was up in a moment but the damage was done.

Tunney, his confidence renewed, began to fight for his life and his title.

He kept after the challenger in the ninth round, made a target of his bad eye, and sent him to his corner in a badly bleeding condition.

UNLEASHES ATTACK

Then, in a furious tenth-round finish Tunney, determined to leave no doubt in the minds of the referee and the two judges about the decision, unleashed a terrific two-handed attack to the fast-weakening challenger.

Desperately as he tried, Dempsey could not ward off that last-minute assault. Tunney's guns were loaded, and he shot everything in the attack.

There was no hesitation about the decision. Up came the judges' slips of paper, the champion's hand was hoisted. Dempsey came over to congratulate him and then the king stepped to the radio to say a few words to the world at large.

The last four rounds of the fight were so thrilling, so spectacular that they overshadow all others, but the fourth round also had its pulse-quickening moments.

Toward the finish Tunney unloaded one of his barrages of lefts and rights to the head, and Dempsey was lying groggy on the ropes all but gone when the bell finished the round.

But just as Tunney weathered a devastating session so Dempsey came back.

EACH CAME FROM BEHIND

This was what made the battle so thrilling, so astounding. Each was

LEGION ENDS SESSIONS

French and Americans Honor Each Other as Old Scenes Visited

PARIS, Sept. 22. (AP)—The American Legion brought its greatest convention to a glorious close today after the Legionnaires had come again to see Paris, seen it with eyes nearly ten years older than when they last saw it, and completely conquered the French capital.

The veterans came with a warning that they would be pelted with rotten eggs and assaulted. They were thrown kisses and embraced. Doumergue, Poincare, Tardieu, Lygues, Marin and other French statesmen called them brother and a long line of French generals hailed them as comrades.

The Legion chose Edward Eiwell Spafford, New York lawyer, as commander and adopted forty-five resolutions, many of them designed to improve conditions of American war veterans, their wives and children.

Spafford was commander of the New York department of the American Legion and before that was a lieutenant-commander in the Navy.

"My title to fame," he told friends, "is that I am the first sailor to be the Legion's commander."

WITHOUT OPPOSITION

He was nominated and elected without opposition in five minutes.

Jay Ward, 8-year-old citizen of Pennsylvania, shared with Spafford the honors of the closing day of the convention. Jay, the mascot from his State, had been referred to by the commander as a "typical American boy," and was elected national mascot.

Child welfare, undesirable immigration, approval of the Boy Scout movement and American aviation were matters treated by the convention today.

Before its task was done the convention endeared itself further to thousands of French war veterans by paying tribute to Georges Clemenceau, "father of victory." The aged "tiger" returned to his Paris lair from the country too late to address the convention but told friends, "my heart and soul are in their work." He added, "they are great people."

MESSAGE TO JOFFRE

The convention also sent a message to Joffre, "The Poilu's Papa," another hero of the early days of the war. Illness prevented the aged marshal's attendance at any functions of the Legion week. "We sympathize with you in your illness and wish you a prompt recovery," was the message sent to him. He is a very sick man, it is said, but was keenly disappointed that he was unable to renew his American friendships.

Gen. William A. Mitchell again took off today in behalf of a separate aviation department for the United States government. He lost yesterday in a stirring fight for elimination of the words "as soon as warranted" in a resolution favoring creation of such a department. He won today when the text was changed to read "as soon as possible."

In addition to the national commander the convention named Vice-commanders, James Raftis of Washington, Paul R. Younts of North Carolina, Ralph T. O'Neill of Kansas, Dan Spurlock of Louisiana, and J. M. Henry of Minnesota. Rev. Gill Robb Wilson of Trenton, N. J., pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church there, was elected national chaplain.

BATTLEFIELD MEMORIES

Outside of the convention proceedings today the Legionnaires devoted themselves to another great day of battlefield pilgrimages, an outstanding

RUTH ELDER TO HOP TODAY

Girl All Ready to Leave New York for Paris With Capt. Haldeman as Copilot

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—Ruth Elder, the "real American girl" pilot of the monoplane American Girl, spread out her nattiest flying costume before her and packed a toothbrush and a vanity case today and hoped the weather will permit her to start a sky ride to Paris at dawn tomorrow.

The same runway mound at Roosevelt Field where Lindbergh, Chamberlin and Byrd took off on their flights across the Atlantic has been reserved for Miss Elder's plane. Gas and oil sufficient for the 3610-mile journey have been provided.

There was a pronounced low-pressure area over the trans-Atlantic air lane, but Miss Elder and her copilot, Capt. George Haldeman, said they expect this to lift before tomorrow morning.

"We will go as soon as it is light enough to take off down this runway," Haldeman said, "and that way we should be at Newfoundland just as dark falls over the water.

"We should make the 1150 miles to Newfoundland in eleven hours. I probably will take the plane off here and after it has gained altitude Miss Elder will take the stick. She is the pilot, you know, in an effort to be the first girl to pilot a plane, not merely fly in a plane to Paris."

ANGELENOS WIN SPOKANE RACES

Willey Stunt-Event Victor; Lippiatt Takes Purse

Two Others Capture Second and Third Places

Borne, Bookwalter Found; Easterners Quit

SPOKANE, Sept. 22. (AP)—Lee Willey of Los Angeles won first place in a "pony race" for Eagle Rock biplanes at the Spokane airport this afternoon. The race consisted of six laps, each pilot being required to land his plane, stop his engine, deliver a package to a judge and make a new take-off on each lap. J. S. Charles of Richmond, Va., was second; Paul Richter, Jr., Los Angeles, third, and Gerald Smith, Tacoma, fourth.

In a parachute contest to land on a mark Frank Brooks of Wallace, Idaho, won the $50 prize by landing within a large circle on the field. W. T. Dodson of the San Diego Naval Base, who leaped from a looping plane with his head bandaged because of an injury received in an earlier leap, was but ninety-seven paces from the circle.

In a forty-eight-mile race for National Guard airplanes, Capt. Tom Symons won with an average of 110.834 miles per hour; Lieut. James McKenzie was second with 107.834, and Capt. Ed Axberg was third with 107.173.

NONSTOP FLIGHT FAILS

The New York-Spokane nonstop flight was a "no contest" tonight because Eddie Stinson, pilot of one of two planes that took off from Roosevelt Field yesterday, refused to gamble his life and that of his relief pilot against the chance of winning first place with its $10,000 prize. He could have reached his goal, he indicated tonight when he arrived at the Spokane airport from Missoula, Mont., in another plane. A. C. "Duke" Schiller, the only other contestant, was far behind him and subsequently also was forced to drop out.

With the arrival this morning of Frank M. Hawks of Houston, Tex., in his Ryan brougham, only one of the Class A national air derby flyers who had dropped out along the way had failed to arrive from New York at Felts Field, the Spokane airport. He was Tex Rankin of Portland, Or.

ALL CONTESTANTS ARRIVE

The roll of contestants to finish in the Class A Pacific Coast air derby was completed with the arrival last night of N. A. Goddard of San Diego.

N. C. Lippiatt of Los Angeles won first prize, $1500; Lee Schoenhair of Hollywood, second, $1000 and Vance Breese, San Francisco, third, $500.

Arrival this evening of J. C. Rinehart of Portland, and Art Borne of Los Angeles, in the Class B Coast derby, accounted for all the flyers who were not forced out.

TWO LOST PILOTS DOWN IN OREGON

PORTLAND, Sept. 22. (AP)—Arthur Borne, Los Angeles pilot, and Robert Grey, his passenger, missing Class B flyers in the San Francisco-Spokane Derby, landed near Newburg, Ore. yesterday. They came down in a stubblefield and are uninjured. Their plane suffered slight damage.

Borne came to Portland today to get a flying wire to replace the broken part of his machine. He and Grey stayed at a farmer's home near Newburg, overnight.

BOOKWALTER PLANE DESTROYED IN CRASH

EUGENE (Or.) Sept. 22. (AP)—Vernon Bookwalter, missing flyer in the Class B San Francisco-Spokane air race, walked into Eugene just before noon today.

His plane crashed a few miles south of here yesterday, he said, adding that it was too badly damaged to be repaired. He was uninjured.

"AIR KING" LANDS WITH PILOT UNCONSCIOUS

ROOSEVELT FIELD (N. Y.) Sept. 22. (AP)—The Air King, third entry in the New York-Spokane nonstop flight was back on the ground at Roosevelt Field tonight after its third attempt to start in the race.

Two of the attempts to get the Air King into the race were made today, with Steve Lacey of Lomax, Ill., pilot, and L. A. Yancey, the navigator, in the cockpit. The last attempt, made in the afternoon, ended when the silver and blue plane was landed at its starting point with Lacey unconscious in the cockpit.

The plane had got away cleanly enough on the third start, but over the Hudson River near Hastings, N. Y., engine trouble caused the flyers to turn back. To make landing easier it was decided to dump the heavy load of gasoline. The dump vales were opened and 300 gallons were allowed to drop. Wind blew the fumes back into the cockpit.

The fumes gave the flyers a shivery quarter of an hour. Yancey crawled out of the cockpit and rode fifteen miles clinging to a strut. Lacey, sticking to the controls, got the effect of the fumes, and collapsed just as he brought the plane to earth.

Erstwhile "Miss Chicago" Withdraws Petition for Divorce

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (AP)—Mrs. Earl McBath, who was "Miss Chicago" for a few hours until the sponsors of a beauty contest discovered that she was married, has made up with friend husband. Having filed suit for divorce on the ground that he cost her the title and was otherwise cruel, she has decided to withdraw her petition.

M'ADOO ALOOF FROM POLITICS

Asserts Residence at Capital as Private Citizen

Democrats Expect Him to Act When Time Comes

Meredith's Motion Seen as Bid for Candidacy

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22, (Exclusive)—William G. McAdoo, son-in-law of the late President Wilson and formerly a resident of Santa Barbara, Cal., is once again in Washington, but this time he maintains that his residence here is entirely as a private citizen. Despite his general and specific denials he is believed to plan an active participation in the next Democratic contest and as a private citizen will have considerable influence.

Besieged by Democratic politicians and newspaper correspondents since his arrival here last night from New York, Mr. McAdoo gave one and all the same answer: His recent voluntary avowal that he would not be a candidate for the Presidency means that he considers himself relegated to the ranks as a private citizen. He has come to Washington solely to attend to pressing legal matters, he declares, and not for the purpose of holding political conferences or taking any part in the selection of a dry, anti-Smith candidate.

LINKED TO MEREDITH

Since Mr. McAdoo's withdrawal from the Presidential campaign it is recognized that he can, if he chooses, remain as a formidable factor in the choice of a Democratic standard-bearer. His visit to Washington was linked with rumors that E. T. Meredith, former Secretary of Agriculture under the Wilson administration, is coming here to win McAdoo's support in a campaign to align the dry vote of the West and South against Gov. Al Smith of New York. Some political observers see in Mr. Meredith's suggestion that a conference of party leaders be called for that purpose, a skillfully designed move to obtain the Democratic nomination for himself. Between Meredith and McAdoo there has existed a long friendship, politically as well as personally.

Mr. McAdoo, however, has let it be known in no uncertain terms that he isn't here for any conference with Meredith or anyone else on the subject of the political campaign or the situation that has arisen in the Democratic party as a result of his own withdrawal. If Mr. Meredith wished to consult him about the Al Smith boom and methods to stop it friends of McAdoo point out here, that he had ample opportunity to do so recently in New York.

IN STRATEGIC POSITION

Democrats here take with a grain of salt reports that Mr. McAdoo has no intention of mixing in the campaign. They emphasize that in his capacity as a "private citizen" he can wield a potent influence in the selection of any dry candidate.

He has not, however, made any political engagements since coming here and is refusing every invitation to address Democratic meetings. As a "private citizen," it is pointed out, Mr. McAdoo is at liberty to do effective work on the sidelines, and they expect him to do it when the proper time comes.

Mr. McAdoo is senior member of the law firm of McAdoo, Neblett, O'Connor & Clagett, and he expects to remain in Washington for at least three months attending certain cases. Mrs. McAdoo and their children also are here at their apartment in the Wardman Park Hotel.

SMITH INDORSEMENT DEFEATED BY UNDERWOOD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—Indorsement of Gov. Smith of New York for the Democratic Presidential nomination was reiterated today by Oscar W. Underwood, a former Senator from Alabama and a prominent candidate at several Democratic national conventions.

"Gov. Smith is the only candidate the Democrats have and I firmly believe if he is nominated he will be elected," Underwood said. "I don't see that the withdrawal of William G. McAdoo has changed the situation at all. I never have seen anyone else as a candidate for the nomination next year except Gov. Smith."

Underwood called on President Coolidge to thank him for his appointment as a member of the French-American Arbitration Commission, and expressed his views regarding Gov. Smith to newspaper men as he was leaving the executive offices.

some means of acquiring revenue for the States.

He takes several digs at the all-American canal, and makes the statement that it was to be financed through the sale of power, and that while it has been contended it will bring water to lands held for ex-service men, it will in truth irrigate the property of private and corporate owners.

The Swing-Johnson bill will fail of passage in the next Congress, the statement says, offering to aid California in any attempt to obtain development which will bring flood and silt control and an equation of the river's flow.

Wyoming Aid to Smith Forecast

OGDEN (Utah) Sept. 22. (AP)—Declaring that William Gibbs McAdoo's withdrawal from the race for Democratic Presidential nomination has assured Wyoming's support of Gov. Al Smith, Fred W. Johnson of Rock Springs, Wyo., arrived today to take charge of the western Democratic conference which will open Friday.

"I expect that there will be representatives present from Utah, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Nevada, California, Colorado, South Dakota, Iowa and possibly Washington, Oregon and Arizona," said Johnson. He announced that Isadore Dockweiler, national committeeman of California, has sent word that he will be present with a delegation from Los Angeles.

SON AND MOTHER SUE SUITOR

Youth Demands Damages of Wealthy Dentist for Loss of Parent's Attention and Love, While Woman Asks Pay for Breach of Promise

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (Exclusive)—Son and mother joined today in filing two unusual suits in Circuit Court against Dr. Gerrit Lightheart, 61 years of age, wealthy retired dentist of Plymouth, Wis. The son asked $75,000 damages for the alienation of the affections of his mother and she sued for $50,000 damages for breach of promise to marry.

The complainants are Vernard Hankermeyer, 22, and Mrs. Lydia Hankermeyer, both of Oak Park.

Attorney Oscar E. Herrlich admitted the son's suit was just an experiment but pointed out that it would be interesting to see if a judge would place a price on mother love.

"If the love of a man for a woman can be made the basis of a lawsuit why not the love of a mother for her son?" said the lawyer. "Mother love is the greatest thing in the world. Look at the songs that have been written about it."

Mrs. Hankermeyer met Dr. Lightheart eighteen years ago, according to her lawyer, and became infatuated with him. She was happily married at the time, it is stated, but her romance with the dentist broke up her home. She obtained a divorce last year upon the urging of Dr. Lightheart, she said, but he then refused to marry her.

The son, who was only four years of age at the time the romance began, charges that his mother did not have time to love him because of her affair with the dentist. For eighteen years he had been neglected, he stated through his lawyer, and he wants compensation for the lonely life he has led.

LEGION ENDS PARIS SESSION

visit being to St. Mihiel where Premier Poincare received them and they were given the freedom of the city. Two hundred and fifty made this trip and another 300 went to Chateau Thierry and Belleau Wood, while others went to Lille, Verdun and a score of other villages that Americans knew during the days of fighting.

There were special ceremonies at Romaine, Thiancourt, Belleau, Fereen-Tardenois cemeteries, and at Menin Gate and Gate Ypres.

A brilliant Lorraine sun flooded the returning ranks of Americans as they passed in review before Premier Poincare at St. Mihiel to the accompaniment of cheers from thousands from all over the province who had gathered to greet them.

The visitors were entertained at luncheon by the city and as was the case yesterday at Verdun, they sat down at the tables with an equal number of French comrades in arms, who acted as hosts. After luncheon they scattered over the countryside, each seeking his own particular memory spot of the great battlefield.

UNKNOWN DEAD HONORED

In Paris the Legionnaires were faithful to their pilgrimage and delegation after delegation laid wreaths reverently on the tomb of the Unknown Poilu.

Particularly touching to the French people was the gesture of National Commander Spafford. Only a few minutes after his election he slipped quietly from the convention hall and saluted the flame that burns over the warrior's resting place.

Masses of flowers were scattered in profusion under the Arc de Triomphe and French officials on duty there held almost continuous reception from early in the morning to late in the evening.

This evening most of the State delegations had their own reunions or dinners preparatory to the big reception at the Hotel de Ville and ball at the opera, two culminating events of the reception of Paris to the honored visitors.

CALIFORNIA WINS PRIZE

California was awarded first prize for the greatest number of miles traveled to reach this convention.

A resolution asking transfer of the National Soldiers' Home to the Central National Veterans' Bureau and another removing all time limits for compensation were adopted.

A resolution recommending that the President be authorized to suspend immigration from any country when circumstances warrant and that foreigners who illegally enter the United States be liable to immediate deportation caused a flurry in the convention. Finally it was referred back to the committee.

IMMIGRATION CLUB WANTED

Delegate Dougherty of Arizona shouted: "This resolution was drawn up to prevent just such manifestations as that at the last convention, and such manifestations in the United States as occurred recently at the Unknown Soldier's tomb in Paris."

Other resolutions tending to resist effort to obtain more liberal immigration legislation were adopted.

The proposition that November 11 be each year observed as a national holiday under the name of "Armistice Day" was unanimously adopted.

The naval committee proposed a resolution that the 5-5-3 ration set up at the Washington naval conference be maintained. The resolution was adopted.

The convention by a vive voce vote adopted the committee report proposing the increase in dues, assuring continuance of the official publication.

AUXILIARY ALSO CLOSES ITS SESSIONS

PARIS, Sept. 22. (AP)—France's convention of the American Legion Auxiliary passed into history when the gavel fell late this afternoon. Mrs. Irenec McIntyre Walbridge of Petersboro, N. H., was elected national president.

The entire procedure of the Paris convention must be ratified when the seventh annual convention meets at New York, October 18, since the constitution provides that the organization must hold its official meetings within the United States.

Mrs. Walbridge was elected by a vote of 333 to 251 over Mrs. Boyce Picklin, Jr., of Washington, Ga. A third candidate, Mrs. J. E. Bargus of Indianapolis, Ind., withdrawing on the second ballot.

Divisional vice-presidents were elected without opposition, with one exception, where a contest developed. Elections without opposition included: Mrs. Belle Simpson, Juneau, Alaska, western division; Mrs. Frances King, Cheyenne, Wyo., northwestern; Mrs. W. W. Townes, Petersburg, Va., southern; Mrs. W. M. C. Speakman, Wilmington, Del., eastern.

For the central division Mrs. Bessie Stuart Smith of Chicago defeated Mrs. George Norris of Kansas.

The auxiliary renewed support of the Legion's national defense program in antipacifist resolutions and urged co-operation with school authorities in checking on speakers addressing high-school students.

Another resolution urged renewed study and reading of the Bible.

FORTY AND EIGHT ELECTS EASTERN MAN

PARIS, Sept. 22. (AP)—P. St. George Russell, New York lawyer, was today unanimously elected chef de chemin de fer of the Forty and Eight, the play society of the American Legion. Other officers elected were:

Commissaire Intendant National, N. Carl Nielson, Seattle, Wash.; Conducteur National, Lawrence J. Lemeaux, Vicksburg, Miss.; Gardes de la Porte National, R. Vernon Hall, Cincinnati, and Martin J. Lyford, Philadelphia; Historien National, Paul J. Malghan of Washington, D. C.; Aumonier National, William Carpenter, Marshall, Mich., and Drapeaux National, R. P. O'Riely, Chicago.

UNREQUITED LOVE LEADS TO SUICIDE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22. (AP)—Everett W. Smith, 28 years of age, of Fresno, shot and killed himself early today in a hotel room here. He left a note addressed to Miss Frances Smith of San Francisco, in which he indicated that unrequited love was the cause of his act.

CHIANG NUPTIAL PLANS VERIFIED

Chinese General's Fiancee Confirms Reports

Girl Graduate of Wellesley Tells of Romance

Other Woman in Case Cause of Conjecture

SHANGHAI, Sept. 22. (AP)—An oriental romance of a piquant Chinese graduate of Wellesley College and a Nationalist general, young in years but old in military service, has enlisted the interest of all Shanghai.

Miss Melling Soong at a dinner to her most intimate Chinese and foreign friends last night confirmed reports that she is to marry Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, who until a short time ago was commander-in-chief of all the Nationalist forces in their struggle against the North.

There will be no formal announcement at present, she says, because of the objection of her family to the match, but she is determined to follow the dictates of her heart.

"I sincerely love the great general," she asserts.

Chiang is coming to Shanghai next week from Fenghwa, where he has been since he resigned as Nationalist generalissimo. Both of them then will embark on different ships for Japan to lay siege to the Soong family, who are spending the summer there.

SISTER OF SUN WIDOW

Reputedly one of the most beautiful young Chinese women in Shanghai society, Miss Soong is a sister of T. V. Soong, who was Finance Minister in the original Nationalist government, and of Mme. Sun Yat-Sen, widow of the man who founded the Nationalist movement, which aims at the unification of China under popular rule. Mme. Sun Yat-Sen also was graduated from an American college and T. V. Soong was a member of the Harvard class of 1915.

Chiang, up to the time of military reverses which brought about his retirement, was regarded as an invincible general, having led the Nationalists up from the South, captured Shanghai and other key cities and swept the nothern warlords back across the Yangtze. It is due to his strength that the radical element is eliminated from the Nationalist movement, and the reunion of the Nationalist factions under a common government, just announced, is in conformity with the wish he expressed at his retirement.

His romance with Miss Soong began at Canton two years ago, before his military successes attracted worldwide attention.

CHIANG'S RECORD

Chiang, who was born in 1888, was brought up, as an orphan, by relatives. Apprenticed to a merchant, he ran away and entered the Chekiang provincial army in a menial capacity. The soldier's life fascinated him, and he studied military subjects to such effect that he won a scholarship in the military academy at Paotingfu, from which he was graduated with honors. Sent to Japan by the Manchu government in 1906, he entered the Imperial Military College at Tokio, where he again won honors. He became interested early in the Nationalist movement fathered by Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, and his rise in its military ranks was rapid.

A woman described as Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek left China for the United States early this month, but Chiang is quoted as repudiating her, declaring the report that she is his wife is the "work of political enemies." He divorced his legal wife in 1921, he states.

If Miss Soong weds him in the face of continued opposition, she will be breaking an age-old precedent, as a Chinese girl is not given the right to choose her mate.

PUZZLE DEVELOPS OVER OTHER WOMAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22. (AP)—A new Chinese puzzle has developed in the marital affairs of China's illustrious military leader, Chiang Kai-Shek. The puzzle is: "Was the woman who recently visited San Francisco, asserting she is the wife of Chiang, a political enemy, or is she really his wife?"

Chiang is said to have denied having a legal wife since 1921. Charles A. Sloan, newspaper man, one of the arrivals today aboard the liner President McKinley, asserts Chiang never denied the woman was his wife.

"I know them. She's his wife. I saw her aboard the President Jackson. Chiang never denied she was his wife. The statement probably is attributed to him by political enemies."

But asserted political friends had previously said the woman undoubtedly was a political enemy, or a tool of a political enemy, seeking to injure the recent commander-in-chief of the Nationalist armies.

Sloan is corroborated by other passengers arriving today on the President McKinley, including Prescott Childs, American Vice-Consul in Canton.

CHINESE GIRL PRAISED AT COLLEGE

WELLESLEY (Mass.) Sept. 22. (AP) Miss Melling Soong, a Wellesley College graduate who is to marry Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, former Chinese Nationalist leader, was one of the most attractive oriental students who ever attended the college, declares Miss Sophie Hart, professor of English composition at Wellesley, today. Miss Hart is the college adviser to oriental students.

"She is a very bright girl," said Miss Hart, "and was a leader in her studies. She has a keen intellect and took an interest in many things, among which were American customs and American writers.

"Melling is modest and retiring," continues Miss Hart. "She did not take part in many of the college activities outside the classroom, but she enjoyed a pronounced popularity. I really think she was one of the most popular Chinese girls we had had here."

Miss Soong was graduated in 1917 and returned to Shanghai a short time later.

Mexican Bandit Reported Shot

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 22. (Exclusive)—The United States Embassy was officially informed today that the leader of the bandits who recently attacked a Pullman train in Nayarit State, when Miss Florence Anderson of Pomona, Cal., received the gunshot wound which later caused her death, was badly wounded in an engagement with Federal troops.

Although he managed to escape toward the mountains, the report furnished the Embassy states the Mexican government expects momentarily to hear of his capture or death.

NUN'S FIRE HEROISM LAUDED

Parents Try Vainly to Identify Charred Bodies of Nineteen Mission Blaze Victims

SASKATOON (Sask.) Sept. 22. (AP)—Grief overwhelmed the Indian community of Lac La Plonge today as parents and relatives of victims of the fire which destroyed the Roman Catholic Mission at Stanley collected at the ruins in an almost hopeless effort to identify the remains of their loved ones.

Laid side by side in an improvised morgue, the bodies of the nineteen boys who perished in the flames here in many instances were burned beyond recognition. Pathetic scenes were witnessed as mothers and fathers, accompanied by comforting mission sisters, huddled over the tiny forms, examining charred bits of clothing in the hope of identifying their own.

Through all the grief emerged a note of glowing praise of the heroic efforts of Sister Lea, a teacher at the mission, who sacrificed her life Monday night in a vain attempt to save the trapped boys.

SHE RUSHES BACK

According to word received here today by Courier, Sister Lea, after ascertaining that all the girls had been saved, rushed into the blazing building when attracted by the screams of the nineteen inmates of an upper floor of the dormitory whose escape had been cut off by a circle of flames. She vanished through a cloud of smoke and died shouting encouragement to the helpless inmates. Forty-six children were rescued.

The fire is believed to have started in the center of the building close to the furnace and spread toward the boys' dormitory.

The sister superior of the mission was the first to raise the alarm. Awakened by the roar of flames and crashing of falling timbers she rushed to the alarm bell, then ascended the outer staircase to the boys' dormitory where she called upon the panic-stricken occupants to escape by the way she had come. Unheeding, they crowded to the main staircase, but were faced with a rush of flames which poured from the floor below.

Caught between sheets of flame the boys became frantic. Screaming along the corridor they sought a way to safety but most of them collapsed as the dense smoke and flames enveloped them. Sister Lea then made her vain attempt to save them.

GIRLS MORE ORDERLY

In the girls' dormitory there was a greater semblance of order. Under direction of one of the sisters, the older girls collected smaller companions and rushed them to safety. A number of girls returned to the burning building twice to rescue tots who had been overlooked in the first rush for the doors.

Rev. Father Gagnon, one of the mission teachers, escaped death in the flames by falling down a stairway and against one of the doors. Entering a smoke-filled dormitory in search of its small inmates, he was overcome by dense smoke clouds. He collapsed into the arms of two boys who heard his cry for help.

The cause of the fire is still undetermined. Five minutes after the alarm was sounded the mission house was a roaring furnace and within an hour only a smoldering shell remained.

The property loss is heavy.

CASE LOOKED HOPELESS

Gas Crowding Pain Heart—Nurse Gives BELL-ANS for Indigestion—Gets Sure Relief

Cleveland, O., Aug. 31, 1927.
"I have been a private nurse for years and am on the go all the time, both in private homes and hospitals. For the last seven years I have carried in my kit a box of Bell-ans. I have always found them to relieve as well as effective. And every time I have used them you can see at once that there is a bottle in that box."

In July I was called to a private hospital for an old man. When I arrived the patient was suffering from nausea and greatly suffering pain, and it was crowding the heart. His case looked hopeless. I gave him Bell-Ans and in less than an hour the patient was sleeping and resting and working. But every time he takes his Bell-Ans. All of this is over used were my own but I have to be a fact they have been a blessing of saving many a life. You may have used them they are a wonderful hold remedy.

While out on my last case I had cucumbers which later caused me distress. I took Six Tablets from my kit and in a few minutes was relieved as new. Will be glad at any time to write you a testimonial for your use free of charge for publication.

I thank you."

VENTURA SLAYER ESCAPES NOOSE

Young, However, Refuses to Stop Execution of Clark

Governor Holds Sandoval Killed in Heat of Anger

Calls San Pedro Murderer Dangerous Criminal

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 22. (AP)—Joseph Sandoval, Ventura murderer, today was saved from death on the gallows at San Quentin tomorrow by an act of executive clemency by Gov. Young.

Earl J. Clark of Los Angeles, a companion in the death cell since Wednesday, however, will ascend the fatal thirteen steps, the Governor denying his clemency plea.

NO MENTION OF PAROLE

Sandoval's commutation to life imprisonment was without mention as to parole, allowing the prisoner to seek his freedom later from the Board of Prison Directors.

Sandoval was convicted of having killed his common-law wife during a jealous quarrel on a night Sheriff Clark of Ventura county was supposed to meet the man and woman and attempt to settle their difficulties. The Governor, in announcing the commutation, said his investigation showed the killing to have resulted from a drink-crazed California Indian being driven to desperation by the woman and other members of her immediate family, together with the jealousy aroused by the attentions the woman was paying another man. The crime, he added, bore no evidence of having been premeditated.

Clemency for Sandoval was sought by eleven of the twelve jurors in the case, by Sheriff Clark, the Chief of Police of Ventura, the trial judge, prosecution witnesses and county officials.

CLARK CALLED DANGEROUS

In denying Clark's plea to be saved from death on the gallows Gov. Young branded the crime as an atrocious one, held Clark to be a dangerous criminal and added that the only thing suggested in his behalf was a question as to whether it was he who committed the crime or one of the companions or taxi drivers who accompanied John Silva, the dead man.

"However," the Governor said, "the testimony suggests no such possibility as this and is very clear and conclusive in pointing to the guilt of the defendant."

Attorneys for Clark late in the afternoon in a last-minute attempt to avert the execution visited Gov. Young to renew their plea for clemency. Gov. Young, however, following the audience, still was of the opinion that the testimony conclusively proved Clark's guilt, and that the mistaken identity plea was insufficient to counteract this, and refused for the second time to intercede.

SANDOVAL STUNNED BY NEWS OF CLEMENCY

SAN QUENTIN, Sept. 22. (AP)—Joseph Sandoval, Ventura murderer, found it difficult to believe the news brought to him today by Warden Holohan after Gov. Young had commuted Sandoval's sentence to life imprisonment. The prisoner was to have been hanged tomorrow with Earl J. Clark, a San Pedro slayer.

For fully two minutes after the warden had told him the tidings Sandoval stood as in a stupor, staring blankly at Holohan. Then he sagged forward and seized the warden's hand, murmuring: "Thank you, thank you."

Clark, in the adjoining cell, was first to congratulate the man who was to have shared his fate tomorrow.

"My, I wish it could happen to me," he said.

CLARK'S BRIDE GIVES WAY TO GRIEF

MINOT (N. D.) Sept. 22 (AP)—Sobs of despair seized Mrs. Helen Clark, bride of Earl Clark, who must face the gallows tomorrow for murder, when she was told that Gov. Young of California had refused her husband's appeal for executive clemency. She threw herself into her mother's arms and gave way to grief.

The two were married last November while Clark was a fugitive from justice, living here.

SUPREME COURT DENIES CLARK APPEAL

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22. (AP)—The State Supreme Court late today denied a last-minute appeal in the case of Earl J. Clark, a San Pedro murderer sentenced to hang tomorrow at San Quentin. Clark's attorneys sought to reopen his case by filing a writ of habeas corpus with the Supreme Court. It was immediately taken under consideration and speedily denied.

HIGH TRIBUNAL DENIES APPEAL OF WATERS ALSO

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22. (AP)—An appeal to the State Supreme Court in the case of George Waters, a Sacramento wife slayer, now under sentence of death, was denied here late today, and his conviction affirmed.

Waters killed his wife on January 27, 1926. He was arrested four months later in San Diego, where he was living with his three children, who were said to have been present at the time the crime was committed. His appeal was based in some measure on the claim that the testimony of his children was used against him at his trial and that at least one of them was too young to understand the importance of his testimony.

The Russian company at the same time announced that it will meet further price reductions by competing companies with a corresponding reduction.

MORROW FIGHT HOPES BLASTED

Opposition Plans for Attack in Senate Upset

Press and Public Approval Cripple Strength

Even Democratic Papers in Line With Praise

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22, (Exclusive) Plans so gleefully laid on Tuesday by various Senators to give Dwight Morrow the Senatorial third degree when his nomination as Ambassador to Mexico comes before their august body, when it meets next December, are badly crippled. A Democratic Senator who on Tuesday was beginning to prepare a denunciatory speech based on President Coolidge's assumed subservience to Wall street, tore it up today, saying he is going to keep his mouth shut. Insurgent Republican Senators, who said they were outraged over the Morrow appointment, appear much calmer now. It is intimated that they will do their denouncing in the West and temper their fight in the Senate on the confirmation.

The reason is that both the press and the public appear to approve the Morrow appointment, while news comes up from Mexico City that the Mexican government is overjoyed. That government craves the presence of a friendlily disposed financial genius in its midst, whether as an Ambassador or in some other capacity, but the ambassadorial position preferred.

What has disgusted the more violently partisan Democrats who wanted to make an issue of the Morrow appointment, issues being scarce, is the whole-hearted way in which the chief Democratic newspapers, which are read here, commend President Coolidge for selecting the New York banker and vie with one another in lavishing praise on the abilities, accomplishments and capacities of Mr. Morrow himself.

PARTY ISSUE SPOILED

"What," pleaded a Southern Democratic Senator today, "are you going to do to make a fight when a Democratic newspaper of the influence of the New York World cuts the ground right out from under you? Here's the World on two days in succession giving three rousing cheers for the Morrow appointment. We can't make a party issue that way."

The New York Times, an independent Democratic newspaper, also has a leading editorial today expressing the utmost satisfaction that the President has decided to send Mr. Morrow to the embassy in Mexico. It was widely read here.

The Baltimore Sun, one of the influential border-State Democratic newspapers, joins lustily in the chorus. The Sun's chief political writer, who in his own newspaper and in the liberal magazines has written bitter invective month in and month out, directed against President Coolidge, is given first-page position in the Sun this morning for the only article he ever wrote expressing a kind thought about the President. For once he refrains from calling the President a "little pot-bellied Yankee" and forgets to sneer at Mr. Coolidge's mentality. Instead, he expresses a new-found admiration for this traditional object of his hatred. This writer starts off:

TALK CALLED CHEAP

"To talk as some Senators do here today about Mr. Morrow's appointment to Mexico being in the interests of the Morgan concern of Wall street and the oil interests is both cheap and silly. To attack Mr. Coolidge for making the appointment is absurd. Instead of criticising him he should be cheered. Instead of opposing confirmation it ought to be unanimously made.

"The time has long gone by in this country when merely to be rich can be made to seem a crime. For one thing, there are far too many rich men now to make any longer tenable, save for the unbalanced, the theory that great wealth and crooked practice are inseparable."

Further along, in the course of a column article, he grows almost lyric in describing Mr. Morrow and concludes:

"No better evidence of the unselfishness of his desire to render public service can be given than the obvious fact that long ago he could very easily have had a much better post, carrying with it far more power and greater chances for personal glorification.

OTHER OPPORTUNITIES

"He could have been Secretary of State. He could have been Ambassador to Great Britain. He could have had, under this administration, about anything he wanted. No one who knows the closeness of the personal relations between him and Mr. Coolidge, who knows the extent to which Mr. Coolidge has leaned on him for advice and the regard he has for his judgment doubts that for a moment. The President has no closer friend."

Such newspapers as have been received here from the West and South with very few exceptions approve the Morrow appointment and dwell upon the courage and wisdom of President Coolidge's making this appointment in the face of a possible storm of political censure.

It appears that here is another instance in which President Coolidge has a better understanding of the public mind and the popular mood than is held by the politicians.

Johnson Pleads for Sea Power

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22. (AP)—American seapower must be developed to retain for the United States the dominant role of world trader, wrested from Great Britain, Senator Johnson declared today at a luncheon forum of the San Francisco Association of Credit Men, an organization composed of 800 wholesalers, manufacturers, jobbers and bankers.

Speaking as chairman of the merchant marine special committee of the Senate Committee on Commerce, Senator Johnson cited late statistics on world trade.

"Commercial supremacy is ours," he said. "The price of the maintenance of this supremacy is eternal vigilance."

REDUCED FARES TO SALT LAKE CITY

On account of conference of social work and the Mormon Church, the Union Pacific will sell tickets from all stations in California and Nevada to Salt Lake City and return at approximately one and one-half the one-way fare. Dates of sale in California, October 3 to 7, and in Nevada, October 4 to 8, all good for return until November 1.—[Advertisement.

COMMITTEE FIGHT WILL BE RENEWED

Senator Reed Seeks to Have Campaign Funds Status Clarified by Senate

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—With the organization of the Senate in December Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, will renew the fight for adoption of a resolution which will clear away any doubt as to the legal status of the special campaign funds committee of which he is chairman.

A proposal to continue the committee during the recess of Congress was lost in the bitter filibuster marking the closing days of the last session, but since filibusters are difficult except at the wind-up of a session members of the committee anticipate no difficulty in having the resolution adopted.

Bound up in the measure probably will be a provision authorizing this committee to assemble the ballots in Pennsylvania which have been impounded by the Federal courts in that State and remove them to Washington, along with registration books and other documents used in the Senatorial election in the Keystone State last November. These ballots and documents will be used in the contest which William B. Wilson, Democrat, has brought against William S. Vare, Republican, who has been declared legally elected to the Senate.

The ballots cast in Philadelphia and Allegheny counties already are in possession of the Reed committee, and it is assumed that the Senate will intrust this body with the task of assembling and bringing the remaining 5000 boxes of ballots to Washington.

Whether the Reed committee or the Privileges and Elections Committee will head the Wilson contest will remain for future determination by the Senate after the ballots have been assembled here.

The Reed committee has yet to make its final report and also to press contempt proceedings against Samuel Insull, Chicago public utilities official, and Thomas W. Cunningham of Philadelphia, treasurer of the Pennsylvania State Republican Committee. Insull declined to tell the committee the names of certain men to whom he gave campaign contributions during the primary which resulted in the nomination of Frank L. Smith as the Republican Senatorial candidate for Illinois.

The isolation and culture of a microscopic plant known as Acidophilus promises to do much for the relief of human suffering.

The acidophilus plant has the remarkable power of displacing health-destroying, disease-producing germs in the digestive tract which cause food decay and auto-intoxication.

Research workers in the laboratories of the Los Angeles Creamery Company have found that these plants grow readily in pure milk and have perfected two products, A-dof-lus Cheese and A-dof-lus Milk.

Mrs. Isabelle Gordon of Pasadena, who suffered as the result of her sedentary occupation, says: "I've been helping myself to health with A-dof-lus. Improvement was noticeable the very first day, and in time restoration of mental and physical alertness—natural functioning by natural means."

A-dof-lus Milk and Cheese is made exclusively by the Los Angeles Creamery Company, and may be obtained from any of their drivers or by phoning the main plant, WE. 9231, or the nearest branch plant.—[Advertisement.

SHIPPING BOARD VIEWS OUTLINED

O'Connor Anticipates Action by Congress This Fall

Two Ways for Maintaining Marine Presented

Comment Withheld on Rail Line Ownership

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—Anticipating some sort of Congressional action at the next session on the merchant marine, Chairman O'Connor of the Shipping Board has written to each Senator and Representative outlining his own views on the situation.

If the merchant marine is to be maintained, only two courses are open, in the opinion of the chairman. One is government aid to private owners, if the government is to divest itself immediately of its great fleet, and the other is the carrying out of the present policy of government operation with the gradual sale of individual ships and lines to private concerns that can guarantee operation under the American flag for stated lengths of time.

The chairman offered no comment on the suggestion of E. N. Hurley of Chicago, former chairman of the board, that the ships be turned over to the railroads for operation in the transoceanic trade as a part of their transportation systems. This proposal has met with the approval of some members of Congress, being indorsed today by Senators Edwards, Democrat, New Jersey. That Senator said such control of the merchant marine will encourage the use of American ships in transoceanic commerce.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—The national flag will be carried by the troop escort in all military funerals hereafter, the War Department orders, so that "there may be no distinction due to rank." Previously the flag was carried only where the escort was composed of two or more companies which was in the case of the burial of an officer of the rank of major or higher.

CRASH KILLS STOCKTON MAN

Mrs. David Johnson, also of Stockton, was injured, her husband, David Johnson, was unhurt. Johnson, who was driving, lost control of the car while passing a truck and his machine overturned.

CLARK LEAVES HUGE HOLDINGS

Estate of Former Senator Set at $48,000,000

Bulk of Securities in Mine and Land Companies

Art Collection Chief Item in New York City

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—An estate of $48,000,000 was left by former United States Senator William Andrews Clark of Butte, Mont., who died here March 2, 1925, according to an appraisal filed today.

The appraisal of the New York estate showed gross assets of $3,984,703 and net assets of $3,762,233.

PICTURES LARGEST ITEM

The largest item of the New York property was the art collection in the Fifth-avenue mansion, now destroyed, which was valued at $2,396,807. His will directed that these art treasures should go to the Metropolitan Museum of Art provided they were put in a separate gallery. When the trustees of the Metropolitan Museum refused to comply with the terms of the will, the collection was given to the Corcoran Gallery at Washington.

The bulk of securities were those of corporations in other States, principally mining and land corporations. The largest holding in this State was 500 shares of stock in the First National Bank valued at $1,350,000.

He had $3,383,260 in cash at the time of his death. The bulk of this, $2,499,332, was on deposit with the banking house of W. A. Clark & Brother of Butte.

The largest holdings of the estate were 64,061 shares of United Verde Copper Company of Clarkdale, Ariz., valued at $6,300,354; 10,000 shares of Clark Investment Corporation of Delaware, $1,750,000; 8500 shares of Western Lumber Company of Missoula, Mont., $1,647,500; 3000 shares of Montana Land Company of Los Angeles, $1,326,000.

Anna E. Clark, the widow, received a $2,500,000 legacy and in addition personal effects in this country and France. Five children, Mary C. De Brabant of Los Angeles; Charles M. Clark of San Mateo, Cal.; Katherine L. Morris of Morris, N. Y.; William A. Clark, Jr., and Huguette Marcelle Clark, both of Butte, each received one-fifth of the residuary estate, the first four outright and Huguette, the youngest, in trust.

RITCHIE TO OPEN IRON HORSE FAIR

Baltimore and Ohio Will Centenary Exhibit

Pageant of Locomotives and Floats Arranged

Thirty-three Indians Will Aid in Celebration

BALTIMORE, Sept. 22. (Exclusive) Gov. Ritchie will officiate at the opening of the two-week fair of the Iron horse Saturday when the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad holds its centenary exhibition and pageant at Halethorpe, this city, celebrating 100 years of service.

The opening has been designated Maryland Day to commemorate the granting of the railroad's charter by the State Legislature in 1827. "Miss Maryland" is Gladys Miller of the treasury department of the Baltimore and Ohio. She will occupy the place of honor on the Maryland float in the pageant of transport, in which will parade fifteen floats and thirty-one locomotives. "Miss Maryland" will be seated with the State's great seal in hand. Lying at her feet will be the city of Baltimore, with its trains and ships.

EXHIBITION FREE

The pageant will begin at 3:15 p.m. with Gov. Ritchie and State officials in special boxes in the grand stand, before which the parade will pass. The grand stand contains 12,000 reserved seats, all of which are free, as well as admission to the exhibition.

The exhibition grounds will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on week days and from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Sundays. The pageant will take place every afternoon at 3:15 o'clock except Sundays and Mondays. The time it will take to pass before any given point of the grand stand is estimated at about two hours.

Thirty-three full-blood members of the Piegan and Blood tribes of the Blackfoot nation, sent down from their reservation at Glacier National Park by the Great Northern Railroad arrived at Halethorpe yesterday. They will demonstrate early methods of transportation used by the American Indian, their horses and dogs taking part in the pageant.

INDIANS TO ENTERTAIN

The Indians came here after an eventful two weeks' journey from the Northwest in two small historic coaches drawn by the little "William Crooks" engine, the first locomotive to run west of the Mississippi. Stop-overs were made at various towns along the route.

Upon arrival at Halethorpe the red men lost no time in setting up their picturesque tepees in preparation for their two weeks' stay at the exhibition. Leading the Indian party is Chief Two Guns White Calf whose profile appears on the buffalo nickel.

The Indian camp is expected to be one of the chief sources of interest at the fair. The tribesmen will entertain visitors at Halethorpe with native songs and dances.

Treasury Radio Outlay Attacked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—The Treasury today is drawn into one of Comptroller-General McCarl's never-ending battles with government departments over expenditures of Federal funds.

Although he approves a payment of $8781 to the National Broadcasting Company for disseminating talks by officials which notified the nation that the Second Liberty bonds had been called for November 15, next, McCarl warns the Treasury that Congress should make clear the legality of expenditures for the use of "modernisms."

"The Congress has shown in the past a purpose to control uses of appropriations in expending for modernisms, so that I feel it proper to ask that if advertising loan issues by radio talks is desired, hereafter more specific statutory authority therefore be shown than now appears," he says.

Wood and Forest Boosters to Meet

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—A commercial forestry conference, the first of its kind to be held to be attended by representatives of wood-using industries and forest owners from all sections of the country, will meet at Chicago November 16 and 17, President Lewis E. Pierson of the United States Chamber of Commerce announced today.

A national commercial forestry policy both in growing timber and in stabilization of wood-using industries will be the major subject of the conference, Mr. Pierson said.

The committee in charge of the conference is headed by Everett C. Griggs of Tacoma, Wash., while D. C. Everest, president of the American Pulp and Paper Association, of Rothschild, Wis., is vice-chairman, and the other member is George Cornwall of Portland, Or.

RED TAPE UNWINDING AFTER THIRTY YEARS

POSTOFFICE WINDOW BROKEN IN 1895 ACTUALLY MAY BE REPAIRED SOON

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 22. (AP)—Uncle Sam frequently is somewhat slow about moving, but eventually he moves. Take the case of a broken pane of glass in the Postoffice Building as an instance.

Back in 1895 carpenters working on the building cracked a pane in the Weather Bureau office, but did not fix it. James Barwick, meteorologist here at the time, reported it, but nothing happened.

N. R. Taylor took up the weather man's post in 1908. He also reported it. Still nothing happened.

Nine years ago Thomas Fox, then postmaster, visited the Weather Bureau, observed the broken pane and a few days later wrote Taylor asking why the broken window hadn't been reported. Taylor referred him to an old yellow letter, but as before nothing happened.

A few days ago, without further exchange of communications, Frank E. Gibson, assistant postmaster, dropped into Taylor's office with a glass dealer and took the window measurement.

Taylor is optimistic that the pane will be fixed before the rains set in.

BOY'S BODY WAS COVERED WITH SEVERE ITCHING RASH

Skin now without a blemish

Ketchum, Me., July 13:—"About seven years ago my nephew developed a severe case of skin trouble which looked like eczema. His face, hands and whole body were covered with the trouble and his skin became raw from scratching. Many soaps and ointments were tried without success before Resinol Soap and Ointment were prescribed and used. The first few applications stopped the itching and soon he was entirely healed. He now has the loveliest skin I ever saw and, thanks to Resinol Soap and Ointment, no unsightly blotches mar the beauty of his complexion."—(Signed) Vivian M. Eagle, Vernon Street.

SCHOOLS GIVE MORE VARIETY

State Trying to Aid Pupils Undecided on Future

Secondary Institutions Make Industrial Alliances

Numerous Cities Provide for Classes in Factories

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 22. (AP)—California's efforts to evolve a new type high school, one that will take care of all pupils, those undecided and those bent toward mechanics, as well as those who are to enter college or the business world, are rapidly gaining headway, according to Nicholas Ricciardi, chief of the new division of city secondary schools in the State school department.

Several years ago, Ricciardi declared, the high schools offered but two courses of training—one for the college future and the other for those planning to enter business. There were, however, scores of boys and girls who were undecided as to their future. Though they wanted neither training offered, they frequently were requested by parents to gain an education.

Now the State is endeavoring through vocational education work to solve their problem, and is rapidly accomplishing this through agreements with manufacturing plants and other industries to train students in the actual work in their plants while the schools give the theory study in class.

Such work is being carried on in Vallejo, Stockton, Sacramento, Oakland, San Jose, Berkeley, Fresno, Los Angeles and Huntington Beach, and is being developed in Long Beach, Alameda and Santa Barbara. In those cities where the work is being given, with the exception of Vallejo and Stockton, the classes have been conducted for some time. The two exceptions have just opened their courses.

At Vallejo the navy yard is the actual training center. There work is available in all lines of metal industry. Two groups of boys have been selected and while one group is in class for a week the other is studying in the navy yard as members of the navy yard apprentice school. The following week the sections change about. While working in the yard the boys are paid apprentice wages.

At Stockton a four-year plan has been worked out with the Western Harvester Company, which factory also has provided class rooms where instructors of the city school department hold classes. There, too, the boys are paid for their work and Ricciardi computes an annual earning of approximately $100 for them during the four years on the basis of the pay they will receive as they master the work laid before them.

MEXICAN TORRENTS RECEDING

Men and Supplies Rushed to Flooded Area to Check Famine and Disease

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 22. (Exclusive)—Floods which have devastated Central Mexico, especially along the River Lerma in Guanajuato, were reported receding today, leaving death and destruction in their wake, while the Red Cross and other relief agencies are rushing men and supplies to the stricken region to check the progress of famine and disease.

At Acambaro, where the flood was at its worst, damage is reported in the neighborhood of 6,000,000 pesos, with about 400 houses washed away.

The actual loss of life has not been checked yet, although a report to Excelsior states that twenty-two soldiers were swept away and it is expected that the bodies of many civilians will be found in the debris of demolished houses.

The main problem now facing the flooded district is that of obtaining food, shelter and clothing for the flood sufferers. Train service has been resumed with the receding of the waters and the government is making every effort to relieve the situation. Details of the catastrophe are just beginning to reach Mexico City.

Actors' Equity in New Break

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—A decision to terminate at once the basic agreement and standard contracts entered into with the Managers' Protective Association, Inc., in 1924, is announced today by the Actors' Equity Association through its executive secretary, Frank Gillmore.

The decision, it is explained, will not affect existing contracts between equity members and managers who are members of the protective association. However, it is said that it will result in Equity's classing all first-class production managers as independents and requiring the use of the form of contract devised for independent managers.

Asserted disregard by the protective association of the clause of the basic agreement which made it necessary for the association to produce the written consent of Equity to the election of all new members is given as the cause of the break. Failure to follow this regulation makes it optional with Equity to terminate the agreement, Gillmore says, and the association is merely exercising that option.

Flyer to Quit Turkey Today

LONDON, Sept. 22. (AP)—If weather conditions at Angora, the Turkish capital, do not interfere with Lieut. Otto Koennecke's plans, he will take off tomorrow morning for Basra, Mesopotamia. Telegraphic communication between Angora and Western Europe is very imperfect, and brief dispatches reaching London do not mention the hour of Koennecke's proposed departure.

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 22. (AP)—Lieut. Otto Koennecke, German aviator now on a flight to the United States via the Far East, may enter the Dallas-Hongkong flight for which Col. W. E. Easterwood, Jr., of Dallas has offered $25,000, it was announced today.

In a cablegram received by Col. Easterwood today the German flyer said he will try for the prize if the air currents over the Hongkong-Honolulu-San Francisco course are at all favorable.

CITY ENGINEER OF BEVERLY HONORED

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 22. (AP)—Jack C. Albers, City Engineer of Beverly Hills, was elected president of the League of California Municipalities for the coming year at the business session of the convention here today.

H. A. Mason of San Francisco was re-elected secretary-treasurer and William J. Locke, City Attorney of Alameda, was chosen executive secretary. Mason has held his position for twenty-nine years and Locke has been secretary for the last nineteen years. Albers succeeds Dr. Arthur J. Sipply of Stockton.

San Bernardino was selected as the meeting place of the league in 1928. Santa Cruz formed the main opposition to San Bernardino.

An Expert's Opinion

"CLAIMS that the new Hudson's operating characteristics rival those of the steam car, whose smooth running, old-timers love to recall, seem not in the least exaggerated.

"It has . . . . . all the 'punch' in the world . . . . . a smart push in the back every time the accelerator pedal is trod upon. Throughout its whole range, the response to throttle seems to be precisely the same. 'Soft spots' are simply not to be found.

". . . . . it will walk away from the traffic signal faster than anything it (the Hudson Company) has ever built . . . . . It will step out of line and jump into the lead from any speed without the slightest hesitation.

"But further, all this is accomplished without a vestige of that tinkle-tinkle business under the hood that Englishmen know as 'pinking' and American engineers as the gas knock, or detonation. Apparently this present Hudson Engine just isn't going to 'ping' when the throttle is quickly opened, or when the car is driven hard against a hill.

"Under precisely similar conditions most any other modern engine will detonate when running on ordinary fuel. . . . . The Hudson motor does what it does on any old fuel at all, it is said, and assuredly does it on the run of the pump fuel that is sold at base prices everywhere.

". . . . . where the general drift has been toward the use of premium fuels, Hudson comes along and says premium fuels are unnecessary. The saving—a maximum of possibly five cents to the gallon, might mean a difference of possibly $25 a year to the average owner, or if carbon does not have to be scraped or burned away once or twice in a season, maybe the saving might be doubled. Fifty dollars in interest on an investment of $832, to be sure, so that a buyer ought to figure it well worth while to pay a good bit more for a car offering economies of this kind."

The new high compression anti-knock

Hudson motor uses any Gasoline
. . . and turns waste heat to power

Special high-compression fuels were developed to eliminate spark-knock, ping and roughness which engineers had been unable to overcome in the design of high-compression motors.

What these special fuels have sought, Hudson, through an exclusive new companion invention to the Super-Six principle, obtains from ordinary gasoline. You fill your tank anywhere. And you save money on every filling.

With the Super-Six principle, the new invention combines the highest efficiency in power generation and transmission ever achieved within our knowledge. It makes Hudson the most economical car per pound weight in the world.

In the new Hudson motor, spark knock heretofore characteristic of the high-compression motor is eliminated. It gives steam engine smoothness and power in all performance—totally different in development and expression—totally new in range and efficiency.

From standing start the new Hudson Super-Six takes the full shot of power, with no suggestion of lurch or stagger, mounting to high speed with greater smoothness and rapidity than any stock car in the world, regardless of size, number of cylinders or price.

By Hudson's method of vaporizing raw gasoline that enters the combustion chamber, oil dilution is prevented, and heat formerly wasted through the exhaust becomes useful power.

The new Hudson is receiving the greatest public reception in Hudson history, because in all ways it is the greatest Hudson Super-Six ever built.

In addition to the full line of models on the 127-inch Super-Six chassis, Hudson now adds a 118-inch Super-Six, available in the Standard Coach and Standard Sedan

AJO (Ariz.) Sept. 22. (Exclusive)—There is a local report of Mexican governmental surveys for the building of a bridge across the channel of the Colorado River a short distance below the international boundary. This is assumed to be in connection with the project for construction of a railroad on Mexican territory into Lower California, or possibly to serve as a link in an all-Mexican highway from Hermosillo to Ensenada.

PHOENIX, Sept. 22. (Exclusive) Alexander Marshall, one of the last of the California Forty-niners, died in his Phoenix home at 97 years of age. He went to Placerville in the first rush to the gold diggings. Later he lived in Sacramento, where he married, and then in Stockton, where he served as Mayor. He had pride in the fact that he had participated in the Statehood elections of both California and Arizona. In 1880 he moved to Tucson, and in 1887 to the Salt River Valley, here to enter large farming operations near Tempe. He leaves three daughters and a son, residents of Long Beach, Alameda and Tucson.

PHOENIX, Sept. 22. (Exclusive)—The Southern Pacific Company is suing the Apache Oil and Refining Company and a bonding company for $12,000 asserted to be due because of misstatements concerning the grade of tank-car shipments made from Burnett, Cal. The shipments were billed as petroleum gas oil and gas oil, when, according to the complaint, they really were of refinery "tops," taking a much higher freight rate.

Belief is expressed of foul play, as the child, who was barefooted, hardly could have walked the distance indicated. A 15-year-old Mexican lad has been held under suspicion of knowing something of the tragedy.

Youth Parading as Film Producer and Football Star Shot Fleeing From Police

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—reputed desire to shower his sweetheart with feminine finery today found an erstwhile Florida real-estate salesman in the prison ward at Bellevue Hospital at the end of a fictitious career as a movie producer and an all-American football star.

V. Neely Mulloy, who had called himself William Neely Mallory, was arrested on the sidewalk at Fifty-ninth street after he had jumped from a second-story window of the New York Athletic Club at the end of a flight to escape the bullets of pursuing policemen who had found him in the Hotel Plaza registered as Herbert Lubin, motion-picture director.

His right leg and left wrist were broken, his right knee was wounded from a bullet, and his skull was believed fractured. At the hospital he gave his name as W. Neely Mallory, his home as Memphis, Tenn., his occupation as a real-estate dealer, and he insisted he was the football player of that name who captained the Yale team as fullback in 1925.

Although police assert the man has swindled hotels and department stores throughout the country, he is specifically charged with defrauding the B. Altman & Co. of a $75 suit of clothing and $200 worth of feminine apparel.

Police said a woman was implicated with him in thefts from several New York department stores.

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Sept. 22. (AP)—The directory of alumni and former students of Yale University does not include the name of V. Neely Mulloy.

WORLD'S GAINS CAUSE CONCERN

Population Growth and Food Discussed at Geneva

Experts Fear Limit Will Be Reached in 100 Years

Science Regarded as Chief Hope for Future

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (Exclusive)—How long will the world be able to feed its population at the present rate of increase? Such was the subject of grave debate at a recent international conference at Geneva, Switzerland.

Statistics were brought forward showing that the number of people in the world has doubled within the last century, increasing from 900,000,000 to 1,850,000,000 and that at the present rate of increase it should approximate 5,000,000,000 within another 100 years. That, it is stated by some of the experts, is the limit of population that can be sustained by the available food supply. Indeed, some of those who take a pessimistic view of the outlook say that the limit will be reached within a considerably shorter period if we continue to progress as we have during the last two or three decades in sanitation, control of epidemic, the reduction of infant mortality, and the increase in the average span of life.

The conference was supposed not only to ascertain whether or not the world is to become overpopulated, but to develop remedial measures that might be taken. It did not do much along the latter line, however. Even those who profess the greatest alarm over the rate at which the human race is multiplying do not seem to know what is to be done about it. There were one or two birth control advocates conspicuous in the Geneva gathering, but little was heard of their theories as a measure to avert the overpopulation crisis.

SCIENCE HOPE FOR FUTURE

The more hopeful view expressed is that whatever the increase in the number of people in the world, science will succeed in developing new or additional food supplies so that there will be no danger of a world famine.

The number of tillable acres in the world is, of course, limited. It is estimated at about 13,000,000 acres. It also is estimated that two and one-half acres are required to support an individual as food is produced at present, so that fixes the limit of the world population at around 5,000,000,000. About two-fifths of the world acreage now is under cultivation, which will take care of the present population and 100,000,000 or so more.

Prof. E. M. East of Harvard University, one of those at the conference, believes that the population problem is of immediate concern to the globe and does not believe much can be done in the way of developing new food supplies.

"The production of cheap synthetic food is a dream that will remain a dream for generations," he declared. "I prefer to call it a nightmare. The potential food supply of the seas, lakes and streams is relatively unimportant. The effort of the human race to expand its numbers is limited to the produce of about 13,000,000,000 tillable acres, and under present standards of agricultural efficiency it is clear that the world can sustain only 5,000,000,000 people unless unforeseen changes occur in our economic system."

PROSPECT FOR CHANGE

Others who participated in the discussion say there is no reason to assume that under the pressure of necessity the world's economic system will not undergo radical changes, and that science and improved agricultural methods will solve the population problem so readily that it would be recognized as a real problem.

Large or at least considerable numbers of people are living on most of the lands throughout the world which are favorable for human habitation, the principal exceptions to this being Southern Siberia, Southern Brazil, Argentina, Southeastern Australia and South Africa. With these exceptions, the sparsely peopled areas are hot or cold deserts which cannot support large populations, says H. M. Strong, geographic expert of the Department of Commerce.

The fertile black soil strip across Southern Siberia, he says, can support a fairly dense population, but those lands in Asia which are at present almost vacant will for the most part continue sparsely inhabited. This includes the greater part of Siberia and Northern European Russia and the desert of Western China, Arabia, the Sahara, Southwest Africa, and the interior of Australia are deserts which never can be well peopled.

ROOM IN SOUTH AMERICA

South America offers a great deal of room for increase in the world's population, for the continent is on the whole sparsely settled. The vast unsettled region of Brazil and Bolivia near the Equator will not acquire a dense population under present conditions, however, and the southern part of Argentina except the area near the Andes is relatively dry. The section west of the pampas also is deficient in rainfall, irrigation being necessary to produce crops.

Three island areas of the world, England, Java and Japan, are notable for their dense population. England's being due to industrial development, Japan's to intensive agriculture, and more recently manufacturing, and Java's to exceptional natural resources and stable political conditions over a period of years. England has 701.3 people to the square mile, Java, 682.5, and Japan, 392.4. Java is of approximately the same size as Cuba, and yet has 34,000,000 inhabitants as compared with about 3,000,000 for Cuba. If continental United States had a density of population equal to that of England there would be more people in this country now than there are in the whole world.

Three large continental areas likewise have dense populations—China, India and the greater part of Europe, excluding the northern and northeastern parts. Northeastern United States within a line drawn from Boston to Buffalo to Pittsburgh to Philadelphia is the only region in the Western Hemisphere in any way comparable to these three in density of population.

The dense population of Asia is based on intensive agriculture and relatively low standards of living, while the crowded conditions in Northwest Europe and to some extent in Italy have grown out of manufacturing. Here the people are not raising as much food and raw materials as they require and with their high buying power they constitute the great import market of the world.

Macao in Asia has 18,714 people to the square mile, but the area is only four square miles. Hamburg with an area of 168 square miles has a population density of 6584. Saxony, in Germany, has 805 people to the square mile and an area of 5730 square miles.

Friends of the captain are busy today arranging for the ceremonies which will be conducted at Ford Field at Lansing, Ill., tomorrow.

Capt. Giles took off from Hess Field at Wyandotte, Mich., today at 6:45 o'clock and arrived at Ford Field at 11:15 o'clock, standard time. He was forced to make a landing near Valparaiso, Ind., when his gasoline supply was exhausted.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (Exclusive)—It was stated at the Department of the Interior today that George C. Pastor Serving Life Term Says Code Prevents Him Aiding to Convict Woman

MOUNT VERNON (Ill.) Sept. 22. (AP) "Prison etiquette" seals the lips of Lawrence M. Hight, former Methodist clergyman, now serving a life term in the Chester prison for the murder of Wilford Sweetin, he admitted on the witness stand yesterday in the trial of Mrs. Elsie Sweetin, widow of the slain man, and his asserted accomplice in the poison murder.

Hight was on the stand for the defense at the trial within a trial that has been in progress for the last two days in which the judge has been hearing testimony in the absence of the jury before he rules on whether asserted confessions of Mrs Sweetin made after her arrest shall be admitted in evidence. Hight said he would not have a friend in prison if he gave evidence to convict anyone.

The State introduced evidence to show that Mrs. Sweetin confessed to four different persons that she poisoned her husband.

The defense contends the Supreme Court of Illinois bars as evidence confessions obtained from persons after they have been placed under arrest.

STILL THE CHAMP!

Gene Tunney, the scholar of Speculator, came close to losing his heavyweight crown to Jack Dempsey, the former title-holder, in the seventh round when he went down for a nine-count before the Manassa Mauler's attack, but he came back strong to win anyway and prove his claim as a real champion. Here's a pen and ink sketch of Tunney by Gordon L'Allamand of "The Times" art staff.

DEMPSEY DEFEATED BY SINGLE SECOND

Slashing Finish Won Decision for Champion After Great Two-Fisted Battle; Tunney Wobbly After Being Dropped in Seventh

BY ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

SOLDIER FIELD, CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (AP)—Gene Tunney, the man of destiny, is still heavyweight champion of the world but his crown was perilously close to being toppled from his head tonight by the gallant thrust of the old warrior, Jack Dempsey, in the greatest boxing spectacle of all time.

Tunney's hand was raised in victory at the end of a slashing, smashing battle but only because he had the courage and fighting power for a sensational finish after being knocked down for a count of nine in the seventh round by Dempsey's vicious two-handed attack.

Only one second, in this seventh round, separated Dempsey from the greatest victory of his career, and an achievement no other ex-champion had ever recorded, but Tunney back on his feet, slipped from range, cleared his head and weathered as stormy a session as he has ever experienced.

Safely past that crisis, Tunney finished the last three rounds like a champion, regained confidence, taking the aggressive and beating Dempsey into defeat with a two-handed, well-timed attack to the head. With his title in danger, Tunney had the stuff to put on a victorious rally. At the close of the final round, both eyes cut and badly bleeding, Dempsey was groggy and reeling, "out on his feet." So battered was the old champion, his last charge expended, that he did not seem to know the battle was over and had to be led to his corner.

Tunney's victory was not without dispute, however, for there were scores in the ringside section who thought the champion was saved from losing his crown in the seventh round by a count that was actually several seconds longer than the toll of nine.

It was unquestionably a "long count"—from twelve to fourteen

GENE SMARTER, SAYS LEONARD

Outboxed and Outpunched Jack, Declares Benny

Tunney Got a Bit Careless in Seventh Round

Dempsey Better Than in His Philadelphia Bout

BY BENNY LEONARD
(Undefeated Lightweight Champion.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Gene Tunney proved too smart for Jack Dempsey in the ring here tonight. He outboxed and outpunched his challenger in all but the seventh round of their fight. In that round Tunney became careless and tried to swap punches with Dempsey with the idea of knocking him out. In the anxiety of his effort he let go a few overhand rights that missed Dempsey. Then over near Dempsey's corner when Tunney was just getting ready to throw a right, Dempsey loosed one of those old-time attacks of his, shot a short left hook which caught Tunney flush on the jaw. Tunney went back on his heels and was starting to go down from the punch when Jack hooked him with a right and another left to the jaw which plopped him down much more quickly.

TUNNEY DAZED

Tunney was down and dazed. Dempsey did not go to a neutral corner but stood there and the referee, Dave Barry, motioned him to a neutral corner, and took up the count. At the count of four, Tunney was in a sitting position on the ropes, taking the full advantage of the count like a good ring general. He got up and then kept backing away from Dempsey.

The next round Dempsey went down from a little punch, a right, but it was more because Dempsey was a bit wobbly on his legs than because the punch was hard that Dempsey sort of slipped to the floor. He was up in a jiffy, however, and the blow did not hurt him.

Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey fought exactly as I predicted they would. Tunney, the boxer, stayed away and waited for Dempsey to lead, most of the time, but in the second round he showed a stiff attack. Tunney thought he might have a chance to knock out Dempsey and he fought hard and fast in spots.

The only thing was that Gene got careless in that seventh round and Dempsey got lucky with his punches.

BENNY WAS RIGHT

I told you that he would be lucky with his punches but that I did not think he would be lucky enough to enable him to score a knockout. That's just what happened.

As soon as Tunney got up after that knockdown and was circling around retreating from Dempsey, Jack, finally slowing down to a walk in his chase of Tunney, got tired and motioned to him to stop, making a sort of "come hither" gesture with his gloved hand.

Just imagine Jack Dempsey not being able to catch a fellow who is backing up, especially after a knockdown, when everyone knows that a man coming forward ought to be able to go faster that way than his opponent can go backward, ordinarily. That proved to me that Dempsey's legs were weak.

Dempsey kept hitting for the body, just as I predicted he would. Jack

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (AP)—Estelle Taylor, wife of Jack Dempsey, collapsed in her suite at a fashionable North Shore hotel tonight, a Chicago newspaper says, after she heard over the radio that her husband had been defeated in his comeback attempt against Gene Tunney.

RING RULE EXPLAINED BY PREHN

Count Over Boxer Given Knockdown Elucidated by Illinois Commissioner

SOLDIER FIELD, CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (AP)—Under interpretation of the rules of the Illinois State Athletic Commission a count over a boxer who has been knocked down cannot begin until his opponent has gone to the "farthest corner," Paul Prehn, commissioner, explained tonight when asked whether Gene Tunney had not had the benefit of a long count in the seventh round.

Jimmy De Forest, former trainer of Dempsey, sat in the challenger's corner with a stop watch and said Gene got a twelve-second count. Others said thirteen or fourteen, while Dempsey's handlers claimed it was fifteen seconds.

Dave Barry, the referee, warned Dempsey to go to a corner and when the ex-champion hesitated, withheld his count, together with the official knockdown timekeeper. When Dempsey moved off, the toll was taken up.

The rule of the commission, on which varying ringside interpretations were put, reads:

"When a knockdown occurs, the timekeeper shall immediately arise and announce the seconds audibly as they elapse. The referee shall first see that the opponent retires to the farthest corner and then, turning to the timekeeper, shall pick up the count in unison with the timekeeper, announcing the seconds to the boxer on the floor. Should the boxer on in the lead. Each was behind. Each came back.

Tunney fought like a champion, and richly deserves the title he retains. Dempsey fought like the splendid, courageous man he is. "God, what a man," said Gene Normile, who was in Dempsey's corner last year, as the challenger strived the fourth and all but scored a knockout in the seventh.

As the rounds went, Tunney won six and Dempsey four, but the general consensus of ringside opinion is that Dempsey really knocked Tunney out, and failed to profit by it when he did not get into a neutral corner fast enough.

The preliminaries got under way at 8:05 with Big Boy Peterson and Johnny Russell as the dish. The flood of light which greeted the boxers when the big arcs were turned on made the ring as bright as day and brought a roar of approval from the big crowd.

Just as Peterson was awarded the nod over Russell a few spattering raindrops began to fall at 8:30. Customers of the Dempsey-Tunney fight at Philadelphia last year had visions of another horrible experience, but the spattering ceased almost as soon as it started.

Two boys who have battled on the Coast met in the second preliminary, Chuck Wiggins winning in six rounds over Sailor Jimmy Byrne.

Davy Miller refereed the third fight between George Manley and Yale Okum, thereby destroying the hopes of his supporters that he would be the third man in the ring for Dempsey and Tunney.

Manley won and the decks were cleared for the big event of the evening, which Rickard had promised would go on sharply at 9:30. A courier passed along press row and announced that Gus Wilson had gone to Tunney's dressing-room to supervise the bandaging.

However, something went wrong, because at 9:30 Jack McCann and Billy Vidabeck, who was one of Tunney's sparring partners, climbed in the ring and were introduced.

GATE $2,800,000

Another message to the press row from one of Rickard's henchmen brought the information that the promoter in law estimated the gate at $2,800,000 and the attendance at 150,000.

Virabeck was announced as the winner of the fourth six-rounder, which was a horrible example of biffing and with the hour at 9:58 everybody began craning their necks for the expected coming of the champion and the challenger.

A big shout arose as Dempsey was observed coming down the aisle. He climbed into the ring preceded by Leo Flynn, his manager, and Jerry the Greek, his trainer, and Gus Wilson. Jack was outfitted in a big white sweater and white bath robe with flowing sleeves. Jack had big black initials, J. D. on his bath robe.

HOI POLLOI MINGLE WITH BEST PEOPLE AT CHICAGO

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—The best people of the nation, of whom Mr. Tex Rickard is so exceedingly fond, and some other people, presumably not so good, gathered tonight in a mass of 150,000 in Chicago's memorial built to honor the soldier dead and watched another prize fight costing nigh onto $3,000,000 which ended after the fashion of multi-million-dollar prize fights, in a wrangle.

Gene Tunney came back after being knocked down in the seventh round to hit Dempsey a hat behind the left ear in the eighth and floor him, face downward and well spread out. At the end of the tenth round he won the decision of the two amateur or gentlemen judges and the referee, but while the 149,000 people were still jammed in the aisles inching their way out of the huge concrete cup on the margin of Lake Michigan, the voice of Mr. Leo Percentage Flynn, manager for Mr. Dempsey was heard rising in strident sounds of complaint, known in the language of the trade as the squawk.

Mr. Flynn claimed that his gentleman had knocked Tunney down twice and should have had the decision therefor and he also insisted that Mr. Tunney, when he was knocked to the heel of his white silk trouserettes, was allowed to rest not for nine seconds, but thirteen. The fact was that Tunney did go down twice, the second time in the tenth round, but this time it was for only

LOOKS LIKE JACK MISSED THAT ONE

BLOW BY BLOW STORY OF DEMPSEY-TUNNEY BATTLE

ROUND ONE

Dempsey missed a left lunge falling into a clinch. Jack punched again with two left hooks to the ribs. In the clinch that followed he clipped Gene four times with a right on the back of the head. They sparred cautiously, Dempsey preferring to feint for openings while Tunney laid back. Gene snapped a left to Dempsey's chin and followed with a solid right smash to the chin. Jack fell into a clinch taking another right to the head as he came in. Jack dropped a left on Tunney's body. Jack backed away while the champion followed him across the ring with a volley of lefts and rights to the head close to the ropes. Gene missed an overhand right as the bell sounded.

ROUND TWO

Dempsey was fighting cautiously, apparently seeking to evade a disastrous first-round spasm like that at Philadelphia last fall. They came out boxing again and Gene shot a left and right to chin. They were dancing, boxing high. Gene dropped an overhand right on Dempsey's chin after chasing him to a corner. Another right missed. Dempsey smashed a left to the body and three lefts to the chin before Tunney could tie him up. Hands high, Jack dodged away from a right. There was little action as they sparred carefully in the center. Tunney's left was short, but Dempsey merely fell into a clinch. Gene missed two more lefts while Jack clipped two short left hooks to the body. As Dempsey lunged low Tunney missed again but managed to catch himself and fleck two soft lefts to Jack's face as the round ended.

ROUND THREE

Again they boxed carefully, slowly in the center of the ring. Dempsey apparently was trying to tantalize Tunney into leading and making an open fight of it. Tunney sneaked over a pretty left jab but took a half-dozen raps on the back of the neck. Gene took the offensive, driving Dempsey into the ropes, where Jack tied him tight. As they bobbed in the center Tunney led and fell into Dempsey's straight right smash to the body. Gene held while Jack clouted both hands to the midsection. A right smash to the heart drove Tunney back. As they fiddled about Dempsey wove in close again to cuff the back of Tunney's head with his right and dig his left twice to the champion's ribs.

ROUND FOUR

Dempsey took the offensive but Tunney's right cracked on his chin. Gene's left found the same mark. While Dempsey rapped two lefts to the body Gene complained that the blows were foul and fought Jack des-

Tunney Lauded for Fight After Knockdown

DEMPSEY CAME CLOSE TO KAYO WIN IN SEVENTH

Crowd Got Forty-Dollar Thrill as Champ Went Down; Gene Helped by Long Count, is Claim

BY JIMMY DE FOREST
Famous Conditioner of Athletes and Former Trainer of Jack Dempsey
(Copyright, 1927, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

RINGSIDE, CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—The outstanding features of the fight between Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey for the world's championship in Soldier Field here tonight were the knockdown of Tunney by Dempsey in the seventh round, the terrific fighting they indulged in at times and the fact that the heavyweight champion of the world, after being dropped so hard that he was forced to take a long count of at least nine, got up off the floor looking all the world like a beaten man but came on to win the decision.

Tunney got up and used all the skill he had at his command to keep bicycling away from Dempsey until the bell came to his rescue.

It was a slow sort of battle up to that seventh round, when Dempsey cut loose with a repetition of that big moment that he flashed in Philadelphia against this man last year. Only this time he came even nearer to putting it over.

They had lockeyed and fooled around throughout the fight up to now with Tunney showing a great first round. He landed hard rights and pretty stiff lefts, but Dempsey kept sliding with these punches so nicely that they did not do any damage. Dempsey had a cut left eye and it was beginning to look as if it would be one of those limit fights, after Tunney failed in what looked like a great opportunity in the first round, when the seventh came to break up the monotony that gave the huge crowd of some 150,000 the $40 thrill.

DEMPSEY CUTS LOOSE

The same old weaving and bobbing that marked the other rounds were in vogue, when all of a sudden Dempsey cut loose with a fierce, wild attack. Only he wasn't throwing his punches wildly. He shot them straight and hard to the mark. He clipped Tunney with a couple of lefts and rights and then rushed him to the ropes and shot over a right to the body and a fierce left to the jaw. Tunney began to sag and Dempsey battered him to the ropes and landed a terrific right to the jaw. Tunney slumped to the floor.

It looked as if he were out. He finally got himself into a half-sitting, half-reclining position and, with his left arm resting over the lower rope, listened in a dazed sort of way to the count.

The count seemed a bit long, but Tunney got up and before Dempsey, who had been shoved toward a neutral corner, could get back to him, Tunney was on guard and he began to take it on the run. The round ended and Tunney was saved.

Now, in my opinion, the count was longer than ten seconds, when Gene Tunney was on the floor my stop watch showed nearer twelve seconds than ten, but I will say in all fairness that I believe Tunney could and would have gotten up a second or so sooner if he had been called upon to do so. But in that case there is a question whether Tunney could have gotten away as well as he did, if he had been forced to drag himself up earlier.

REFEREE WAITED

The trouble was that the referee waited a bit till he turned and motioned Dempsey to his corner before that count started. I do not say that Tunney was down for a count of more than ten seconds. My stop watch showed twelve seconds that, in my opinion, Tunney was legally down.

In the next round, Tunney showed the effects of the knockdown, but he kept away from Dempsey until half the round was over, and then he suddenly came to himself and began to fight again. He boxed and stalled until Dempsey came to him and then he grabbed Dempsey's hands and held.

In the eighth, near the middle of the round, Tunney glanced a snappy right to the chin just as Dempsey was off balance and Jack slipped to floor. It was not a clean knockdown. After this Tunney got stronger.

In the ninth round Dempsey half-shoved Tunney to his haunches and when Tunney got up the referee, Dave Barry, stood between him and Dempsey, because it was not a knockdown.

Tunney held as frequently as possible, and it was mostly Dempsey who made the fight. But there were times that Gene cut loose. Whenever Dempsey came to Tunney infighting Gene held pretty tightly. He held Dempsey's gloves clamped at his sides under his arms and Jack had a hard time getting away.

TEN ROUNDS TOO SHORT

I'm not trying to make a punch-by-punch story of this fight. All I've got to say is ten rounds is too short to decide the heavyweight championship of the world.

I think Dempsey lost the fight in the last round. He tired after he had Tunney on the floor from his own efforts of chasing Tunney and he finally stood and said "Come on and fight."

He tossed away his advantage in the ninth round and the last one told the tale.

DEMPSEY LOSES TO BETTER MAN

that Dempsey might resort to foul tactics. For this the former champion is to be commended. True Jack was guilty of using the rabbit punch, an illegal blow, in practically every round but otherwise he fought a clean fight, which was well handled by Referee Dave Barry.

Dempsey made a dying man's effort to win. The once great fighter had trained faithfully. He gave all he had but his best was not quite enough. Like other fighters who have held the heavyweight championship Jack could not come back. Dempsey had the desire and the heart but his muscles would not answer the call, the old reserve was not there. This was shown conclusively in the seventh, when he would have regained his championship had he been able to muster the strength and power in his punches which spelled defeat for so many fighters in his eventful career.

Tunney had planned his battle. He knew he could outbox the challenger and he realized he had to stay away from Jack's wicked right and left swings. This he succeeded in doing until the seventh round, when he was sent to the floor at a time when he had the fight won handily. Like other fighters, no matter how clever, they can be nailed and Tunney, of course, is no exception.

The challenger assumed the crouching style of milling while Tunney employed the orthodox method of standing straight up. Dempsey bobbed and weaved. He pulled away and went in to avoid Tunney's punches but he could not evade a large amount of them. Gene also pulled away from many of Jack's dynamite hooks. Sometimes he went in close and permitted the challenger's blows to land on his back or the back of his neck. In close quarters Tunney was generally successful in tying up Jack's arms so that no damage could be done.

Tunney's countering was much superior to that of Dempsey. He feinted the former title-holder into leading and then was all over him with scoring punches. Jack did little feinting, simply tearing in after taking a punch and trying to land effectively with either hand. Tunney didn't carry a mark of the battle while Jack's left eye bled and his face was a little puffed. His right eye was also swollen.

an instant and moreover he was bunted over by a collision as Dempsey rushed him, not felled by a punch. Such a mishap is not what is recognized in well-informed circles as a genuine knockdown so in this respect, Mr. Flynn's complaint smacks of insincerity which is strong language indeed to apply to one of Mr. Flynn's fine repute.

As to the matter of the thirteen-second or home-town count there will doubtless be a great deal of dispute and it may require another million-dollar civic uplift project, say in Detroit, next September, to decide the matter. Mr. Green, the Governor of Michigan, who sat in a box seat at Philadelphia last year with rainwater dripping off the eaves of his fedora to see Tunney beat Dempsey the first time, was at the ringside for the repetition and it has been given out that he believes a prize fight costing upward of $2,630,000 is all that is necessary to divert the souls of Detroit from such material things as worm-gears to the beauties of existence.

Mr. Green was only one of sixteen Governors present at the ringside, according to Mr. Rickard's glib statistics. Governors, however, look more imposing on the billboards at election time than they do in the ring, because Mr. Len Small, the Governor of Illinois, was not particularly majestic when he climbed into the ring just before the prize fight. Mr. Small was just an elderly gentleman in a blue suit with a slightly slept-in look and wearing a frayed little mustache, which looked as though he might nibble it in his pensive moments.

Mr. William Hale Thompson, the Mayor of Chicago and the man who has kept the king's own Yorkshire light infantry at a safe distance practically single-handed, also entered the ring at this time. Mr. Thompson was more imposing than the Governor but there is more of him and furthermore he wears a mustard-colored felt hat with a brim big enough for a quarter-mile track. In fact, the only two really imposing gentlemen among the distinguished company that climbed the green wooden steps to bow to the 140,000 people at this time were two out-of-town gentlemen, Mr. Tumble-down Jack Sharkey of Boston, Mass., and Mr. Paolino Uzcudun of Spain, more familiarly known as Senor Upside-Down. Mr. Tumble-down and Mr. Upside-Down had their pants pressed and their collar buttons didn't show above their necktties.

The best people are like the worst at the prizefights but whether this means that the best people are degraded or the worst uplifted it is difficult to decide off-hand. It would seem that there is a happy amalgamation of the best traits of both because there were several exceedingly vulgar private fist fights among the customers in the $40 seats close to the ringside, where only the exceedingly best people were sitting and there was nothing but good deportment among the lower classes, whom Mr. Rickard so generously permitted to occupy seats two city blocks from the ringside at $5 the subscriber. The best people may have been inflamed by the example of Mr. Tunney himself, who is notoriously select, but regardless of the reason, several of them leaped eagerly from their chairs and started fighting in various aisles about twenty yards from the ringside shortly before the Tunney-Dempsey argument was resumed at such great expense.

deserves much credit. He fought Tunney a better fight than he did in Philadelphia, in my opinion. He was almost continually walking in after Tunney with his legs bent at the knees and his head held down and weaving in a circle more than he ever did. All this was almost identically what I forecast in my story, picking Tunney to win as he did.

Tunney's best punch was that one-two punch, and he hurt Dempsey several times with it. Indeed he made Dempsey wobble a few times.

JACK'S BOLT SHOT

In the ninth and tenth rounds Tunney showed to great advantage. Dempsey was through. He had shot his bolt in the seventh round, trying desperately to finish Tunney. He became arm weary and his legs were unsteady after that round. And so, in the last two rounds, Gene had fully recuperated and tore in after Jack again, trying for a knockout. His attack cut Dempsey badly over the eye.

Near the finish of the tenth, the final round, Dempsey was in such bad condition that he came near stumbling down without being hit. In this round Dempsey landed no more than two or three blows while Tunney continually punched him about the head. It was plain that Tunney had won the contest and retained the championship when the final bell rang.

And when the decision was announced everyone in the stadium felt satisfied that Tunney had beaten Dempsey. The only question that arose from some of the Dempsey followers was that Tunney was down for a long count, some saying as much as fourteen seconds.

his feet fail to stay in the corner, the referee and timekeeper shall cease counting until he has so retired."

DEMPSEY SILENT ON LONG COUNT

SOLDIER FIELD, CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (AP)—Jack Dempsey, surrounded by his admirers in the dressing-room after the fight, refused to make a charge that Gene Tunney was given the benefit of a long count.

"If Gene got the benefit of that break, that was one of the breaks of the game, that was all," said Jack.

The nine referred questions to Leo P. Flynn, his manager. Flynn was violent in his protests over the decision. He said that Tunney was down for fifteen seconds and that Dempsey was robbed of a knockout victory.

"We had three watches in our corner," Flynn said, "and every one of them showed that he was down for fifteen seconds. Tunney was knocked out. There was no question about it. I have a good idea to appeal to the Boxing Commission to reverse the decision and proclaim Dempsey the winner."

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Sept. 22. Coach Glenn S. Warner pronounced his gridders in shape for the fray, although promising them a final scrimmage before they take the field against the clubmen.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (AP)—Charley Root registered his twenty-sixth victory of the season today when Chicago touched hits behind Pruett's offering to take the first game of a double header from Philadelphia, 8 to 4. Wichita Falls Nabs Second Dixie Tilt

WICHITA FALLS (Tex.) Sept. 22. (AP)—The Wichita Falls Spudders, Texas League champions, clipped the New Orleans Pelicans' wings for the second time today, taking the second game of the Dixie series from the Southern Association pennant winners by the score of 11 to 1. The Spudders hit two New Orleans pitchers hard to win the game, accumulating a total of eighteen hits, including one home run. The Pelicans drove out ten hits but were unable to convert them into runs.

5, and to take undisputed possession of second place.

The Cards now are three games behind the league-leading Pirates, and the Giants, who split a double-header with the Pirates, are three and a half games behind.

It was a pitchers' battle, Haines and Sherdel for the Cardinals, allowing seven hits, and Greenfield and Robertson for the Braves allowing eight.

The Braves went into the lead in the seventh with two runs, only to be overtaken in the same frame by the Cards who added two runs. Boston again spurted into the lead in the eighth with two runs. Singles by Southworth, Toporcer and Douthit, together with a sacrifice, a walk and a Brave error, gave the Cards the tying and winning runs in the ninth. Score:

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER, BILL HENRY

GENE TUNNEY manifestly demonstrated to the wide, wide world—including Chicago—that he is a real champion. Any time a fighter can take a knockdown at the hands of Jack Dempsey and then get up and clout his way to a decision, he's a regular he-fighter regardless of what the sports writers may say about him. Tunney is apparently a fine fellow, a good fighter and a game guy. He has every characteristic that a good champion ought to have. We had a terrible suspicion previous to the bout that they were going to try to "fix" it in some way or other, but from all the descriptions we can get it was absolutely on the level and was one of the greatest fights in the history of the heavyweight division.

And now, by heck, that we've got all these minor matters settled, we can get down to the real business of the season, to wit, football. Tomorrow the historic thud of the well-known cowhide against the equally celebrated pigskin will resound in the Coliseum when the doughty Trojans of U.S.C. make their debut against the determined young men from Occidental College. In the past the opening game of the season has been a Trojan parade, the last two scores being 74 to 0 in favor of Howard Jones and his men with Whittier College the victim.

This year it looks different. The Trojans are probably about as powerful as they were two years ago, but they aren't as experienced. Brother Jones has a marvelous squad of individuals but he hasn't the organization that comes as the result of having played together for a season or so. Just what the season means to U.S.C. will be shown to some extent by tomorrow's game. The Tigers are lighter than the Trojans, but they are very tough and determined.

The Trojans boast a great backfield and a fast, heavy, but inexperienced line. The Tigers have a line with a trifle more experience but considerably less weight. The Tigers claim that their backfield is every bit as good as U.S.C.'s, not only for the starting line-up, but for the reserves as well. They admit a weakness of line reserves, but claim to have enough. Well, well, that sounds interesting, doesn't it?

FLYWEIGHTS TO BOX AT LEGION

Wally Takes on Adelman in Hollywood Ring

Hebrew Scrapper Favored to Capture Verdict

Carr Fights Chavez Over Six Round Route

The Hollywood Legion stadium is sending a pair of flyweights into the ring tonight that should do much toward clearing the atmosphere surrounding the tournament now in progress to select the successor to Fidel La Barba.

DAVE ADELMAN

Boy Wally, Singapore entry in the tournament, and Davie Adelman, Philadelphia Hebrew star, are going to the post and the result will send one of them into the discard, so far as championship recognition is concerned.

Adelman will be the favorite, according to early dope, principally because of the impressive record he brings from eastern rings, where he has marked up a sensational string of victories. Wally's only start here was against Harry Goldstein. He was given a draw in that battle, but there were many fans and critics who believed that Goldstein had shaded the little fellow from the Malay Peninsula.

However, Wally is tough and rugged and his style is to keep everlastingly on top of his opponent, and unless Adelman can shoot accurately from close quarters may be on the short end of the verdict.

Gallery is sending Jackie Carr and Benny Chavez out for the six-round semifinal, and Mateo Magdaleno and Benny Furrell are to meet in the special over the same distance. Both figure to be corking good fights.

Gene Eddy and Billy Toomey are in the second preliminary and the curtain-raiser will be Dick La Pan and Anadieta Aligita.

perately as they fell against the ropes. Gene missed a right and took another left to the body. Jack was leading again, now short lefts to the body, while Tunney countered just as lightly to the head. Tunney, trying to nail Jack coming in, missed with both hands but saved himself by falling into a clinch. Two right smashes to the chin stung Dempsey. Gene lifted two more left hooks to the head and nailed Dempsey on the ropes. A right sent Dempsey reeling into the corner. A left hook nearly floored him. As Dempsey lay against the ropes stunned, Tunney missed with both hands and the bell killed his opportunity.

ROUND FIVE

Dempsey's handlers worked furiously on him during the intermission while Tunney's handlers yelled that the stimulants were unfair. Tunney missed a right and they fell into a clinch. Jack fell in close, pounding to the body when Tunney, overanxious, missed again. Jack backed away now, falling into the ropes as Tunney took to the attack. When Jack tied him up they sparred out to the center of the ring. Dempsey bobbed out of three left jabs. He sent Tunney's head back with a stiff straight left. A right high on the temple shook Dempsey badly. The champion backed away, however, content to jab and wait. In another clinch Jack rapped again on the back of Tunney's neck. Gene dug two nice lefts into Dempsey's body at the bell.

ROUND SIX

They boxed carefully several seconds coming together for a flurry of body punches. The crowd bellowed as Dempsey's right hand, "old iron mike," smashed under Tunney's heart. But the champion came back ripping both hands to the chin. Dempsey, tiring, fell into a clinch after the blow. Jack turned the champion half way around with a right hook to the head. Tunney came back strong but two more left hooks and a straight right stung the champion. Missing a long left, Jack took a right under the heart as they fell again into a clinch.

ROUND SEVEN

Dempsey's handlers pleaded with him to keep his chin down. As he came out bobbing, weaving under Tunney's right, Jack slapped a soft right to the ribs. A volley of rights and left hooks to the head floored Tunney for the count of nine. Dempsey was on him as a wildcat as Gene pedaled backward around the ring. Dempsey, in close with a smashing body attack, dazed Tunney, on the jump and floundering backward. Dempsey cornered him at the ropes and smashed a left and right to the body. Gene came back weakly jabbing a left to the head. Dempsey laughed and urged Gene to come in and fight. Losing his temper Jack smashed Tunney with left and right swings to the head. Gene, badly dazed, grabbed Dempsey with both hands and still was holding on fiercely at the bell.

ROUND EIGHT

ROUND NINE

Tuney's retreating tactics drew boos from the crowd. Jack grabbed the champion and smashed him a half dozen times on the back of the neck. They both had slowed up from the fierce pace. Tunney, standing in the center of the ring, held Jack off for a few moments with three straight left jabs. But Jack bore right in to close quarters. Coming in Gene's right opened a cut over Dempsey's right eye. The champion went after the wound fiercely. Snapping out both hands high to the head, Jack tried to bob but two solid rights bounced off his jaw. Dempsey was wobbly but as he cocked his right Gene ran away. The champion came back, however, and rocked Jack again with swinging smashes to the head. Dempsey came to his corner a bit wobbly as the gong sounded.

ROUND TEN

They shook hands in the center of the ring. Jack wrestled Tunney to the floor but Gene was up before the timer could start counting. Jack's right smashed into Gene's head again and the water from Jack's hair splashed over the ringside writers. Jack, the Tiger again, whaled in with both hands but Tunney tied him up in a clinch. They paused and as Dempsey dropped his hands Tunney whipped a left and right hook into the Manassa Mauler's face. Gene came in to the attack, ripping both hands to the head. While Dempsey appeared to tire, Gene laid him on the ropes, but the champion's two-handed attack was a bit wild. Dempsey dug several rights to the body. Gene countered with a left. Badly staggered, Dempsey wobbled about the ring as the bell sounded. The former champion, still groggy, sparred dizzily after the gong. Tunney wins decision.

SENATORS COLLECT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—Although St. Louis batsmen forced the veteran Walter Johnson to cover with one out in the fourth inning, they failed to do much with the offerings of two other Senators, enabling Washington to capture its second consecutive game, 10 to 7.

Before retiring Johnson took revenge by pounding out a circuit drive. Score:

World Champion!

THE STUDEBAKER COMMANDER

The Studebaker Commander has earned the title of world's champion of all stock cars priced at factory below $2000, including sixes or eights, made either in the United States or abroad, because:

—last April a Commander stock closed car, fully equipped, traveled 5000 miles in less than 5000 consecutive minutes.

—during the first three days of September, a Commander stock 4-door sedan, fully equipped, set a new coast-to-coast record—New York Harbor to San Francisco Bay, 77 hrs. and 40 min.

—on Labor Day, two Commander Roadsters placed first and second in the 75-mile stock car race at the Atlantic City Speedway for cars listing below $2000.

—on Labor Day, also, a Commander Roadster climbed the highest mountain motor road in the world to the top of Pikes Peak in 22 minutes, 47 seconds—a feat never before accomplished by any stock car in its price class.

—during 1927, The Commander has outsold the combined totals of all other cars in the world of equal rated horsepower.

The Commander is a product of Studebaker's new engineering and research staff; of Studebaker's new million dollar proving ground; of Studebaker's $104,000,000 One-Profit facilities. And back of it is Studebaker's 75-year reputation for square dealing.

Only by driving The Commander yourself can you appreciate why it is called, "the greatest achievement of post-war automotive engineering."

American Loop Champs Trim Detroit Tigers, 8-7

Gehrig Bats Two Across to Set New Major Mark

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—The Yankees tied the American League record for games won in a single season today by defeating the Tigers by 8 to 7 for their one hundred and fifth victory. That feat was accomplished by the Boston Red Sox in 1922. Detroit took the lead with a three-run drive in the ninth only to have Babe Ruth plan k out his fifty-sixth homer in the Yankee half with Koenig on base to decide the contest.

Lou Gehrig established a new major league record for driving in runs when he sent two across to raise his total to 172. Ruth formerly held the record with 170 in 1921.

Lecture Work to Get Gene After Bout

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (AP)—Gene Tunney will abandon the squared circle of pugilism for the lecture platform of America's young manhood, former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, once a Presidential candidate, said here today.

"I happen to know that Gene Tunney, perhaps the finest, yet most misunderstood man in sports, will devote his future to lecturing young men on how to live," Cox said. "I have known him for years as the best son any father could hope for—the cleanest and finest.

"Gene already has plans for touring Y.M.C.A. buildings, K. of C. halls and everywhere else he can reach young men with his talks on how to live."

The former Governor said the public was suffering from a misunderstanding of the fighter's aloofness.

ting on the other side of the writer and called him to the edge of the ring.

The ticket situation developed as expected today. Forty dollar ringside seats sold at half and less. The lobbies of all the big Loop hotels were flooded with scalpers offering ducats at almost any price they could get for them.

Hours before the preliminaries were scheduled to get under way the early arrivals began trekking into the huge pine-and-concrete bowl that big-hearted Tex Rickard selected as the site of the greatest fistic spectacle of the ages.

SCRIBES ARRIVE EARLY

Among the earliest of the early birds were the newspaper writers, who selected their parking stations in the three rows of press seats about the ring and the telegraph-instrument boys, who hooked up their machines and began clicking away with a steady rat-a-tat-tat.

Three elevated coops resembling fire-outlook posts in the high Sierras housed the battery of photographers at the north end of the ring. They were about twenty feet above the ground level and separated by an equal distance.

The big score board at the south end of the field indicated a football contest might be waged, the names of Gene and Jack being substituted for the teams. This is the way it looked:

Gene .....downs.
Jack .....round.

However, this idea was dissipated by a glance at the acres and acres of seats which stretch north, south, east and west in the vast stadium, flanked by its lofty concrete columns on the top deck of the east and west stands.

At 6 o'clock the battery of forty-four lamps over the ring were turned on and right after it was demonstrated they would work, Gene Normile, who was in Dempsey's corner at the Sesqui washout last year, dashed in with a working press ticket and announced he had just planted $9300 on Dempsey at even money. A few minutes later word was passed around that Walter McGinley of Los Angeles and Nat Evans had gone to bat with a bet of $12,000 even money, the Californian taking Dempsey, of course.

Jim Coffroth was on hand with a party of friends and business officials, including Gov. Abelardo Rodriguez of Lower California; John Orcl, Juan Platt, J. A. Atkin, W. G. Bowman and the Mexican Chief of Police, Charles Verdugo, from Tia Juana.

Jim Jeffries, former heavyweight king, was an early arrival in press row to report the fight as a syndicate writer. The big Burbank farmer was pulling for Dempsey to reclaim the championship for California. Jim Griffin, the noted San Francisco referee, was in the seventh row at ringside with Johnny Herget (young Mitchell.)

Members of Los Angeles' delegation trickled in at various times from 6 o'clock on. Jack Doyle, wearing his well-known exalted ruler smile, loomed up through one of the many tunnels which poured their thousands on the field.

Jim Woods was observed in the distance, also Pat Shanley and his famous spots, which were not half bad for an evening which threatened to develop thousands of half-frozen feet cases.

Sid Grauman's fried hair stuck out as he came in with Joe Schenck and Joe Zemansky. Bob Goldie and Zeke Carews hopped up and a shout, "Hey, Paul!" indicated the arrival of Tom Kennedy, Frank Lloyd, Buck Jones and George Clark. Dick Donald, Frank Kerwin, Arthur Wenzel, Tom Jones, "Gap" Lucas, Gene Doyle and Jimmy Dougherty came in together. Joe Glaser, who manages Wolcott Lanford, the negro middleweight, who may be sent to the Coast to fight Bert Colima, had a preferred seat in the first row with Gov. Len Small of Illinois. Glaser is a prominent cafe proprietor here.

George Clark came down to ringside to say that he likes Charley Keppen best as an announcer after listening to the Chicago loud-speaker candidate. The Clark party were all Tunney's guests, the champion having sent them tickets.

The crowd trickled in slowly and the patches in the cheaper sections furnished mute evidence that Rickard had anything but a sell-out. However, it was a huge crowd and totally swallowed up in the enormous expanses of the field.

THREE BOUTS BILLED ON OLYMPIC MAT CARD

The three bouts Lou Daro has lined up for his wrestling show at the Wednesday night, will be fights from start to finish. Dick Daviscourt, the Wichita giant, will again attempt to separate Joe Stecher's head from his heavyweight crown in the two-hour feature go, while Hassan Muhamed, the "Terrible Turk," is scheduled to meet a tougher and rougher man than he is in Pete Sauer, a local German boy.

The opening event will bring the welterweight champion of the Navy, Vic Russell, against Russell Vis, mat coach at the Los Angeles club. Vic came to Los Angeles on foot from Seattle a month ago to get a bout with Vis, but the latter had already been matched. His leave of absence expired when the fleet arrived here and he has been training on shipboard ever since.

AUERBACH, ATTELL ON OLYMPIC CARD

Herman Auerbach and Gilbert Attell will box the eight-round semi-final to the Danny Kramer-Johnny Hill match at the Olympic next Tuesday night. Matchmaker Wad Wadhams announced the complete supporting card yesterday.

The preliminaries consist of three four-round bouts. They are Frankie Tierney vs. Mike Durand, Johnny Cruz vs. Ray McIntyre and Virgil Chandler vs. Joe Flores.

Auerbach, who looks like Jack Dempsey, and his protege as well, son of a former manager, has an $800 bet on Jack to stop Tunney inside of seven rounds.

Star Bengal Tennis Team Leads Field

Ben Gorchakoff and Norval Craig, Occidental's collegiate tennis stars, led the field of the Ambassador Hotel doubles championships yesterday when they entered the semifinal round of the titular event after a three-set struggle with Henry Culley and Robert Laird, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3. Lionel Ogden and Paul Green, another seeded combination, had little trouble in disposing of Elliott Church and Roy Nelson of the Los Angeles Tennis Club, 6-2, 6-2, in the third round.

This afternoon's schedule calls for but three matches and the field will then have entered the semifinals. The semis will be on tap for Saturday afternoon along with several exhibition matches, while Sunday calls for the final of the doubles play and another set of exhibitions. Jacques Goldberer has arranged for Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, ex-national women's champion; Marion Williams, Midge Gladman, Louise McFarland, Edward Berry, Alan Herrington and others to perform in a series of singles and mixed doubles exhibitions.

Yesterday's results.

MEN'S DOUBLES

Third round, Laird and Culley defeated Robinson and Rueber, 6-3, 2-6, 6-0; Ogden and Green defeated Church and Nelson, 6-2, 6-2. Quarter finals, Gorchakoff and Craig defeated Laird and Culley, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

2:30 o'clock—Warwick and Harris vs. winner Van Kirt and Combs vs. Barker and Harvey.

4:30 o'clock—Harrington and Thomas vs. winner Osborne and Hardy vs. Johnson and Freidkes; Lamb and Robins vs. Quinn and Greene.

BROWN TRIMS M'DONALD

Los Angeles Athletic Club Boxer Bests Bay City Boy in Amateur Bout at Olympic

Paul Brown, hard-hitting Los Angeles Athletic Club welterweight, defeated Charles McDonald of the San Francisco Olympic Club in the main event of last night's amateur show at the Olympic Auditorium here. McDonald was knocked down for one count twice in the second round and Referee Ernie Clark did not hesitate in awarding Brown the decision at the end of the third stanza.

Results of the Dempsey-Tunney fight were given the fans by Announcer Charley Keppen.

Chet Gleason (L.A.A.C.) won a three-round decision over Mat Coden (L.A.A.C.) The boys weighed 126 pounds.

Hymie Miller (L.A.A.C.) defeated Marshall Rante (L.A.A.C.) in four rounds. They scaled 114 pounds.

Martin Zuniger, L.A.A.C. 118-pounder, annexed a three-round decision over Joe Rogers (L.A.A.C.)

Sailor Henly of the U.S.S. Mississippi dropped a three-round nod to Harold Hashere, L.A.A.C. 118-pounder.

Ross Alva, unattached, and Hurly Breen (L.A.A.C.) went four rounds with Alva taking the decision. They are 118-pounders.

Ben Golden, L.A.A.C. ace who holds the Coast 126-pound crown, made short work of Sailor Scott of the Mississippi, knocking the gob out in the second stanza. Scott was down twice before the end came.

Martine Malone, who carries the L.A.A.C. colors and is Coast middleweight champion, disposed of Sailor Rouch of the Mississippi in even shorter fashion, the end coming in the first round. Rouch's seconds tossed the towel in after their man had been on the canvas for two trips.

Huerta Evans, another Mercury star and holder of the Coast bantamweight title, polished off Sailor Kelly of the Mississippi in the first round. It was Evans's tenth knockout in his last thirteen bouts.

FROM the brilliant lobby of the Crillon to the obscure little bureaux de tabac in the Quartier Latin, you'll see the familiar Chesterfield package in every corner of Paris.

The marked favoritism shown Chesterfield by this most cosmopolitan city of the Continent is added proof that the appeal of natural tobacco taste and fragrance is universal. And that alone explains Chesterfield's world-wide popularity.

COBB MAY QUIT GAME FOR GOOD

Early Vacation Given Ty; Mack Offers Same Salary Next Year

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22. (AP)—Ty Cobb has cast aside his baseball uniform for the season and possibly forever.

The famous outfielder has been given a vacation for the remainder of the season by Connie Mack and was on his way to Wyoming today for a hunting trip. Before leaving the city he said he was undecided about returning to the Athletics next year.

TY COBB

"I'm on my twenty - third year in baseball," said Cobb, "and there's no need for me to hang around any longer this season. We've got second place clinched and I thought I could get away early. The season has only ten days to go.

"I've enjoyed my association with Connie Mack and my teammates. I'm getting a little old and I can't step around the way I would like to. I did my level best for the Athletics and Mr. Mack told me I could return next season at the same figure."

The "Georgia Peach" is 41 years of age. Manager Mack has never revealed the salary his contract called for this year, but it was reported to have been in the neighborhood of $60,000. Unofficial batting averages show that Cobb finished the season with a record of 175 hits in 400 times at bat for a percentage of .357. He made seventeen hits in twenty-five times at bat in six consecutive games last week.

French Girl Champion Loses to ex-Title-holder

GARDEN CITY, Sept. 22. (AP)—A little French mademoiselle's triumphant sweep on the golf courses of the world was brought to a sudden end today in the third round of the national women's championship tournament at the Cherry Valley Club.

After crossing the ocean in the hope of adding the United States title to those of France and England, Mlle. Simone Thion De La Chaume was beaten by a count of 2 up and 2 to play by Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser, American ex-champion, now living in Ottawa, Can.

By winning, the blond links veteran who last gained the title in 1920 advanced to a semifinal round bracket with Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn of Kansas City. Mrs. Horn sprang a surprise by defeating Mrs. Henry Pressler of Los Angeles, western champion, 2 up and one to play.

The other semifinal tomorrow also will pit a Canadian against a resident of the United States. Miss Ada MacKenzie of Toronto, champion of the Dominion, gained a one-up victory over Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, while Miss Maureen Orcutt, Metropolitan champion, fought her way through by the same count in a twenty-hole match with Miss Marie Jenny, a rival for honors in the New York district.

A gallery of 500 persons followed the fortunes of the impetuous French girl and her deliberate, meticulous opponent through as dramatic a match as has ever been fought over these rolling, well-trapped fairways. Although the battle was won by superior steadiness at the start of the match there were flashes of golfing genius as Mlle. De La Chaume fought to gain the lead and Mrs. Fraser to hold her advantage.

Rookies Shine as Angels Nab Eighth in Row

BY BOB RAY

Marty Krug's Angel Colts made it eight straight victories by once more walloping the Portland Beavers yesterday at Wrigley Field. The sporting Seraphs made it an emphatic licking, the score being 14 to 2.

WALTER BERGER.

Walt Berger and Wes Schulmerich, the Cherubs' two 200-pound rookie fly chasers, led the Angel attack by rapping out four hits apiece. Included among Berger's four swats was a home run over the left-field wall with a man on in the third inning. Schulmerich delivered two doubles and two singles, as well as turnnig in a sensational catch of Sigafoos's line drive off the bleacher screen in the fourth. "Woody" Jensen, the other colt outfielder, didn't start but got in the game long enough to make a sensational, one-hand catch of Strand's line drive in the sixth.

Tex Weathersby, the chubby Cherub southpaw, pitched consistent ball, only one of the runs scored off him being earned. It was Weathersby's seventeenth victory of the season, which is quite a few for a young fellow with a tail-end ball club.

"Lefty" Yerkes went the route for the Beavers and had only a prayer, which wasn't sufficient to stop the Seraphs' slugging. Yerkes was bounced about for nineteen safeties, eighteen of which were bunched in the third, fourth, fifth and eighth innings.

A couple of Beaver errors started Yerkes on the downward path in the third and the Angels did the rest. Four in the third, three in the fourth, four more in the fifth and another three in the eighth was the way the Angels gathered in the runs.

Two games today. Come out and see the Angel youngsters travel. Peters and Cunningham will hurl for the Krugmen. The score:

HARTMAN MAY BE LOST TO POMONA TEAM FOR SEASON

CLAREMONT, Sept. 22. (Exclusive) Coming as a complete surprise to the entire college and striking a terrific blow at Pomona's football hopes for the season, was the announcement last night that Paul "Poke" Hartman, sensational Pomona backfield star, would not return to college this year. Hartman had already registered at Pomona and had been playing football for almost a week. He failed to show up for practice last night and upon investigation it was learned that he was considering discontinuing his collegiate career and would not be back on the squad unless he decided in favor of returning to college permanently.

Hartman said he had not actually taken the step of withdrawing from Pomona permanently, and is still very much undecided. He originally intended not to come back to school during the summer when he was engaged in his father's business. It is the desire to take up these duties again that has caused him to consider leaving college.

If the sensational sophomore goes through with his plans it will leave a gaping hole in the Sagehen backfield. Hartman is undoubtedly one of the best forward passers in the southern conference, and under these few days' training has developed into a shifty open-field runner and a consistent punter. He had been scrimmaging with the first squad every night.

The loss of Hartman and its significance to the team is almost symbolic. The phenomenal number of football players who showed up for the first week of practice and whose appearance made the hopes of Coaches Nixon and Heath soar high, has dwindled to something like twenty-five men. There are barely enough to form two complete varsity elevens. Injuries, it is true, have cut something like seven men off the team, but many others for unknown reasons have dropped away until a critical situation is facing Nixon.

Scrimmage with Earl Merritt's frosh was the main portion of the menu last night, and the Sagehens probably will wind up the week with another one tomorrow. No practice is on for Saturday, but the squad will be scattered around the bleachers of the four different fields where Southern Conference elevents are playing practice tilts.

DEMPSEY DEFEATED BY SINGLE SECOND WHEN TUNNEY RECOVERS AFTER TAKING NINE COUNT IN TORRID SEVENTH ROUND

seconds, in all, to take the varying count of ringside observers—but its explanation lay in the fact that Illinois boxing rules compelled the fighter scoring the knockdown to go to his corner before the count starts. The time elapsing during Dempsey's backing off to a corner accounted for the late start of the count, Boxing Commissioners explained.

Tunney took the count with his left hand holding the ropes. He was groggy and in bad shape, but fully conscious of the count. Had it started sooner he probably would have been able to regain his feet, but he might have been wobblier and an easier target. As it was, he had the advantage of the few seconds added rest, a chance to collect his faculties and ward off Dempsey's attack.

The mightiest throng in fight or sporting history, estimated at 150,000 paid the record-smashing sum of $2,800,000 to see the handsome ex-marine weather the spectacular challenge of the old mauler and to defeat, as convincingly, if not as decisively, the man whom Gene took the crown from a year ago in the rain at Philadelphia.

Victory unquestionably went to the better man, the craftier boxer, the faster and stronger fighter, but was his only after the closest call he ever has had.

The drama of Tunney's title defense, stirring as was his decisive finish, was enacted principally in that seventh round. For it was here that the flashing old fighting spirit of Dempsey, making his greatest bid, came so close to accomplishing the unprecedented.

Through the first half of the battle Tunney had boxed coolly and cautiously, shooting only when he saw his target and shooting accurately, while Dempsey, always going in, found himself brought up time after time by jolting rights to the head or smart left jabs.

Once or twice Jack had lashed out with smashing body blows that hurt the champion but there was little warning of what was impending when the former champion suddenly launched a vicious drive to the head in the seventh round. Perhaps Tunney was off guard, for his foe had aimed his attack previously at the body. But at any rate, Dempsey connected solidly with a series of staggering smashes.

A right-hand to the jaw sent Tunney back to the ropes, sagging at the knees. He was on his way down when a left hook clipped him and completed the job.

Pandemonium was loose in the vast arena. Men and women screamed as Dempsey stood menacingly over his fallen foe and then moved to a corner.

Slowly the time-keeper began his count. It was inaudible, even to those in the first row of the ringside, but it finally was made out by the form of the time-keeper's mouth as he took up the toll.

"Six, seven, eight, nine," it went, and there was "ten," it seemed, on the time-keeper's lips as Gene slowly crawled to his feet and backed off, a dazed and surprised look in his eyes. This was a new experience for the champion. He had felt confident of his defense, but it had been pierced by the tigerish attack of the old Dempsey.

About the ring Tunney circled, dancing and dodging to avoid another such punching. Dempsey followed, slowly, sure of himself, but seemingly puzzled as how to take up the attack again.

"Come on and fight," Jack beckoned, stopping in his tracks and dropping his gloves as he looked disdainfully at the retreating figure of the champion.

Finally Jack leaped in and lashed Tunney about the head again but now the champion's head had cleared. He was capable of taking care of himself again. He tied up the challenger in a clinch and the bell saved him from further damage.

"Come on, Jack," the crowd yelled as Dempsey, bobbing and weaving, came out of his corner for the eighth round. Tunney, worked over feverishly and freely administered to with smelling salts between rounds, was still cautious, wary against taking a further taste of Dempsey's dynamite.

But Dempsey, it seemed, had shot his big bolt, made his main bid for the title. The fact that it had failed seemed to sap something of the fury of his spirit. He seemed slower.

Regaining confidence, Tunney was quick to seize the lead again. Before the round was half-over, Gene had opened a gash over Jack's right eye. Dempsey went to one knee, partially slipping and partly from the effect of a right to the chin, but he was up and back at his foe without taking a count.

Tunney, the younger and stronger of the two, kept up his finishing attack in the ninth and tenth rounds, frustrating any counter-drive of consequence by Dempsey and directing an accurate punishing fire to the head.

In the ninth, Dempsey's left eye was severely cut. Blood streamed down both sides of his face. He was a gory figure, resembling the beaten man now of a year ago.

Throughout the tenth, Tunney slashed and ripped his foe. Dempsey landed one more right, a hard smash to the head that sent Tunney back to his heels, but it was only the wild lunge of a fighter whose biggest guns had been spiked.

Until the final bell separated them, however, Dempsey kept plunging in. His aggressiveness was gone, his knees wobbled and his body sagged but he was a fighter to the finish. But he was also as groggy a battler who ever stood on his feet. Almost blinded by the blood, the old champion stood, swaying, in the center of the ring as the referee parted them. He did not know the fight was over. He was trying to plunge in again when he was stopped and turned toward his corner.

Tunney's magnificent rally had saved his crown and there was no murmur of protest when the unanimous decision of the two judges and the referee, Dave Barry, in his favor was announced by the lifting of Gene's hand.

There was a sharp division of opinion among ringside experts in scoring the rounds. Some had the honors evenly divided but the majority gave Tunney a decisive advantage. On the Associated Press score sheet, Tunney was given seven rounds and Dempsey three, the third, sixth and seventh.

Through the first half of the fight the champion appeared to pile up a substantial margin on points as he outboxed, outstepped, and outhit the bobbing, weaving challenger. In the third Dempsey uncorked his first flash of power, staggering Tunney with a sweeping right to the head, a variation from an attack that had been chiefly confined to the body before.

Tunney, casting aside his usual restraint, was often the aggressor as he waded into punch Dempsey about the head with both fists, landing an overhand right to the head that repeatedly shook the former champion.

In the fourth, Tunney staggered Dempsey with one of those smashing right-handers, a blow that landed with crushing effect and sent Jack reeling back to a corner.

Dempsey put on another spurt in the sixth, sending Tunney back with long rights to the jaw that hurt the champion. Gene fought back but he was cautious as he sensed that Jack was about to make his big bid. It did not come until the seventh and it almost caused the champion's finish but it marked the end of Dempsey's real threat.

Once or twice afterward Jack looked dangerous but the spark was gone as he was a target for right and left hooks through the last three rounds. Early in the tenth, as they mauled together in the center of the ring, Dempsey wrestled Tunney to the floor. It wasn't a knockdown and Tunney was quickly on his feet.

Dempsey's spirit was always willing, the old fighting flame wasn't extinguished altogether, but it burned only feebly at the end.

CUTTING OF HUGE BANK MELON DUE

Chicago Institution to Declare Stock Dividend of $50,000,000

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (Exclusive)—A stock dividend worth about $50,000,000, representing one of the largest "melons" in the history of American banking, will be declared by the Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago, in the near future, it was learned today.

The distribution will be in the form of a 40 per cent stock dividend on the bank's $25,000,000 capital stock, following the consolidation of the national bank with the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank. The $5,000,000 capital stock of the latter institution has been held in trust for the benefit of the stockholders of the national bank for a number of years.

Although the capital stock of the Continental Trust and Savings Bank is only $5,000,000, it has total capital assets of nearly $18,000,000. These will be turned over to the national bank and against them the latter will issue $10,000,000 in additional stock to its stockholders, retaining the balance of the assets as surplus. The national bank then will have $35,000,000 of capital and more than $30,000,000 of surplus and undivided profits.

While the Continental and Commercial National Bank stockholders receive only $10,000,000 face value of the new stock, the value of the dividend figures to be around $50,000,000 based on the present market price of $700 a share. Following the distribution, it is figured the stock should sell around $500 a share.

Certificates of First National Bank Out Today

Definitive stock certificates covering the recent issue of 140,000 shares of new $25 par value stock of the Los Angeles-First National Trust and Savings Bank will be available for distribution to subscribers this morning, it was announced by the bank yesterday.

This action was taken yesterday following a request from the clearinghouse of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange that the date of exchange for nonnegotiable receipts be advanced from October 1, the time recently set for the transfer. This advance in the exchange date, it was stated, will halt the trading in receipts and eliminate excessive speculation in the stock.

Subscribers to the new stock may receive the actual certificates upon presentation to the head office of the Los Angeles-First National of their nonnegotiable receipts issued by the bank at the time the subscriptions were made.

London Daily Radio

LONDON, Sept. 22. (By Wireless)—Markets here today were quiet but rather better, with nitrates particularly strong. Oils were firmish and home rails were showing signs of rallying. Artificial silk was active and strong though rubbers remained flat.

Only rails continued firm.

American Federal Reserve is being followed keenly here, with considerable interest manifested in yesterday's statement by the governor of the Philadelphia reserve bank.

A good effect has been produced by the satisfactory settlement reached between the 5 per cent income charge on the convertible debenture stock of the Canadian Northern Railway and the company, though the deal must be ratified by the Canadian government.

It is believed that all the disputes between the British Celanese Company and the international holding company have been settled, and that friendly relations now exist. The Celanese Company is expected to raise soon the prior charge on the capital.

CENSORSHIP OF ADS BY PAPERS URGED

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—Refusal of newspapers to accept advertising matter which they know to be untrue or exaggerated was urged today by Frank E. Gannett, president of the New York State Publishers' Association and publisher of the Rochester (N. Y.) Times Union, and other newspapers. Speaking at a meeting of the National Better Business Bureau convention here, he said that not only should an advertising censorship be maintained by newspapers, but that they are within their legal right in so doing.

CALPET STATUS DEFINED

Vinmont Says Company in Comfortable Position; Third Quarter Expected to Show Profit

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Most oil company executives probably agree with the attitude taken by Jacques Vinmont, president of California Petroleum. As far as his company is concerned, he is satisfied if there is no red ink showing, if there are no bank loans, and if inventories have been whittled down to a reasonable basis.

Whether the year's results will fall below or equal last year, whether crude oil and gasoline prices will raise or fall, or whether production increases or decreases are problems over which this petroleum chief is not worrying. His company, he said yesterday, is comfortably prepared to ride out the storm.

FORECASTS AVOIDED

In general, this is the slant that the oil industry is taking. Nobody is making predictions, and not much attention is given to the prophecies of the market tipsters who profess to see improvement just around the corner. The oil companies are simply cutting expenses back to the bone, and are fully satisfied if the profit and loss figures are on the correct side of the ledger, no matter how small.

California Petroleum so Mr. Vinmont said, is in a reasonably comfortable position. The third quarter, he believes, will show a profit. Against the poor results of the second quarter this indicates considerable progress. For the second three months of the year the company reported a loss after all charges of $91,512, and earned a profit of more than $1,000,000 in the first quarter.

In the stock market the rumor is current that the dividend rate will be restored to the regular $2 basis at the next meeting in November. Mr. Vinmont's answer was that he hadn't given dividend policy a thought, except to be thankful that he reduced the rate when he did.

CASH INCREASES

Through this decision, and the policy of cutting back expenses, the company has not only increased cash surplus, but has been able to conduct operations without recourse to bank loans. Many companies, it will be recalled, have been compelled to go into the short-time money market to finance current operations, particularly the producers in the flush Mid-Continent pools.

Another point of strength to which Mr. Vinmont points is the inventory position. Instead of waiting to make readjustments at the end of the year, he is adjusting the inventories quarterly to conform to the market. This policy adversely affects quarterly earnings, but places the company in a position to avoid severe readjustments at the end of the year, and also to profit from price advances in the meantime.

California Petroleum is producing all the oil running through its refineries, or about 46,000 barrels daily. This volume will probably increase to around 50,000 barrels shortly, it is expected.

UTILITY EARNINGS UP

Tide Water of Florida Reports Gain of $591,266 for Year

Gross earnings of the Tide Water Power Company, which furnishes various types of public service to communities in Florida and North Carolina, for the twelve months ended June 30, last, amounted to $3,878,060, an increase of $591,266, or 17.9 per cent, over the corresponding period ended June 30, 1926. Operating expenses increased by $507,210 to $2,114,607, while net earnings of $1,763,453 showed an increase of $84,056, or 5 per cent.

Tide Water securities were recently offered publicly by a group of investment houses, and a considerable portion is held by California investors.

STATE DEPARTMENT NAMES NEW DEPUTIES

Additions to the force of deputies in the Los Angeles office of the State Corporation Department because of the increase in the volume of business was announced yesterday by Commissioner J. M. Friedlander with the appointment of two new deputies. The new members of the personnel are George Francis of Los Angeles and I. L. Hiler, also of this city. Mr. Francis was graduated from the law school at the University of California at Berkeley in 1925 and practiced for two years in San Francisco and this city. Mr. Hiler graduated from the law school at the University of Colorado in 1922 and Harvard in 1923, and was recently admitted into practice in this State. Mr. Hiler is the first student deputy to receive appointment in the department, a new classification for part-time duties.

BANK ISSUES IRREGULAR; OILS QUIET

Los Angeles-First National Lower; Bank of Italy and Bancitaly Higher

Los Angeles-First National reacted at the opening of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday following the announcement that delivery of definitive stock certificates covering the new issue of $25 par value shares will be made today instead of October 1, as previously announced.

The new shares opened 2½ points lower at 105 and immediately slumped to a low at 102, but with the aid of new buying rallied to a high at 106 3-4. In the afternoon more selling forced the price down to 104½ and the close was at 105, a net loss of 2½ points. The old stock receded a point to 530 on a small volume.

United Bank and Trust Company of San Francisco was irregular, moving between 179½ and 181, and closing at 180 1-4, the same as on Wednesday. Bank of Italy was strong and added 3 points to a new record high at 225. Bancitaly closed fractionally higher at 117 3-4, after opening 1 5-8 points lower at 116. Farmers and Merchants' added 10 points to 480 on a single transaction.

California Petroleum declined 3-8 of a point to 21 5-8, while Richfield added a fraction to 19. Standard moved up 1-4 point to 54 and Union lost a like amount to 42 1-4. Edison common was off 1-4 to 38½, and the preferred issues held firm.

Whiting Finance Augments Board

Three directors of the State Credit Corporation, which was recently merged with the Whiting Finance Company and affiliated organizations, have been added to the board of directors of the Whiting Finance Company, it was announced yesterday by Dwight L. Whiting, president.

Those added to the board are: C. F. De Witt, head of the De Witt-Blair Realty Company; L. J. Christopher, vice-president, Fidelity Building and Loan Association, and director of many other local corporations, and Milo W. Bekins, president of the Bekins Van and Storage Company.

MINES TO MERGE

Potter-Esplin Interests Combined With Cam-den Mining

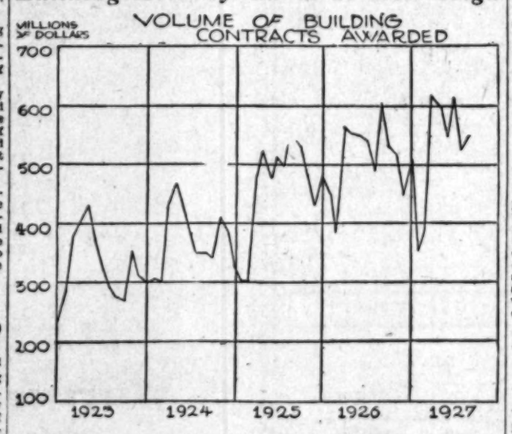
Potter & Esplin, a Los Angeles mining organization with properties in Arizona and California, will be merged with the Cam-den Mining and Exploration Company of Alaska and Canada, it was announced yesterday by William E. Esplin, president of the local company. Offices of the northern company will be moved to Los Angeles, where operations of all properties will be handled under the name of the Cam-den Mining and Exploration Company.

The two organizations have operated lead, silver, gold, zinc and copper properties for several years. According to company officials, the company plans to erect a grinding plant in Los Angeles for its nonmetallic ores, such as spars, silica, building rock. Engineers of the company, it is stated, are now engaged in designing a large gold dredge that will be built on the company's property in San Bernardino county.

DIVIDEND DECLARED BY OCEANIC OIL

Directors of the Oceanic Oil Company yesterday declared the regular bimonthly dividend of 2 cents a share on the company's capital stock, payable the 26th inst. to stockholders of record the 16th inst., according to an announcement made by the Los Angeles Stock Exchange.

Building Activity Curve at New High



Contracts Awarded Set Mark

The volume of building contracts actually awarded, regarded by many as one of the barometers of general business, continues at a level consistently higher than that of last year and in fact of any preceding year. The peak months so far this year were March and June, during both of which the volume reached new highs in excess of $600,000,000. Much of the work was on engineering projects.

ESTIMATES FOR CITRUS CROP GIVEN

Shipments of Oranges and Lemons in 1926-27 Season Total 22,000,000 Boxes

Orange and lemon shipments of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange for the 1926-27 season, now nearing a close, are expected to reach a total of 22,000,000 boxes, according to a statement issued by the exchange yesterday. Shipments of navels and Valencias will each be within seventy-five cars of estimates of November, 1926, although lemon shipments will fall considerably below the estimated figure.

A preliminary estimate of the 1927-28 crop indicates a 15 per cent reduction in oranges and grapefruit, most of which is in Valencia oranges, as compared with the season just closing. Lemon shippers are planning on a crop practically equal to shipments of this season, although it is impossible to obtain accurate figures so far ahead on this variety, the exchange states.

The orange sales department is working on the basis of 4677 cars of Valencias to go after the 1st inst., which is a few hundred cars less than remained at that time last year. September and October lemon shipments will be considerably below the average for recent years.

The present demand and prices for the quantities of oranges being sold are considered remarkable in view of the fact that the California fruit is running two sizes smaller than normal, and indicate the preference of a large number of consumers for oranges, regardless of the wide selection of other fruits available at this time, the exchange reports.

During the first week in the current month, eighty-seven cars of Valencias were exported through the Panama Canal to the United Kingdom and Europe, six cars to the Orient and three to Honolulu.

Baldwin Stock in Sharp Decline

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—Common stock of the Baldwin Locomotive Works tumbled $14 a share on the New York Stock Exchange today, following announcement that only routine business had been transacted at the monthly meeting of the board of directors in Philadelphia. Wall street had expected that the Fisher brothers of Detroit and A. W. Cutten of Chicago would renew their efforts at this meeting to obtain representation on the Baldwin directorate.

The Fisher interests and Mr. Cutten have been heavy purchasers of Baldwin stock over a period of several months, and the report persisted that they would make a strong fight to obtain seats on the board. On the eve of the last meeting of directors last month, C. R. Bitting and B. H. Shields, representing the Fishers, went to Philadelphia with the announced intention of seeking admission, but returned to New York with the expression that the meeting would not be held because a quorum could not be obtained.

Offer New York Building Bonds

An issue of $6,500,000 first mortgage leasehold 6 1-4 per cent sinking fund gold bonds, secured by a direct first mortgage on the leasehold estate in the land and the new fifty-two story Forty-second street and Lexington avenue Office Building, New York City, will of offered today by a banking group, headed by S. W. Straus & Co. The building, now under construction, covers the entire Lexington-avenue block frontage between Forty-first and Forty-second streets.

The mortgaged security has been appraised at $11,200,000, and annual earnings are estimated at $1,145,000. This issue is the direct obligation of the Combined Operating Corporation. The building will rise to a height of 625 feet with more than 600,000 square feet of rentable area in the heart of New York's Grand Central zone and will rank as the fourth tallest building in the world.

STEEL MOVEMENT FOR MONTH GAINS

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—T. C. Powell, president of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railway, says the movement of steel and other building materials, general merchandise and discellaneous freight, has improved this month, although coal loadings on the line continue backward over the lines coal continues to move the lines and that tonnage should respond to the seasonal increase in consumption from now on. "The labor situation in our own coal fields in Illinois remains uncertain and unsettled."

COPPER SALES FOR PAST WEEK HIGHER

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—Much larger sales of copper, with all sellers participating at 13 1-4 cents a pound delivered in the East, has been the feature in the nonferrous metal market the past week, Engineering and Mining Journal reports. Sales of lead also increased and the tone of the market has improved. Zinc and tin, however, have been quiet and slightly lower in price. Silver has advanced, reaching 56 1-8 cents on Monday.

BANISHED BROKER SELLS MART SEAT

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—Herman W. Booth of New York who was expelled from the New York Stock Exchange yesterday after having been found guilty by the committee on business conduct of violation of the rules of the exchange, sold his seat today for $235,000 to William B. Hewitt, also of New York. Booth was admitted to the exchange in 1914, when the price of membership ranged from $34,000 to $55,000.

BANK MORTALITY ASSAILED

Heavy Annual Toll of Failures Held Reflection on Banking Intelligence by National Surety Chief

(Copyright, 1927, by New York Evening Post, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (Exclusive)—The heavy toll taken annually through bank failures which occur mostly in States least able to stand them, constitutes a serious indictment of the banking intelligence of this country, declares Howard Abrahams, vice-president of the National Surety Company, who has been moved to offer a remedial suggestion.

There have been 380 bank failures with liabilities of over $104,000,000 during the first eight months of this year. During the last six years and eight months, there have been over 3200 failures, with liabilities in excess of $1,125,000,000.

During 1926 about 50 per cent of the failures were in States classified as "Middle West." Including Georgia and Florida, more than 75 per cent were in that territory.

There are too many banks, urges Mr. Abrahams. Charters are granted too easily. Capital requirements in many States are too low. In a study of 1876 bank failures in twenty-eight States, selected on account of numerous failures, from January 1, 1922, to July 1, 1926, 778 or 41.5 per cent had capital of less than $25,000.

Mr. Abraham says: "It has been demonstrated that guaranty laws are not panaceas for banking ills; that there are no substitutes for good, honest, capable bankers operating under up-to-date and well-administered laws.

"Something should be done to reestablish the confidence of the people in agricultural sections in banks. There is a disagreement as to the remedy. State-guarantee funds are delusions. They put a poor banker on a par with a good banker, as many depositors are under the impression that the State actually guarantees payment of their deposits and that they need not be careful in the selection of a bank.

"It has been suggested that banks in a country should organize and function somewhat after the manner of a clearinghouse in a large city. This plan is open to objection. A better plan seems to be to have the best people in the State, bankers, lawyers and public-spirited citizens co-operate and strengthen the banking laws and see to it that ample funds are placed at the disposal of the banking commissioner. The commissioner should be an experienced administrator and not a political henchman. The laws should be patterned after the National Currency Act, as it is well known that there are fewer failures of national banks and defaulting officials of national banks are more apt to be punished."

As a result of the large failure figures reported inquiries are being received by surety companies in affected territory for coverage of all of the deposits (public and private) in the banks. Mr. Abrahams says that his company has declined to grant such coverage, for the reason that the risk is too concentrated and because a bank to make money must have deposits many times its capital. Losses have been large enough when only a very small portion of the deposits have been covered.

SURPLUS OF CITIES SERVICE GROWING

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—Surplus of Cities Service Company for the year ended August 31 amounted to $24,486,840, equivalent to $5.05 a share on the common stock, compared with $13,105,999, or $3.43 a share in the preceding two months.

Drastic Slump of Baldwin Common Features

Steel Common and General Motors Also Off

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—A wave of selling in the stock market, having its inception at the opening and continuing throughout the session, was the principal development in the financial markets today. The unloading process was widespread, but principal pressure was brought to bear on recent speculative favorites which have been rapidly moving forward.

The few business developments during the day were mostly bearish in character. The appearance of the market gave an impression that many traders were disposed to get out of stocks which could be absorbed only at considerable concession in price. Banks called about $15,000,000 in loans but the money market showed little change.

BALDWIN CRACKS

One of the sensational features of the day's trading was a sudden 14-point break in Baldwin Locomotive common, which sold as low as 240 for the first time since early in August. The stock ended the day around 250 with a net loss of 3 3-4 points. The selling followed the announcement that no change had been made in the directorate.

United States Steel common was sold in huge volume, getting to 150 1-4 and closing only a half point above that figure, down 2 3-4 on the day. General Motors fared little better, the old stock ending the day at 264 after rallying from 263 1-2, against yesterday's close of 266 7-8. The new stock sustained a net loss of 1 3-4 points.

Losses ranging from 1 to as much as nine points were sustained by a long line of recent pool favorites, such as Case Threshing Machine, American Smelting, Dupont, Eastman Kodak, Postum Cereal and many of the copper, oil and motor and accessory shares. Houston Oil declined more than 5 points and Midcontinent 6 1-4, selling of the latter being accelerated by omission of the dividend.

Railroads participated widely in the reaction. Most of the utilities also displayed consistent weakness.

A few of the low-priced issues reached new lows for the year, including Pathe Exchange. During the morning, efforts to stem the tide of selling were successful in bidding up a few specialties into new high ground. These issues, however, failed to maintain all their gains and joined the general decline after their movement of strength.

An advance in sterling cables to a new high for the year around $4.8625 featured the firm foreign exchange market.

Time money and commercial paper rates were virtually unchanged from yesterday's levels.

SINGER NET HIGHER

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—The Singer Manufacturing Company earned $27.76 a share in 1926, against $24.64 a share in 1925. Net profit was $24,991,231, against $22,183,000 the year before.

BASIC industrial activity is the solid foundation beneath the prosperity of all America's industries. Production of the raw materials and manufactured necessities of civilization, as well as their marketing and distribution, are largely in the hands of the great representative corporations, such as U. S. Steel, American Telephone & Telegraph, and Pennsylvania Railroad. So long as its population increases, the nation's basic wealth will continue to build up the resources and earnings of these leaders of industry.

FIXED TRUST SHARES bring to every investor a convenient method of securing a composite interest in the thirty basic industries shown in the accompanying list. Every share represents a participating ownership in shares of these thirty companies, deposited with The Equitable Trust Company of New York as Trustee.

All dividends from these underlying stocks, including proceeds from sale of stock dividends and rights, as well as cash dividends, accrue to the holders of FIXED TRUST SHARES, and are stabilized by a Cash Reserve Fund, providing an annual return of at least $1.00 per Share. As the Trust is not discretionary, the underlying list is not subject to substitutions.

WALL STREET PARAGRAPHS

[Copyright, 1927, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Steel weakness naturally tended to dampen bullish enthusiasm. There was a greater disposition on the part of the trading fraternity to take other things aside from the corporation's huge surplus into consideration. It was more generally recognized that the extension of the midsummer slack well into September was something that did not augur well for third-quarter earnings. Selling, which broke Steel to new low levels for the move, was put down as in a large measure coming from professional bears, but the volume was sufficiently large to suggest that considerable real liquidation was going on.

Myth of Fact

Another meeting of the Baldwin Locomotive board and no effort made by interests presumed to hold control of the common stock to obtain representation on the board. Wall street today, on the news that the meeting was merely routine, was asking whether the stories going the rounds were based on facts or merely inflated myths. The street has long understood that approximately 100,000 shares of Baldwin's 200,000 common-share capitalization were locked up in Philadelphia. It cannot, therefore, reason unless there has been some selling out of the box, which it doubts, how the Fisher and Cutten interests have obtained 154,000 shares which they are reputed to hold.

Midcontinent Pete

The severe break in Midcontinent Petroleum, forcing that stock down more than 5 points, was among the factors contributing to the day's unsettling developments. Heavy selling was precipitated by the decision of the board to omit the quarterly dividend due at this time. Just six months ago payments were resumed after a lapse from 1923. The street was interested to know whether the action was dictated by current earnings, or the result of a change in the situation which failed to meet provisions of the first-mortgage bonds covering dividend payments.

Goodrich Rubber Buying

Among the relatively few active stocks which were able to negotiate further progress against the reactionary trend in the general list was Goodrich Rubber, which at one time reached new high levels for recent years. Strength here was reported to reflect accumulation by a group of market operators who have been prominent at times in the past in the movements of General Motors. Buying, it was declared, was based on the belief that Goodrich has hardly discounted its current position and bright future prospects.

Rails Work Lower

The selling movement embraced the railway shares as well as the industrials and specialties. Seasoned dividend payers like New York Central, Atlantic Coast Line, Atchison, Norfolk and Western and Chesapeake and Ohio gave way readily, and among the speculative carriers Western Maryland was heavily sold. Here it was again a case of disappointment over the showing of August statements, which came to hand in larger numbers. With few exceptions both gross and net returns were lower by comparison with last year.

Montreal Utility Keeps Pace with Industrial Growth of Dominion of Canada

BY WILLIAM RUSSELL WHITE

[Copyright, 1927, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—One of the largest public-utility systems in Canada is the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated, which, directly or through subsidiaries or associated companies, does all the gas business and substantially all the domestic, municipal and commercial electric light and power-generating and distributing business. It is interested to a large extent in the Montreal street-railway system.

The dominating personality of the company is Sir Herbert S. Holt, president, who is the head of the Royal Bank of Canada and one of the wealthiest men on this continent. He has played a leading part in the growth of the concern, which has forced its way to the front by absorbing competitors and extending services to consumers.

The company, which operated in the most densely populated section of the Dominion, serving more than one-tenth of Canada's population, has followed the practice of reducing rates as the volume of business increased. As a result the rate for electric lighting per kilowatt hour has declined from 13½ cents in 1902 to 3½ cents in 1925 as gross income rose from $1,760,285 to $18,348,806. Net income has steadily increased, rising from $6,413,154 in 1922 to $9,311,177 last year. In the period from 1902 to 1925 the number of customers and the output of gas and electricity increased in each year except one. Gas customers numbered 25,347 and electricity customers 5611 in 1902, while in 1925 the numbers had grown to 144,201 and 187,284, respectively.

The Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company was incorporated in 1901 to unite the Montreal Gas, the Royal Electric and the St. Lawrence Light and Power companies. In 1903 the Lachine Rapids Hydraulic and Land Company was acquired. Later the Cedar Rapids Manufacturing and Power was merged and the new concern was known as Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated.

Jointly with Shawinigan Water and Power Company, with which it became associated in the Lachine Rapids deal, the company formed United Securities, Ltd., which acquired control of the Montreal Tramways and Power Company, owning a majority of stock of Montreal Tramways, the Quebec-New England Hydro-Electric Corporation and the Canadian Light and Power Company. Virtually complete control of Quebec-New England Company was acquired and substantially all electrical output of Canadian Light was purchased.

The company's electricity resources have grown as a result of these steps to about 500,000 horsepower, of which about 290,000 is produced by constituent companies and the remainder purchased on long-term contracts. Requirements in Montreal aggregate only about 300,000 horsepower, so an ample margin for expansion has been provided.

DINNERS UNIQUE

Wives or Husbands Glad to "Fill in" at Last Moment

"Filling in" at the last moment is one of the typical features of Washington society. It is not only men who are in demand in this capacity but sometimes women. Then a wife must be borrowed for the evening, or one of the countless unattached women.

But sooner or later everyone who goes out is asked to fill in, and all who entertain are forced to ask their friends to fill in for them. There is no place where it is done to such a large extent, and no place where, under proper circumstances, persons object so little to being asked to do it.

"In fact, I think it's more fun to fill in at the last moment than to be asked weeks in advance," said a young matron who belongs to what is becoming known as the Georgetown intelligensia. "My husband works so hard that it's impossible for us to accept invitations a long time ahead, so when we're asked together to large dinners we usually have to decline. But, when some one calls me up at the last moment and says a woman has been taken ill and won't I be an angel and fill in, I usually put on my hat and go."—[Maude Parker in the Saturday Evening Post.

ACE AFRAID O. WOMEN

The man who was undisturbed by the bullets fired at him by Allied flyers during the World War—Baron Manfred von Richtofen, the famous German ace—was easily discomfited by the admiring glances of a woman, points out Floyd Gibbons in an article in Liberty.

"Prince and peasant acclaimed Richtofen as Germany's young war god," the writer explains, "when, in May, 1917, he left the front on leave. His walk, his manner, his smile, his uniform—no detail escaped their admiring eyes, who saw in their hero the man who had shot down, up to that time, fifty-two Allied planes and had killed 100 enemies.

"Girls with fluttering hearts and blushing cheeks caressed him with their warmest smiles and glances. Their presence frequently embarrassed him. He would find himself surrounded by bevies of them, and every time he sought escape from the charming but somewhat terrifying circle, he looked into glowing eyes, all carrying the same avowal of adoration. Girls could make Richthofen blush with one tender glance. By their presence alone the girls could bring blushes to the cheeks of a man who had faced death so often without a change in countenance."

REALLY MODERN HOSPITAL

Ten miles of wire and about 1000 electrical outlets in the new Christ's Hospital in Topeka, Kan., makes electric service complete in every corner of the institution. The whole building is equipped with an emergency connection to a huge storage battery but the electrical feature that makes the hospital outstanding is that there is a special wire circuit to the building for X-ray work. Sockets are provided in every corridor for connecting portable X-ray machines so that these can be taken to any bedside, thus making it unnecessary for patients to be moved. Elevators are operated automatically by electricity and the lighting equipment throughout the building from boiler room to operating room is most elaborate.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (Exclusive)—Liverpool's rise of 30 to 32 of their points in the early trading in cotton there today, was the equivalent of about 30 of our points more than due from that market to make a full response to our closing advance of 40 to 55 points on yesterday's late rally from the low prices here of the forenoon. This, with the sharp drop in temperatures over the central and eastern parts of the belt to near the light frost stage for Northern Alabama and the Western Part of Georgia and North Carolina started our market strong with a further rise of 10 to 15 points from yesterday's final prices.

It brought October contracts here up to about 20 5-8 cents, December and January to near 21 cents, March above 21 1-4 cents and May contracts to 21½ cents. The market was unable to hold this gain, however, because of the renewal of southern selling of a hedging character, which the rise brought out, and also some fresh scattered local liquidation.

As the market receded from the effects of this pressure and the very favorable weather over the greater part of the belt, except for the unseasonably cool temperatures at present, there was a good deal of selling by local trade buyers of early yesterday.

Under these conditions the market slowly reacted after mid-day to 15 and 20 points under yesterday's closing and 30 to 35 from the early high levels of this morning. On this setback October reacted to 20 3-8 cents, December and January to near 20 5-8, March 20.95 cents and May to 21 1-8 cents before enough new trade buying developed to check the slump and rally prices back to about yesterday's closing in the last hour.

As our market declined Liverpool futures reacted from their early strength and closed barely steady at the bottom at 18 to 15 points net advance on the day against 16 to 18 they should to have met our closing yesterday.

The frost predicted for Northern Arkansas yesterday and the western part of North Carolina did not materialize. Temperatures were cool today over the greater part of this belt but were still above the light frost stage.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—About half of yesterday's estimated supply was late in arriving, mostly from the Intermountain States and Arizona. Steers and she stock were about evenly divided as to numbers with a fair assortment of the different grades of all classes being included. The better kinds of beef type cows and top medium and good grade steers generally commanded fully steady prices, while dairy type cows and plain half fat steers were a lower sellers on a steady-to-weak basis.

A small lot of weighty Utah steers in the late arrivals brought 10.50, with medium kinds at 9.50. Other medium and good steers that arrived late were still unsold at a late hour. Loads of medium California steers went over for 9.00, while three loads of Mexicans cashed from 8.00@8.25, the latter price taking two loads of Arizonas, while Imperials made the 8.00 figure. Late Wednesday a load of 981-pound Imperial steers cashed for 9.50, while a load of 825-pound Mexicans also from the Imperial Valley realized 8.40.

Half a load o fgood light Utah heifers in the late arrivals cashed for 8.50, while a load of weighty Wyoming cows turned for 7.75. A load of good 733-pound California heifers cashed for 7.75, with other lots of heifers down to 7.25. The price spread of 6.00@7.00 top in the bulk of yesterday's she stock supply, including four loads of Central California cows averaging from 826 to 969 pounds at 6.75. Most of the dairy type cows went over from 5.50@7.00, with a few individuals higher, while trading on this class of cows was slow and weak at the close. Calfers cashed mostly from 4.00@5.00, with low cutters from 2.50@3.50. Bulls, in light supply, ruled firm, the majority, medium to good kinds, selling from 5.50@6.25.

CALVES—The small supply offered in this division was cleaned up readily at generally steady prices. Odd lots of vealers cashed from 11.00@12.00, while a load of plain 263-pound averages went over for 10.50. Common and medium calves, including heavies, turned mostly from 6.50@9.50.

HOGS—The majority of yesterday's estimated supply was late in arriving and with rather narrow demand a slow and draggy trade was the result. Early sales were generally 25c lower with only a partial clean-up being made. The top was 13.75, paid for a load of the late arrivals. A load of mixed 140-pound weights turned for 13.25. Packing sows were in light supply from 9.00@10.00.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—Buying in the bond market today centered in a few high-grade railroad liens and one or two public utilities. Trading was in fairly large volume compared with recent sessions but failed to come up to yesterday's figure. Money conditions remained virtually unchanged but continued high prices offered for bonds of the best degree were a little more successful in bringing out offerings.

New high prices were established during the brisk trading in such railroad mortgages as Chesapeake Corporation 5s and Chicago and Eastern Illinois 5s, while Chicago and North Western 4½s and Western Maryland 5½s duplicated former peaks for the year. Convertible rails reflected the selling of stocks.

Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania and Utah Power and Light featured the utility division, both selling into new high ground. Industrials inclined to heaviness, with offerings heaviest in such issues as Goodyear 5s and Hudson Coal 5s.

Mexican securities, which displayed strength after the announcement of Dwight W. Morrow's appointment of Ambassador to Mexico, were subjected to realizing, declining in some instances as much as a point and a half. Easing tendencies ruled most of the foreign group.

Second Liberty 4¼s were again in supply, getting down to 100⅝ and there was some liquidation of the Fourth Liberty 4¼s as well.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. (r) signifies transaction, the other is omitted when the same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

Harry B. Mills of the local chapter and Mr. George M. Thompson, chairman of the special committee for the entertainment of the delegates in Los Angeles, have charge of today's program and elaborate plans have been made. The program includes a tour of the residential section of Los Angeles, and visits through motion-picture sutdios in Hollywood, after which a trip will be made through Beverly Hills to the beaches, through Palos Verdes, visiting the Los Angeles Harbor, and to Long Beach.

This evening, an informal banquet is to be given the delegates at the Hotel Virginia in Long Beach. Lieut.-Gov. Pitts will deliver the address of welcome.

Bureau Chief Speaks in East

Ferris Miller, manager of the Better Business Bureau of the Advertising Club of Los Angeles, who is in attendance at the national convention of bureau managers in New York this week, responded to the official welcome extended by Acting Mayor Carrigan at the New York City Hall yesterday.

Following the official reception the bureau managers were luncheon guests at the New York Stock Exchange where several speakers paid high tribute to the success of the better-business bureaus throughout the country in combating fraudulent stock operations. Manager Miller will remain in the East about two weeks.

First Evidence Taken in Suit to Oust Pastor

After two days of legal argument, the first testimony was heard yesterday in the suit to oust Rev. William S. Dysinger from the First English Evangelical Lutheran Church, which went to trial Tuesday before Judge Desmond in Superior Court.

Dr. Dysinger testified as to the manner in which the membership records are kept. Little testimony will be heard, the issues centering principally on law points.

The synod of the church several months ago removed Dr. Dysinger, but the majority of his own congregation promptly changed its constitution, denying the right of the synod to govern it in that respect. As the suit is for an injunction to restrain Dr. Dysinger from going upon the church property, numerous close questions of the manner in which title to church property is held are presented.

Builder Asks Angelenos to Pay Dam Visit

Carl Pleasant, the engineer-builder, for whom the Lake Pleasant dam in Arizona is named, is registered at the Biltmore, to extend invitations for a delegation of city, county, State and Federal officials to visit Arizona and attend the dedication of the dam in the near future.

Just completed near Bardsley, thirty miles from Phoenix, the Lake Pleasant dam is 2600 feet long and towers 258 feet above bed rock. It cost $4,500,000, and will form a reservoir on the Agua Fria River eight miles long and two miles wide. It impounds 173,500 acre feet of water.

Pleasant completed the dam three months ahead of schedule. The first shovel of earth was lifted on May 14, 1926, actual construction started on June 19, 1926, and the structure was completed on the 17th inst.

He was treated by Police Surgeon Renfrew at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital and then transferred to Angelus Hospital. His condition is not serious.

Duffey, general passenger agent of the Santa Fe Railroad.

Fire of undetermined origin damaged a two-story building and apartment-house at 7859½ Melrose avenue yesterday afternoon, resulting in a loss of about $5000.

Three explosions occurred during the fire, believed to have been caused by the ignition of small quantities of gasoline. The building is owned by Mike Maslich.

OIL MEN ADMIT GUILT IN FRAUD

Invader Promoters Enter Pleas Before James

Sentence and Probation for Quartet Given

Millionaire Ordered to Make Restitution to Victims

Pleas of guilty to eleven counts of using the mails to defraud were entered yesterday before United States District Judge James by B. Frank Wood, millionaire oil promoter of Muskogee, Okla., and three codefendants, L. C. Boyd, J. Leigh Nourse and Robert S. Ogilvy.

Immediately following his plea of guilty, Wood was sentenced to two years on each count, the first three counts to run consecutively and the last eight, concurrently. This means Wood would serve six years in Leavenworth prison, but Judges James suspended the last four years of the sentence and placed Wood on probation, the terms of which are that Wood must make restitution of all the properties of the Invader Oil Syndicate out of which he is asserted by the government to have defrauded investors. The millionaire also was fined $10,000.

Boyd, Nourse and Ogilvy each were sentenced to a year and a day and fined $500. Judge James suspended the sentence and fine of each of the defendants and placed them on probation for two years.

Wood, Boyd, Nourse and Ogilvy had entered pleas of not guilty. Two other defendants, Charles E. Zimmerman, New York advertising man, and Manley Board, former president of the now-defunct Exchange National Bank of Muskogee, pleaded guilty before the jury was selected. They are to be sentenced October 10.

The defendants in the case, characterized by the government as a $20,000,000 "sucker" oil game, were indicated on twelve counts of misuse of the mails. In reaching a compromise whereby the defendants pleaded guilty, John S. Pratt, special assistant to the Attorney General, agreed to the withdrawal of one count due to the death of a witness, whose testimony was essential.

Three brothers of B. Frank Wood, Owen A. Wood, Bert G. Wood and Otis Wood, are named in the indictment to which the six defendants here pleaded guilty, but they fought removal proceedings from Texas and Oklahoma to California. The three brothers, however, are said to face indictment in their own States.

Although the operations of the Invader Oil Syndicate centered in Texas and Oklahoma, the majority of the investors in the fraud were Southern Californians and the defendants were indicted by the Federal Grand Jury here.

TALMADGE MARRIAGE NEARS END

Constance About to Lose Capt. Mackintosh When Scottish Courts Speak

Constance Talmadge, film actress, is about to lose her second husband and lose him willingly via the usual divorce route.

Cabled dispatches from Edinburgh, Scotland, yesterday brought word that her divorce action against Capt. Alastair Mackintosh, the No. 2 on her matrimonial string, will be heard there shortly and that consequently the actress will return from Europe to Hollywood free and unincumbered.

Just when Connie will return, however, is a question, as are her future plans as regards matrimony.

She was married to Capt. Mackintosh February 27, 1926. It took but a few short months for divorce rumors to begin and a separation followed. Pialoglo, a cigarette manufacturer, whom she married in 1920, and discarded after about four months, when they separated. She was not divorced from the Greek cigarette producer until 1925 and subsequently regained her citizenship, lost through marriage.

JURY DIVIDED ON JACOBSON GUILT

Panel Reported Seven to Five for Conviction

Deliberations to be Resumed This Morning

Testimony of Councilman's Daughter Called For

Deadlocked seven to five after five and one-half hours of actual deliberation, the jury which heard the evidence at the trial of Councilman Carl I. Jacobson on a morals charge before Municipal Judge Willis was locked up at 9:15 o'clock last night at a downtown hotel and ordered to return to its efforts to reach a verdict at 9:30 a.m. today.

In a report made to Judge Willis at 5 p.m., Foreman Ida C. Creitz stated the jury was divided on the evidence concerning the intent of Councilman Jacobson when he left his home the evening of August 5, last, to visit the home of Mrs. Callie Grimes on Beagle street, where the pair were later arrested on vice charges.

The foreman requested that the transcript of the testimony of Miss Edna Jacobson, the Councilman's daughter, a co-ed at the University of California, be read again to the jury. The official transcript was read to the panel by Official Reporter Smith upon the orders of the court.

CONVICTION FAVORED

During the reading, courtroom observers gathered from the demeanor of the jurors that the seven-to-five deadlock meant the majority favored the conviction of Councilman Jacobson.

At 9 p.m. reports brought from the jury room by Bailiff Bredlinger told Judge Willis that no change had appeared in after-dinner balloting of the jurors and the court ordered them to the hotel. They had been out since 11:50 a.m.

While the jury was receiving instructions and deliberating on the case, Mrs. Grimes sustained burns on her face and arms at the home of her sister, Mrs. F. B. Cox, 800 Occidental Boulevard, when a flame from a gas stove flared out, inflicting the injuries and singeing her hair.

The burns, although painful, are not considered serious, and she was reported sufficiently recovered to face an operation for the removal of her tonsils today.

JACOBSON LISTENS INTENTLY

During the jury deliberations, Councilman Jacobson sat inside the courtroom railing with a friend and when the 5 o'clock report of the panel was made he strained forward eagerly and seriously to catch every word of the foreman speaking to the court. Mrs. Jacobson was not in attendance.

"We seem to be divided on the state of mind of the defendant at the time he left his home to go to the Grimes place. I suggest it would be advisable to have Miss Jacobson's testimony read to us," Mrs. Creitz stated.

In his instructions Judge Willis declared that inferences sustained by testimony and evidence are permissible, pointing out, however, that the failure of Councilman Jacobson to go on the stand in his own defense was not to be considered either for or against him in the deliberations toward arriving at a verdict.

Judge Willis instructed the jury that it was incumbent on the prosecution to prove the manner of house in which the asserted "resorting" took place. The ordinance, he explained, covers almost every structure and place of retirement except a private dwelling.

VIEWS ON ENTRAPMENT

As to the defense of entrapment which Councilman Jacobson's attorneys put forward as a part of an asserted frame-up, Judge Willis instructed the jurors that two conditions should be considered. They were:

(1.) That some official or someone in authority in the police department or an agent of that department "induced, persuaded and encouraged" Councilman Jacobson to "resort" to Mrs. Grimes's cottage.

(2.) That the defendant went to the Grimes house without intention to do a wrongful act, but that the crime and its subsequent commission originated in the mind of the police or their agent and was fostered by that factor.

Before the court's instructions were

The Lancer

ANOTHER prize fight like the one in Chicago last night never ought to be held.

Everything about it may have been honest and square; but there is too much money involved. When an ex-truck driver gets $1,000,000 cash and a graduate hobo gets $460,000 for thumping each other, it is decidedly "out of line"—as the sports say.

There are entirely too many slick young men hanging around who think that "I'll Put Twenty on the Red" is the national anthem.

REPORTERS LIVE AGAIN

The stories that preceded the fight indicate the necessity of bringing the lowly reporter back to life.

For a long time there has been a craze on the part of the newspaper-reading public for news written by the actors in the piece. Hence the hog wash that comes out under the impressive signatures of Mr. Dempsey and Mr. Tunney. It is not until a reporter like Paul Lowry gets back there that we get the breezy, shrewd gossip of the fracas.

As a literary artist, Mr. Dempsey is one of our best brake-beam riders.

A HERO OF PEACE

The wonderful thing about Lindbergh is that you can cheer for him without hearing the groans of the dying.

He is the only great national hero I can think of in the United States—or in the history of the world—whose heroism has had nothing to do with killing people.

The only life he risked was his own.

DILUTED INDIAN

It is announced that the Indian pageant is to be an annual affair at the Hollywood Bowl. Next time it is to be hoped there will be more real Indian; and not so much Indian "princess" warbling at grand pianos to advertise her concert tours. Incidentally, there isn't any such thing as an Indian "princess."

OLD-TIME VAMPS

Alma Whitaker's clever article raises the question—why we are interested only in the vamps of yesteryears.

That's easy; it's because they had no competition. Were Helen of Troy to return to life, she couldn't get an audience with a casting director in Hollywood. Du Barry wouldn't have a chance against Clara Bow.

The reason the beautiful vamp of our day has such hard sledding is the large supply of beautiful vamps.

SNOBS

There is a kind of nerve and impudence that leaves you stunned—as though a burglar were to wake you up in the middle of the night and ask if you would mind going down to exchange your watch for one he had seen in a jeweler's window.

That's what the foreign newspapers sound like in their comments on this Sacco-Vanzetti affair.

It appears that this isn't our country at all. We are only a species of janitor—keeping up the place for such foreigners as may take a notion to come over here later on.

OH, GOODIE!

Are we supposed to whoop with joy over the announcement that Los Angeles is to have the largest electric sign in the West? This town ought to have a semi-tropic charm that should pervade it—envelop it. Instead, they seem constrained to cut down every tree they can lay hands on and scarify the sky with hideous advertisements.

COURT AIDS AIR INDUSTRY

Judge Orders Suit Tried Soon in Order to Give Burdette Airlines Chance to Keep Going

So vital a matter of public policy is encouragement of the infant aeronautic industry that the courts will go out of their way to make the road smooth for it, Judge Gates in Superior Court ruled yesterday.

He made this declaration after listening to preliminary motions in a suit for an accounting of the affairs of the Burdette Airlines, which operates an airport at Ninety-first street and Western avenue. The concern is solvent but a dispute among partners or stockholders has involved it in litigation that threat to suspend its activities.

To obviate this danger Judge Gates made an order that the action shall be tried immediately, instead of waiting the months that might intervene before it would come up on the regular calendar. Therefore, it will go to trial in Department Thirty-four Monday. In the meantime, so that no interruption of service might ensue, the airport will be operated by the court itself through receivership.

"It appears that this concern has made a substantial advance in creating an air industry in Los Angeles and that the fruit of the effort expended heretofore is menaced by unfortunate litigation," Judge Gates observed. "In view of the particular importance to the commonwealth of early and extensive development of air transport in Southern California, the court feels that public policy demands that any start made shall be conserved. So this case will be heard and determined forthwith, and in the interim the court will, through its receiver, see that there is no interruption in the firm's activities."

Certain stockholders or partners—one of the main issues involved is whether the concern is a partnership or a corporation—have charged that the management is not making a correct accounting for assets and have sued to have such an account set up.

FILM PAIR ANNOUNCE TROTH

Neal Burns, Prominent Hollywood Bachelor, Confesses Plan to Become Benedict, Girl in the Case Being Joan Marquise, Screen Actress and Dancer

Neal Burns, one of the film colony's prominent banchelor, at last is going to join the ranks of the benedicts. And the girl in the case is Joan Marquise, screen and stage actress.

The engagement was announced last Saturday at a birthday party given by Burns at his home, 7218 Holly Drive, in honor of Miss Marquise, but not until yesterday was it publicly admitted by the principals.

Burns is a widely known screen comedian. In his earlier days he played juvenile leads at the Morosco and other Los Angeles theaters, and then went over to the films. At present he is under contract at the Christie studio, where Miss Marquise also plays.

The engagement is the culmination of a romance of more than a year. Miss Marquise is a member of a Denver family and came here recently. She was a dancing girl with the original Music Box Revue in Hollywood before going to the screen.

The couple said yesterday no date has been set as yet for their marriage.

When Burns placed a diamond engagement ring on Miss Marquise's finger it was the signal for his resignation as a member of Hollywood's famous "Love and Learn Club," of which he was a charter member.

BOX-LUNCH MAN SENTENCED

Judge Suspends Penalty but Denounces Caterer for Purveying of Poison Food

C. H. Francis, proprietor of a box-lunch factory, whose product is asserted to have poisoned two score persons who ate the lunches Tuesday, was given a two-year suspended sentence yesterday when he appeared in Municipal Judge Haas's court on a charge of selling food unfit for consumption.

Judge Haas declared that it was one of the most serious cases ever brought up in his court because of its far-reaching effects, but declared that he would follow the recommendations of Health Department officials and Deputy City Prosecutor Chotiner, who asked for the suspended sentence.

"If any similar occurrence happens within the next two years, however," the judge told Francis, "you will have to spend sixty days in the City Jail. If anyone should die from this food, of course, it will be a case of manslaughter."

Introduced as evidence was a box of spoiled meat that Chief City Food Inspector Siegel said he took from a tray in Francis's factory at Thirty-sixth Place and Avalon Boulevard. Francis declared the pieces were ends from a cutting machine which girl employees were saving for chicken feed. Health-department inspectors declared they found the factory in the main very clean but that Francis apparently had been negligent in placing too much confidence in employees.

All the victims of Tuesday's poisoning are reported well on the road to recovery, although four or five still are said to be quite ill.

NEW RESTHAVEN HOUSE OPENED

Reception Marks Completion of Worthy Project

Mrs. O. P. Clark Praised for Untiring Work

Philanthropy Proves Boon to Distressed Women

Resthaven is a beautiful name and a beautiful kindness is back of the name in Los Angeles.

MRS O.P. CLARK

For many years, a group of prominent women, headed by Mrs. O. P. Clark, have made it possible for women, who must work for a living, but whose nerves have failed them temporarily, or whose minds are less poised than normal to have a restful home where they might go for restoration to health. So wide did the philanthropy become in its scope that the old home was outgrown. Yesterday a new, bigger and better Resthaven was formally opened to the public, with Mrs. Clrak as the fairy godmother, for it is by her efforts the fine new structure is made possible.

EVERY DETAIL COMPLETE

At 765 College street a home complete in every detail to accommodate more women members of the Resthaven family than ever before, received hundreds of friends of the philanthropy from 3 until 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

"It is a pleasure to announce completion of the new building and its readiness for occupancy," said Mrs. Clark at the head of the receiving line, "we now have a Resthaven adequate to meet the present needs as well as those of some time to come. To those of you who so generously made this possible we are indeed glad to make a report to you personally and to thank you again for the donation to our building fund. If you could but know the gratitude of these women who would be committed to an insane asylum but for Resthaven, you would feel repaid."

In addition to the untiring devotion of Mrs. Clark throughout the summer, the group of directors has helped to make success possible. In addition to Mrs. Clark they are Mrs. William Baurhyte, Mrs. Martin G. Carter, Dr. H. Douglas Eaton and Stuart O'Melveny.

HANGS PICTURES

Mrs. Randall Hutchinson has devoted much time to selecting and hanging pictures. She has accomplished artistic results with the small amount of money the directors could spare for this purpose. There are two remarkable canvases on the walls of the new home by John Hubbard Rich and also a painting by Fannie Duvall entitled "Roman Forum."

The fund for the new home is complete with the exception of $2000 which it is hoped will be received within a few weeks.

Yesterday Resthaven was decorated with baskets of summer and early autumn flowers sent by friends of the home. A brief program was enjoyed and tea was served at the close of the afternoon.

ATTENDANCE AT COOKERY CLASS GAINS

Mrs. Wyman's Recipes and Demonstrations Attract Increasing Interest

Mrs. Mable Wyman's weekly Times Cooking Class this afternoon, 2 to 4 o'clock, in the patio of the Manufacturers Exhibit of Southern California, Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway, promises to exceed even the very unusual attendance of the past few weeks. The recipes demonstrated and distributed by Mrs. Wyman, with the aid of the food products on display in this permanent exposition of industrial progress always are very apropos to the season and meet with a wide popularity among her following in The Times columns and in her class work.

The Dangler Stove Company is offering a free stove to some visitor once each month in connection with these food classes, displays and demonstrations. This first stove is on display now and will become the property of one of the visitors on the afternoon of Friday, October 28. Friday, the 60th inst., will be food demonstration day for Southern California food manufacturers and distributors who wish to reach these Times Cooking Class visitors.

DESERT LIFE ENDS LOVE

Too Much Homesteading Gives Divorce to Wife

One homesteading job in a lifetime is enough, Mrs. Frances E. Wells declared to Judge Sproul in Superior Court yesterday, when she appeared with her attorney, Marion F. Betty, to obtain a divorce from Wellington Wells.

"We started to homestead one piece of land right after our marriage," she related. "He promised me that if I would stick it through we would move to the city as soon as we proved up. For seven years we stayed out in the desert. Finally we proved up and he turned right around and took up another claim. I stuck that through for another seven years. Now I'm through."

Judge Sproul agreed with her and granted the divorce.

SOCIETIES UNITE FOR MANAGEMENT WEEK

SUIT LINKS YOUTH AND AGE

Youngest Judge Hears Oldest Attorney

Judge Schauer and Attorney W. H. Savage

THE oldest lawyer at the Los Angeles bar faced the youngest judge on the Superior Court bench yesterday when Attorney W. H. Savage of San Pedro appeared before Judge Schauer to plead the cause of Mrs. Gertrude Louis, who wanted her marriage to J. J. Louis annulled.

Judge Schauer is 36 years of age. Attorney Savage, a former State Senator, is 90.

The case did not prosper. Maybe it would have had Mrs. Louis's mother's memory been as good as Attorney Savage's.

Mrs. Louis stated that she was 16 when she married without her parents' consent in 1916.

Then her mother took the stand to corroborate her testimony, and said that Mrs. Louis was born in 1896. Judge Schauer looked surprised and got out his pencil. Attorney Savage snorted and asked for a continuance of the proceedings.

"I want to see if I cannot get these people straightened out on the question of just how old my client is," he explained. The matter was continued.

OWNERSHIP CHANGES IN SMART SHOP

The Unique Passes Into Hands of New Yorkers; Policy to be as Formerly

Effecting the change so quietly that it has not been generally known, The Unique, women's apparel shop at 734 West Seventh street, has passed from the hands of Max and Louis Isaacs, its proprietors for many years, into those of the S. M. Goldberg Enterprise Company, a New York concern. The transaction was made August 1.

The Goldberg company has similar stores through the East and in San Francisco. It is announced by officials at the local store that The Unique will continue the same policies it has had in the past, but that some changes will be made which they consider added advantages and service to their patrons.

Greek Priest in Love Balm Suit

Charging the priest who married him with alienating the affections of his wife, Kanellos Stamatis yesterday filed suit in Superior Court for $25,000 damages against Joakeim Papadopoulos, 600 West Forty-first Place, said to be a priest of the Greek Orthodox Church.

The wife in the case is Mrs. Helen Stamatis, to whom Stamatis said he was married by the defendant in January, 1925.

The asserted alienation occurred last summer while Stamatis was in Arizona, according to the complaint, which recited that Mrs. Stamatis was visiting here and in San Diego at the time.

Stamatis declares the defendant exercised a "strange and supernatural" influence over Mrs. Stamatis which finally is said to have caused her to lose all love for her husband.

At Papadopoulos's home yesterday it was said he had gone to Mexico.

Sailors Nabbed on Rum Charges

With a two-weeks' furlough ahead of them and insufficient funds on hand to get them to San Francisco to see their sweethearts, Stanley Moore and Dan Hale, sailors attached to the Pacific Fleet, went into hip-pocket toting to alleviate their financial sufferings, according to arresting officers.

Through an operative of the police vice squad, Hale is asserted to have sold two pints of liquor Wednesday night in a local dance hall. It was his first "cash customer," he told Policeman Smith, arresting officer.

Appearing before Municipal Judge Sheldon yesterday, the sailors pleaded not guilty to the charge and requested a trial by jury, which was set for October 18.

NINETY-FIRST DIVISION TO CELEBRATE FEATS

Memories of eventful days of nine years ago will be recalled by Southern California veterans of the Ninety-first Division at a reunion tomorrow in Patriotic Hall, 1816 South Figueroa street. Meeting at 1 p.m., the former doughboys will celebrate the victories won by their organization in the four major offensives of the World War in which they participated. Similar celebrations will be held in San Francisco and Tacoma. Veterans of the Ninety-first, which was the only combat division in the American overseas army from the Pacific Coast, are coming to the reunion from San Diego, Santa Ana, San Bernardino, Riverside, Ventura and other Southern California towns.

CIRCUS MAN PAYS HEAVY TAX CLAIM

Al G. Barns Settles Suit Over Income With Check for $145,000

With the payment of $145,000 additional income and Federal corporation taxes to United States Attorney McNabb yesterday, Alpheus George Barnes Stonehouse, better known as Al G Barnes, of circus fame, ended his litigation with the government arising over the government's demand for additional taxes.

McNabb turned the check over to Collector of Internal Revenue Welch, who immediately ordered the withdrawal of the liens filed against Barnes's property.

Two years ago Barnes was indicted by the Federal grand jury on charges of perjury and subornation as a result of his filing of his income tax report. A civil suit was filed against him seeking to collect additional income taxes and penalties, making a total of $205,000.

A compromise was entered by Mr. McNabb and Barnes whereby the circus man pleaded guilty to the indictment and he was fined $5000. At the same time Barnes agreed to pay the government $145,000 in the civil action.

given Deputy City Prosecutor Barnes closed the arguments. He asserted the defense had thrown up a "smoke screen to befog your eyes and cloud your judgment. All the questions of the defense have been insinuations."

DIDN'T CALL WOMAN

"The defense has asked why Mrs. Grimes was not called to the stand by the prosecution. I'll tell you why, because she was under subpoena by the defense and they did not use her. They didn't want her," he declared, "because she would have told the truth."

Barnes referred to the biblical story of Joseph and Potiphar's wife, which was told in an argument by Defense Counsel Hilton, comparing Joseph's plight with the asserted entrapment of Councilman Jacobson by a woman. Barnes, however, renamed Joseph in his version, calling him "Jacob."

"When defense counsel left us with Jacob?" the young prosecutor declared, "Mrs. Potiphar was holding his tunic and he was running. When he left us with his client, Mr. Jacobson was half-clad with his trousers, comparable to Jacob's tunic, neatly folded on a chair underneath Mrs. Grimes's clothing."

Barnes then referred to Councilman Jacobson's purported statements to Dist.-Atty. Keyes the night the former was arrested. The prosecutor quoted the Councilman as saying at that time, concerning questions relating to his uncled condition, that: "I'll tell about that at the proper time."

"THE PROPER TIME"

"I am wondering when this proper time comes," Barnes said. "He was accused of it and made no denail. No innocent man would be accused so foully and remain silent. It's quite natural he would come into this court and attempt to bluff this thing out."

Each side was assigned three hours each for argument and the time was consumed in each instance. The trial has been proceeding before Judge Willis since the 6th inst., although there have been some delays due to holidays.

The complaint on which Councilman Jacobson was brought to court asserts he "resorted" to the home of Mrs. Grimes 4372 Beagle street, August 5, last, for a wrongful purpose. It was signed by Detective Lieutenant Lucas.

On the night of August 5, Lucas, with Capts. Wallis and Williams and Detective Raymond, raided the hillside cottage of the woman and testified they found the Councilman sitting on her bed clad only in his underwear, shirt, collar and necktie, while she was without clothing. He was subsequently placed in jail and released on $500 bail.

SUSPECT IN MATRIMONY BUNKO HELD

Lonesome Bachelor Says He Paid Fee to Get Wife But No Prospects Came

Accused of obtaining money from lonesome bachelors on the pretense of finding wives for them, Hayward Doxie, 50 years of age, was taken into custody by Detective Lieutenants Reed and Edwards yesterday and booked at City Jail on suspicion of bunko.

Complaint against the prisoner was made by Thomas Spence of 333 South Spring street, who is said to have paid Doxie $10 to find him a wife, becoming suspicious when he was asked for $3 more as a marriage-license fee, according to police. Doxie is accused of writing letters to other bachelors here, signing the fictitious name of "Miss Ethel Whitters," and muleting them for various amounts of money.

Youth to Hear Divorce Judge

Superior Judge Schauer, who is engaged every day in unmarrying people, will sit in the chancel at the Youth Forum at the Wilshire Boulevard Congregational Church Sunday night with Dr. Frank Dyer and will open the discussion on Judge Lindsey's companionate marriage plan. Judge Schauer will give his opinion as to whether Judge Lindsey's proposal will cure the trouble.

Dr. Dyer sat in Judge Schauer's court for one session this week where several marriages were ended.

Dr. Dyer will continue his address on Judge Lindsey's marriage plan: "Shall we have one kind of marriage or two?"

Suspect Freed After Brief Stay in County Jail

After spending a short time in the County Jail yesterday A. M. Irelan was released last night after a conference of deputy sheriffs and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Scheinman.

Ireland was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Hoffman and Kaltoff at the request of authorities at Fayetteville, Ark., on a charge of embezzlement. Frank W. Ellis, a deputy sheriff in Fayetteville, now here, is said to have charged that Irelan defrauded him of several carloads of peaches valued at $1450, but said the asserted offense dated back twelve years.

Women desiring to enter the classes in physical education at Los Angeles Evening High School, 4600 Country Club Drive, may register Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7 o'clock, it was announced yesterday. OIL MAN'S SPOUSE GETS FINAL DECREE

Mrs. Jeanette Getty

The ties that for the past year have bound Mrs. Jeannette Getty in a state of suspended matrimony with J. Paul Getty, widely known oil producer, were completely severed yesterday when Presiding Judge Burnell signed a final decree of divorce for her on the motion of her attorney, Joseph Marchetti.

On September 17, 1926, Mrs. Getty obtained an interlocutory decree on a charge of desertion. The couple were married October 2, 1923, and separated February 15, 1925. They have one child.

A former divorce action, in which Mrs. Getty made numerous charges of cruelty, was dismissed, and a property settlement was effected out of court.

Transportation Course Tonight

Surveys of many problems confronting various agencies of transportation will be made in a course in transportation which opens tonight at the extension division, University of California, in the Hillstreet Building.

D.F. PEGRUM.

Dudley F. Pegrum, Ph.D., instructor in economics at the University of California at Los Angeles, and for a number of years connected with the Canadian National Railways, has charge of the course.

The classwork includes a general historical and contemporaneous survey of transportation problems; railways, ocean carriers and highways are considered with respect to their economic characteristic and their problems of management. Rate making, valuation and public regulation are given attention. The transportation service is described in its relation to present-day business structures and problems.

New Shelter for Women and Girls Opened

A new mission and home for women and girls, said to be the only place of its kind in the city, has been established at 217½ South Spring street, under the name of Christ Faith Mission and Home and Institute.

Clothing, food, shelter and employment are furnished to the needy and helpless and Bible classes are conducted every afternoon.

Miss Arglee F. Green is in charge as superintendent and reports that from thirty to fifty women and girls have been sheltered or fed almost every day since the Mission opened its doors some six weeks ago.

Woods Held in Liquor Murder

Ray Woods, accused of the murder of John Dixon, alias John Lawrence, during an argument over the quality of various brands of bootleg liquor, was arraigned yesterday in Superior Judge Stephen's court. His trial was set for Monday.

Ora Bryan Butcher is being sought in connection with the killing of Dixon, who was stabbed during a brawl in an apartment on South Grand avenue on July 7, last.

BANDIT GOSSIPS WITH VICTIM

Talks About Weather and Fight While Robbing Milk Plant

A pleasant conversational bandit who interspersed comments on the weather, the big fight, and the nation's prosperity with a hold-up job, entered the milk bottling plant of Morris Edelman, 4341 Sunset Boulevard, yesterday afternoon, while the proprietor was busy putting up a supply of milk, and took $550 from him at the point of the gun.

With the apparent intention of alleviating the painfulness of the business in hand, the bandit kept up a running fire of light chatter on topics of the day until he had relieved Mr. Edelman of his cash, when he backed out the door with a polite bow and disappeared down the street.

The bandit wore sun goggles and was aided by an accomplice who stood guard outside the door to see that no one interrupted the conversation.

PRISON DECREED FOR EX-CASHIER

S. D. Orrell Sentenced to San Quentin

Sum of $244,000 Involved in Embezzlements

Loss of Funds in Stock Trading Admitted

Schuyler D. Orrell, former cashier for E. F. Hutton & Co., brokers, yesterday was sentenced by Judge Bishop of Superior Court to serve from one to ten years in San Quentin on two counts of embezzlement to which he had pleaded guilty. Eighteen other counts were dismissed on motion of the District Attorney.

Approximately $244,000 was said to have been involved in Orrell's asserted manipulations of the accounts of the brokerage firm for which he worked.

Sentence to the penitentiary yesterday marked an end to Orrell's dream of winning a fortune on the stock exchange through the use of funds intrusted to him. Although his asserted defalcations are said to have continued over a period of two years, Orrell always failed to "take" the market for the winning he expected would enable him to cover up his shortages and leave him wealthy.

Orrell had filed an application for probation, which was denied after Judge Bishop had reviewed all the facts in the case. The court granted a ten-day stay of execution of sentence on motion of Defense Attorneys Howell Richardson and Jerry Giesler.

WOOLWINE'S BODY SENT FROM PARIS

Report That Remains Will be Cremated Doubted by Nephew Residing Here

Advices received from Paris yesterday stated that the body of William David Woolwine, II, prominent in Los Angeles financial circles, will be returned to this city for burial, leaving Cherbourg on the S.S. Aquitania tomorrow and arriving at New York on the 30th inst. The Paris dispatch further stated that the body will be cremated at Paris, but this statement lacked confirmation locally.

Clare Woolwine, local attorney and nephew of the deceased, stated last night that a cablegram had been received stating that the body will be returned, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Banks, son-in-law and daughter who had accompanied him on his visit abroad. Relative to the report of cremation, Mr. Woolwine said nothing had been stated in this cablegram, adding that he doubted very much the truth of such a report.

Arrangements for the funeral will be made upon the arrival of the body, according to relatives and business associates of Mr. Woolwine.

ARMY QUARTERMASTER MEETINGS OPEN SOON

The first of the series of quartermaster training conferences, formerly known as the winter Plattsburg, will be held on the evening of October 4 in the Pacific-Southwest Bank Building, Sixth and Spring streets. The first subject to be taken up for study and discussion will be "Mobilization." The conferences will be held on the first and third Tuesdays until next spring. Another important matter to be discussed by the regular army and reserve quartermaster officers at the initial conference will be plans for the entertainment of one of the highest ranking officers of the United States Army who will be a Los Angeles visitor October 11.

Piano Company Head Visits City

Harry W. Gennett, president of the Starr Piano Company of Richmond, Ind., arrived here last night with his wife and family to visit branches of his company in Southern California. He says he is amazed at the progress made in Los Angeles and its neighboring cities since his last visit several years ago. Mr. Gennett and his family are guests at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. M. Thompson, 1701 West Fifty-third street.

REALTY OFFICIALS TO ATTEND MEETING HERE

Midwest visitors, including Clarence C. Hieatt of Louisville, president of the National Realty Board; Mrs. Hieatt and Herbert Nelson of Chicago, national executive secretary of the organization, and Mrs. Nelson, will be personal guests of Harry H. Culver, president of the Los Angeles Realty Board, and Mrs. Culver, during the sessions of the State realty convention in Santa Monica next month. Entertainment is being arranged for the visitors, including a tanquet of 2000 covers, at the new Deauville Beach Club in Sant Monica, the night of October 14.

"BATTLE" FOR A BRIDE

A curious marriage custom persists in Abchasia, a district of the Caucasus. On the wedding day at dusk the bridegroom, supported by a bodyguard of friends, all fully armed, rides up to the house, dismounts, and hammers on the door with a dagger hilt.

The door opens to reveal the bride's male relatives, just as ferociously equipped, and the two parties promptly join in a mock combat.

Eventually the refenders retire, the bridegroom rushes in, seizes his bride, flings her across his shoulder, and, carrying her out, leaps on his horse and gallops off with his capture to the accompaniment of the victorious yells of his supporters.

The custom persists because the girls like it. The event is always followed by a drinking bout, which makes the custom also popular among the men.

Miss Lucille Atcherson, first woman to be appointed to the United States Foreign Service, has resigned as Third Secretary of the Legation at Panama City.

DUN COSTLY TO MRS. DUNN

Sues Former Tenant for Broken Pitcher, Loses Case and Then Pays Out $25 in Fine

When Mrs. Ethel Dunn brought suit for $5 damages in Small Claims Court against Mrs. Hattie Shepherd, a neighbor, for the asserted destruction of a pitcher on August 19, last, little did she know that the process of law would set her back $36.

Mrs. Dunn paid $1 for filing the suit on August 20, last; yesterday she furnished $25 when Municipal Judge Rosenkrans heard her guilty plea on a battery charge, preferred by her old-time rival in litigation, Mrs. Shepherd.

The neighborly warfare had its inception on Jefferson street, near Normandie avenue, after Mrs. Shepherd's small daughter is asserted to have heaved a brick through a window of the Dunn home, breaking a pitcher in its flight.

Then Mrs. Dunn sued in the Small Claims Court. Municipal Judge Bogue ruled that insufficient evidence had been offered to prove loss of the pitcher and gave the verdict to Mrs. Sheffield, but not until Mrs. Dunn let go a hefty right to the Sheffield jaw and disrupted the peace and quietude of the courtroom.

Mrs. Sheffield reciprocated by filing a battery charge against Mrs. Dunn, and further threatened to tie up the Small Claims Court by subpoenacing Judge Bogue, Clerk Schwartz and other court attaches as witnesses.

But when Mrs. Dunn's case was called in Division Six yesterday, the defendant pleaded guilty to the charge and paid the fine, suffering a net loss of $31.

ILLINOISANS TO DANCE

Former Assistant United States Attorney Lynn William Price of Chicago will speak on "Illinois Today" preceding the State Society's dance tonight at 1137 South Hope street. Entertainment including a minstrelette is being arranged for the occasion.

HONEYMOONERS OFF

Scenario Writers Taking Delayed Trip Into Canada

Another of Hollywood's "marry in haste and honeymoon at leisure" couples will begin a deferred wedding trip tomorrow when Beatrice Van and James Gruen, scenario writers, sail for Canada.

Miss Van and Gruen, who are both in the scenario department of the Universal studios, were married several months ago. They intended taking a wedding trip shortly after the marriage but a sudden assignment prevented.

They will leave tomorrow for a three-weeks' trip in Canada. Part of the time will be spent on a small island, off the mainland, which is owned by friends of the couple. They have stated they will return with ideas for film stories of the North.

CHARGE CONFESSED

Accused Pleads Guilty to Destroying Record of His Marriage

Clarence Sanchez, asserted to have removed a page from the county records chronicling data of his marriage to Miss Rita McCoy, yesterday pleaded guilty in Judge Bishop's court to a charge of destroying public records.

Sanchez was quoted as saying he removed the page so he could be married under another name. He filed application for probation which will come before the court Monday for hearing.

DEYAGER CONVICTED OF ARSON

Jury Requests Leniency in Case of South Gate Volunteer Fire Chief

Peter De Yager, former chief of a voluntary fire department at South Gate, yesterday was convicted in Judge Aggeler's court of second-degree arson. It was his second trial, the jury in the first case having failed to reach an agreement.

De Yager was asserted to have fired a building in the suburban city in an effort to create interest in the organization of a regular fire department.

The convicted man will come before the court Monday for sentence. In its verdict the jury recommended leniency.

REFORESTATION TOPIC OF ROTARY LECTURE

Forestry and reforestation in the Sierra Pine and in the Coast Redwood districts will be discussed at the meeting of the Rotary Club at the Biltmore at noon today when the club will have as its principal speaker Winfield Scott of San Francisco. Scott, who is in Southern California for the California Forest Protective Association, will illustrate his talk with slides, showing many phases of forest operations and the measures being taken for fire protection and timber replacement in the Sierras.

BULLOCK'S

*Collegienne Sportswear Scores at First Game

An interesting group, sportively costumed to inaugurate the first smartness of the football season at the very first game.

One may well imagine when they root for the players the strategy of the opposing team is of no avail. Such sportive attire is the rule rather than the exception in Bullock's *Collegienne shops on the fifth floor. In this football picture they are wearing—

The molded Cossak Coat of Russian Pony in the foreground is eager to attend the first game. It is collared and cuffed in mole dyed brown to blend. It is belted in bolster fashion. The moon-shaped patch pockets are new, too. Even its lining of alligator patterned crepe is new. *Collegienne type. $410.00.

Second in the picture is the Tunic Frock, of Russian inspiration, a *Collegienne type that would score a touchdown of smart sophistication on any sports field. Of herringbone tweed as light as thistledown. Bone buttons. Suede belt. Inaugural price, $25.

The seasoned football star might well make a grandstand play to attract the interest of the *Collegienne to the right, intent on the game. Her black coat's smartness lies in its contrasting charm—Honey Fox collar and cuffs to offset sombre black. Honey beige crepe lining. $100.00.

The knowingly smart Leopard Cat coat in the background has spots that run in beautifully toned lines at intervals, which would seem to indicate that contrary to tradition, a leopard does change its spots. Nutria collar and cuffs. Lined with dull tan crepe that blends. A *Collegienne model that plays the smart sports game well. $410.00.

Play Boy hats are worn by three of the *Collegiennes sketched. Styles typically Californian. Smart for sports, motoring and travel. The model to right wears a trim little silhouette hat. Styles adapted from French models.

*Collegienne is a trade-mark name, registered by Bullock's.

NEED NOT GLOAT

It is all right for a vegetarian to be what he is, but when he gets so he boasts of it he is in a fair way to become a nuisance.

SCOTT UP TO DATE

The stag at eve had drunk his fill
Of Adam's ale, not of the swill
Bootleggers sell to people dense;
He was a stag—he had more sense.

HARD BOILED

Both hard-boiled eggs and people have their place in life. Getting hard-boiled is the one way to prevent frauds, fakes and flatterers from imposing on you.

NOT SO EASY

Nowadays almost any flapper will say that she understands men thoroughly. But really the girls in the telephone offices have the most trouble in the understanding.

COVER CHARGE

Someone says it were better did our women put less on their backs and more in the banks. There may be some question about this, but perhaps we can compromise. Perhaps both can be accomplished.

STRONG-ARMED WOMEN

The women who are taking up boxing and wrestling are not making so much of a hit with the men who crave a cosy home. A prospective husband hesitates before escorting a possible welterweight champion into his flat. He might go out through the window.

SKINNING THE CAT

Soviet Russia is reported as paying about 50 cents a pelt for cats and making them up into overcoats. How long can they keep this up? The Russia of the immediate future will be warm but poor. The Communists must be skinning something all the time.

HAD SO MANY CHILDREN

According to the records of an Irish hospital a Galway woman had had twins and triplets within eight months. This means five children in less than a year, which sounds like a marvelous record. Women on this side of the pond are interested but have no wish to emulate.

PICKING CITIZENS

The House Committee on Immigration proposes laws or amendments which would deny or deprive foreign-born residents of a citizenship in this country if they gave allegiance to Communism, Fascism or any alien political creed. While we are picking citizens we may as well have them sane and safe. There is no reason why we should be liberal with those who give combat to our brand of government.

THE GUILTY CARROT!

And now they are blaming the high cost of shoes on the vegetarians! The National Shoe Retailers' Association, seriously and solemnly, announced in New York that because people are eating so many carrots and so much spinach they have left off eating beef, and that with the fewer cattle killed the price of leather increases, and we pay for the beefsteaks we don't eat when we buy our Deauville sandals.

A SMOCK MARRIAGE

As explained by the Pathfinder, a smock marriage is a wedding at which the bride wears nothing but a smock or shift, and the information is further vouchsafed that generations ago it was widely believed in New England that if a woman were married in this manner she was freed from liability for her past debts. An easy form of repudiation. Well, anyway, a smock marriage is better than a mock marriage.

THE LOST HOPE

In practically every country in the world in which overtures have been made organized labor has refused to make alliance with the Commune. This was about the only avenue open to the soviet leaders for an extension of their sphere beyond the Russian border. Now it seems to be definitely closed. The labor program is not in the keeping of the radicals, by a long shot. The man who has a job and really works cannot afford to become bedfellow with anarchy.

HASTY WEDDINGS

Some feverish complaints about the workings of the new marriage registration law have already been raised. But they are altogether the utterances of those who are ignorant of the measure. Once the law has been thoroughly understood lovers will be able to adjust themselves to it with little difficulty. The idea of giving everybody a chance to stop, look and listen before the knot is tied may save many future heartaches. The tendency is to make marriage harder and divorce easier. After all this is in the interest of peace in the American home.

LINDBERGH ON AIRPORTS

It is becoming recognized that it as much the duty of a municipality to provide facilities for air travel as it is to have public streets, and the admonition of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh that Los Angeles must provide itself with an adequate and suitable landing field was not, or at any rate should not have been, necessary. But if the demonstration Tuesday speeds up the City Council's rather slow processes in the airport matter it will have served a good turn, in addition to being worth while for its own sake.

Through it we have the testimony of one aviation expert whose disinterestedness cannot be questioned, on the suitability of Vail Field for the purpose. True, the nation's youngest colonel did not inspect the other fields offered, but he had no hesitation in declaring the field on which he landed a good one: "good, better than the average landing field, especially in its length" was his terse comment.

Concerning airports in general he said that it is important to broaden out commercial land aviation until people come to depend upon it as the fastest form of transportation, and that a municipal airport in every city is needed to put commercial aviation upon the basis it should be.

"Airports are the most important factor in the development of aviation, while the second most important factor is the construction of passenger and express air liners," he continued. "If you expect to keep your city on the air map it will be necessary for you to construct a municipal airport."

He might have added that this construction might be twice done by doing it quickly, with considerable truth, since the development of the various industries incidental to aviation is being retarded here by the lack of decision concerning the site of what will necessarily become the city's air center, and near which these industries will naturally prefer to be located.

The suitability of Vail Field for airport purposes was proved in another respect when Col. Lindbergh arrived there, that of ability to handle a vast crowd. There were more than 200,000 spectators around the port, and yet there was not the slightest difficulty about handling them, and the transportation facilities proved adequate. Every step in the Lindbergh arrival, parade and reception was taken on schedule time, a feat which would not have been possible had the field not been well located with respect to the business center. Lindbergh's own punctuality in arriving at the designated spot was matched by the precision with which the local arrangements were carried out.

If Vail Field, developed only partially as it is, is "good, better than the average;" if it is well located with respect to the business area, as Tuesday's events appear to prove, two of the major questions that the City Council has before it would appear to be answered. The Council may be able to find a still better site, but there is evidently no necessity for taking too much time about it, and little mistake could be made in any event by selecting Vail Field now.

NOT COMPLETE

One of the local educational institutions proposes a course in municipal administration, designed for public officials. It would be difficult, of course, to cover the whole subject completely in the brief time available but, at that, there appear to have been some startling omissions from the curriculum. It is like playing Hamlet without any Danish characters at all to leave out such subjects as how to build a $500,000 storm sewer and make it cost $1,000,000, how to put off selecting an airport, ways and means of running municipally owned industries so they will have a maximum number of employees with votes, how to please the patent paving companies and how to rig the civil service by putting most of the positions in the exempt class.

There also should be lectures on how to make concrete piling more expensive, how to discharge harbor engineers who won't help your friends get all the contracts, and how to keep men on the Police Commission after the Council has rejected them. The technique of beating referendums by passing emergency ordinances in the absence of an emergency deserves careful study. Then there is the subject of how to borrow money when the voters say you can't and the allied subject of how to build a steam electric plant that you are under contract not to construct, that the courts say you haven't the money for and that you have been specifically forbidden at your own pet election to start work on.

Organizing department employees into a soviet is a specialized branch which should by no means be left out. Then there are the various forms of councilmanic log-rolling which the district system makes possible and which should be taken up in detail. Allied with this is the study of methods for holding up the improvement of a street in the hope you can get it rerouted through a subdivision in which you are interested. How to boost the tax rate should be a very popular course.

However, perhaps these subjects are omitted because the instructors feel that Los Angeles public officials are already too familiar with them.

THE PAST IS DEAD

President Von Hindenberg of Germany felt it his duty at the dedication of the monument commemorative of his victory at Tannenberg again to deny that Germany was responsible for the outbreak of the World War. For some years historians have been busy searching the archives of the various nations taking part in the early stages of the war for evidence bearing on its causes and publishing such conclusions as seemed to them justified. Certainly very few—if any—whose opinion is worth having, have changed their previous opinions by reasons of such disclosures. The citizens of the Central Powers, no less than those of the Triple Entente, applaud those writers who throw the onus of war guilt on the other side, but that satisfaction is poor return for the rankling memories aroused.

Preferable are the judicious conclusions of M. Briand, who discouraged a suggested commission to investigate charges and counter-charges in Belgium on the simple ground that such commission would serve no good purpose but would only revive memories of a past that the world is trying to dismiss. In national affairs, no less than in personal matters, those who would make real progress must face forward and "let the dead past bury its dead."

On the Trail Again

[Copyright, 1927, by Public Ledger]

THE FENCE PROBLEM

The only nation-wide and definite organizations of criminals in the United States are the buyers and sellers of stolen property, the National Crime Commission concludes after careful study and research. These leagued criminals, with appendant local bands of robbers and burglars, are held responsible by the commission for a large percentage of the crimes against property, and if they were put out of business most crime would disappear, the commission believes.

In stating the problem, the commission adds that the laws against fences, as these receivers are commonly called, are wholly inadequate to reach them, and the punishment accorded by the courts in the rare case of a conviction on a charge of criminally receiving stolen property is entirely too lenient. As a result, the commission has set itself the task of considering what changes in the laws and in public opinion are necessary. It is hoped to have a program ready for submission to the winter sessions of various State legislatures this year, but the problem is a big one and it can hardly be solved all at once.

Co-operating with the commission, the National Association of Credit Men has named the study committee, adopting an innovation which is itself very interesting. Instead of appointing lawyers, the association has placed business men in a majority on the committee, which is to report at a meeting in Washington next month. This is appropriate, since the problem is essentially one of business. The direct loss, all of which falls on business, is not less than $500,000,000 annually, and the indirect losses, which fall upon business and the public, are incalculable.

The fence problem, of course, is as old as crime itself, since without the means of disposing quickly of stolen goods crime would be without object. Tersely stated, the commission's object is to prevent crime by taking the profit out of it. By aiming directly at that result, the commission is trying to take a shortcut that may prove impracticable, but which on the other hand may succeed where other methods have failed.

The committee may be encouraged by the demonstration of what has been done in the case of automobile thievery, largely by co-operation between manufacturers, dealers, automobile clubs and insurance companies. Cars are still stolen, but in no such proportionate volume as they were a few years ago, and fewer and fewer cars are taken with a view to resale. The Dyer Act passed by Congress, making interstate transportation of stolen vehicles a Federal crime, has helped, but the largest factor has been the improvement in methods of marking cars for easy identification and in methods of disseminating information about thefts.

To what extent this principle can be applied to other manufactured commodities remains to be seen.

WILLIAM D. WOOLWINE

Banking circles both in Los Angeles and San Diego read yesterday with deep feeling of loss and sorrow the brief announcement from Paris that William D. Woolwine, well known as a financial leader in Southern California, had succumbed to an attack of heart disease in that distant city. Outside of banking circles hosts of friends and acquaintances mourn the passing of one whose talents always commanded respect and whose personality inspired everywhere esteem and affection.

A true son of the South, born in the old State of Virginia, Mr. Woolwine early in life decided to throw in his lot with the progressive West and so in 1886 entered the banking business in San Diego. From that date his life was a series of promotions and successes till when he started on his late visit to France he had risen to the honorable position of vice-chairman of the combined Merchants' National and Hellman Commercial institutions. Very few banking concerns in Los Angeles but at some time or in some way or other have had reason to acknowledge the sound judgment, indisputable experience and unwavering probity Mr. Woolwine brought to bear on the financial structure of Southern California.

Those who knew his love for the State of his adoption will feel the additional pathos of his taking off while visiting among strangers away from his native land and his home city. To his family and his business associates The Times extends its condolence in a loss that to the city of Los Angeles is heavy and to those near and dear to him is irretrievable. Among the names of our leading citizens who have come from every State of the Union to grow up with the new civilization of the Pacific Southwest the name of William D. Woolwine of Virginia will hold in the memory of the people of Southern California a place of high distinction.

UNDER WAY AT LAST

Actual construction of two of the buildings for the University of California at Los Angeles has begun at the Westwood site, with double shifts of workers who will rush them to completion in time for the beginning of the school year in the fall of 1928. This is hailed as good news by the 6000 students at present enrolled at the institution now located on Vermont avenue, and still better for the thousands who in a year or so will be seeking higher education and for whom, but for the building of this new school, there would have been no facilities.

The library and administration building and the auditorium and classroom building are the first to rise. Two more, the mathematics and physics building and the chemistry and biology building are to form a quadrangle with them, and will be the next in order of erection.

It will be noted that an emphasis has been placed on science in this building program, which is in accord with the demands of modern life. A generation ago the science buildings would have been left to the last. But science is no longer the Cinderella of the college curriculum.

STOCKINGS

There is now no law on the statute books of California which requires schoolgirls to wear stockings. This is the somewhat astonishing discovery of the State Superintendent of Education, who, however, concludes that local school authorities have power to enforce the wearing of stockings if their absence is found, after trial, to interfere with discipline. The problem, then, will be left where it is until the next meeting of the Legislature.

This body may be expected to act promptly, since the first thought of any Senator or Assemblyman who finds any subject that has not been legislated upon, or has not a commission to regulate it, is always to fill the void with a long parade of words so strung together that it takes all the lawyers and courts of the State to find out what they mean. We now have State barber and beauty parlor inspectors and it would not seem illogical to create another commission to deal with the bare-leg problem.

THE NIGHT SONG

By James J. Montague

When robin, thrush and oriole
Bowed down with family cares
No longer through the sunset troll
The old familiar airs,
The little bugs in grass and tree—
A gay and happy throng—
Fill every listening hill and lea
With music all night long.

No gifted soloists are they,
Untutored is their art,
And yet their never-ceasing lay
Wakes echoes in the heart.
They seem to chant, from dusk to dawn
"No longer is it spring.
And all the lilting birds have gone
So some one has to sing."

Among the moonlit meadows hid,
Where silver dewdrops fall—
The cricket and the katydid
Sing loudest of them all.
And lesser singers everywhere
Take up the roundelay
Which trills across the autumn air
Until the break of day.

Brave hearts are these; no care can blight
The never-ending strain
From myriad voices which unite
In one full, clear refrain.
The spring is fled; the frost is near
As on the seasons roll,
Yet it brings music to the ear
And courage to the soul!

SEEING MEXICO

BY WILLIAM L. VAIL

X

Look out for a new tariff.

President Calles, in his recent message to the Mexican Congress, mentioned his intention to shortly submit for its (Congress) consideration a tariff schedule so high that jumping over it would be a feat to talk about.

This new tariff will not be primarily, nor secondarily, for the purpose of securing revenue, however desirable that article may be at this time, but it will be a tariff for principle, the principle being to keep foreign goods out and force the manufacture of things the Mexicans need, at home. The President believes that the time has arrived when local industry—native preferred, but made in Mexico, at all hazards, should be upheld at all cost—even to the consumer.

This table shows the exports from the United States to Mexico during six months of the years 1926-27:

Months	Exports from United States to Mexico 1926	1927
January	$11,076,475	$ 9,516,123
February	12,041,366	10,077,809
March	12,471,537	9,692,945
April	12,745,859	8,833,137
May	11,400,000	9,800,000
June	10,500,000	9,500,000

And this table shows the imports into the United States from Mexico during the same period:

Months	Imports into United States from Mexico 1926	1927
January	$14,119,202	$12,147,191
February	15,479,790	13,133,940
March	19,143,304	13,731,606
April	17,361,251	14,890,967
May	13,900,000	12,500,000
June	13,700,000	12,000,000

I believe with President Calles that Mexico has been foolishly extravagant. For example: In 1926 Mexico bought from the United States 8,797,000 pesos worth of wheat; 7,449,172 of corn; 3,232,738 of flour; 564,039 worth of beans (beans, mind you); 208,515 pesos in potatoes; 1,769,632 pesos in fruits, mostly from California. Then there were several million dollars sent to the United States to buy hogs, and cattle and butter and lard and eggs, and we are not speaking of clothing and shoes and furniture and machinery.

Yes, I think the President is on the right track about the tariff.

This tariff wall which it is finished will have one specific effect, to my way of thinking, and that is to attract many American manufacturers in Mexico. Probably inducements will be offered for them to fetch their traps down and manufacture here, not only for consumption in Mexico but for exportation to Latin, or Indo-America and even to the Far East. Stable government here, generous inducements, fair taxation, raw materials in abundance, cheap and competent labor might make things look very alluring, especially when a big and important market is stopped at the spigot.

Two very large American concerns have now in contemplation just such steps. Both concerns would be benefited by acquiring raw material on the spot and cheap wages—one-fifth, say what they are paying now at their factories in Rhode Island and Michigan.

Anyway, there is food for thought in these few lines. The American exporter who has been building up his markets in Mexico will be obliged to ponder, whether he wants to or not.

THE DESERT

Stretching far before the eye,
Barren land, horizon and sky,
Mountains are in the distance seen
Extending like a mighty screen.
Dying sunsets—a deep, ruddy hue,
Shaded and dulled by a sky of blue.
Cactus standing like a rose—
Emblem of the desert—grows.
Day is crowned by a jeweled night,
Stars of diamond shining bright,
Twinkling down upon the land
That lies buried in the sand.

"Ring Out the Old"

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Harry Carr says that the ills of European people are incurable and has washed his hands of them. We hope that the lancing gentleman will not lose all his genial hopefulness, for there is good authority contrary to his view.

As careful an observer as Thomas Carlyle says that the common people of Europe have not the smallest hatred of each other nor real cause for any. In the past nations, as well as individuals, have forgotten their hostility and become friends. The Scotch and Welsh once hated the English, but all three peoples comprise one harmonious country now.

Time was when a Jew was hardly allowed in England at all, but later one of their people became Prime Minister. Old animosities tend to die out and disappear, and it will be so in Europe, and all over the world, when we co-operate rather than contend. It is the overweening ambition of governments that causes war, not the people in general.

Europe is a young land yet, far more youthful than Asia, and one whose trade will expand and many times. If Europe is decadent and done for by reason of age, how can we on the Pacific Coast look forward to a vastly increased trade with Asia, a very much older part of the world? Such a view is inconsistent. The Atlantic, as well as the Pacific, regions are due for great development.

W. M. WHEELER.

Lindy's Popularity

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Lindbergh, the boy wonder, can rightly say that this city turned out to the last person to greet him. One instructive incident occurred in connection with "Lindy's" parade, which I think worth mentioning.

The management at a picture theater learning exactly the time that "Lindy" would pass, announced it early enough to the patrons, so that they could exit and see "Lindy." They were all given return coupons. The theater was deserted and all as fast as they could scurried to the most convenient building windows to see "Lindy" pass by. This theater has a seating capacity of 900. Ten people refused to leave, out of that number.

"MEMPHIS."

Consider the Redwood

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15.—[To the Editor of The Times:] As chairman of the fire prevention committee of the American Green Cross, I am very much disappointed that The Times was unable to use the photograph sent them some time ago, showing the dedication of one of the largest redwoods in Lane's Grove at Lane's Redwood Flats in Northern California.

Of course the writer fully appreciates the value of news and at the same time it would be a reflection on the mental quality of your readers to say that they were more interested in reports of the sordid Jacobson trial than in a report on a redwood tree. The question that arises is, how will the public ever be lifted out of this attitude if they are not encouraged to think otherwise by the presentation of better food for thought.

The printing of these crimes conveys no direct lesson to the public, serves no good purpose that the writer is able to see, imparts a lot of vulgar information to be peddled around the city at no good purpose. Surely The Times and its interest for the welfare for the State of California will be glad to recognize that it is more important to keep the public informed as to progress being made in preserving the noble redwoods, than details of a political scandal.

F. H. COWLES.

"C" or "T"?

LONG BEACH, Sept. 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] While a stickler for correct speech, oral or written, I am not in the habit of "seeing red" when common errors appear in print unless they get to be unduly common with those who should lead in setting us a good example. Recently, I appealed to one of your regular staff writers to let me know, if she could, what authority existed, if any, for spelling the new word, "dietician," with a "t" in the penultimate syllable. ("dietitian"), as two of The Times editorial page writers and both of your health writers were inadvertantly doing. The answer came promptly:

"We are all wrong—the half-a-ton Webster says 'dietarian,' also mentioning 'dietician' later on down the paragraph. Never a 'dietitian' anywhere. That's right, get after them."

WILLIAM BICKLEY.

Happy, flowing like a dream,
All the night and all the day,
Rippling, sparkling, dancing, gay.

All entrancing,

THE WEATHER

If we always had good weather many men who weep together would be glad and optimistic, that would cease to tear their hair they'd forget their grouchy wheezes and their twinges and diseases and their tinkling peals of laughter would be floating on the air. Are the voters sadly saying that our government's decaying, that the bulwarks are demolished which were once our safest bet? It's because the weather's moody and the streets are soft and muddy, and the voters are discouraged for their feet are cold and wet. Will alarm my friends are viewing all the courses we're pursuing, that will lead to dread disaster, to catastrophe, men say; but a sighing wind has chilled them, and a brooding grief it's filled them, and they'll all have new opinions on the first bright sunny day. It's a bleak and dismal morning and a northeast wind gives warning that some cheap and sloppy weather will be with us pretty soon; all the town is full of pikers, knocking pilgrims, mournful hikers, dishing sorrow with a shovel, lading comfort with a spoon. You would say their hearts are bitter since they do not sing and twitter, they are men with secret sorrows, men whose blood has turned to bile; they are growling, they are scolding, bogies dire and grim beholding, and you do not hear a chortle, and you do not see a smile. But behold, the clouds are breaking and the good old sun is making earnest efforts to reward us for the grief we've undergone; little ills no more annoy us, we are smiling, we are joyous, we are dancing on the sidewalk, and we caper on the lawn.

Laura La Plante

To wear or not to wear silk stockings is the style question which has been bothering Laura la Plante, film star. But she has found a new solution to this problem.

She does not wear stockings, but she paints a seam on the back of her legs and so appears in invisible hose. Not a bad idea.

Washington's Fighting Parson Will Talk Here

Rev. Clarence True Wilson of Washington, head of the prohibition board of the Methodist Church, is making a special trip to Los Angeles to address the Men's Brotherhood of the First Methodist Church, Eighth and Hope streets, next Tuesday night. He is known as "The Fighting Parson," receiving this sobriquet some years ago while speaking at a large street meeting at Butte, Mont. A bystander interrupted the meeting, hurling insults at the clergyman. Dr. Wilson leaped from his platform and did such a complete job of subduing his antagonist that the man had to be carried away.

As head of the prohibition unit in Washington he has kept up the reputation. He is an orator of the southern type.

Dr. Wilson will speak at the annual brotherhood dinner at 6:30 p.m., his subject being "Some Wet Congressional Secrets."

Painting Loses Rank as Masterpiece

Not Product of Great Correggio

Thomas A. Hazelton, owner of "Andromeda" and the painting which experts declare is work of great Italian's pupil and imitator. Inset is of Prof. E. Faust Squadrilli, who led research to establish rank of canvas.

"ANDROMEDA" IS IMITATION

Painting Thought Correggio and Worth $1,000,000 Declared to be from Brush of Pupil

"Andromeda," the subject of an old painting unearthed in Los Angeles some time ago and declared an original Correggio masterpiece, yesterday lost its standing as such when documents were received from Italy by Prof. E. Faust Squadrilli, authority on paintings and canvas restorer of 1042 Seward street, which attribute the work to Bernardino Gatti, called Il Sojaro, a pupil and imitator of Correggio.

In March of this year after the picture had been restored by Squadrilli for its owner, Thomas A. Hazleton of this city, and it was thought to be an original of the master a value of $1,000,000 was placed upon it. But Squadrilli was not satisfied and immediately communicated with the best-known authorities on art in Italy to determine the history of the painting. He sent his son, Alexander Squadrilli, there to conduct an exhaustive research. He also sent autochrome plates and microscopic studies of the picture to Corrado Ricci, a recognized authority on Correggio, to G. Fiocco, director of the art galleries of Florence; to Ettore Gladigliani, director of the pinacoteca of Milan, and to Dr. Giovanni Copertini, government commissioner for cataloging works of art in Italy.

For many months these men have been studying the problem and their conclusion is reached in the official document which reached Prof. Squadrilli yesterday, stating that the picture is undoubtedly the work of Gatti and probably done about thirty-five years after Correggio's death. Squadrilli now says that $50,000 is a good value for the painting.

The picture was purchased by Hazelton about three years ago from Charles O'Neil of this city. It was then supposed to be the work of a Flemish painter. O'Neil is said to have acquired it by the terms of the will of an uncle in New York, although the files of the New York Probate Court contain no record of the painting. There also were marks on the back of the canvas which indicated that it was in Frankfort, Germany, in 1906.

Andromeda chained to a rock, is the subject of the painting and it was Prof. Squadrilli's original belief, during the restoration work, that this was a portion of a large canvas depicting Perseus slaying the dragon and liberating Andromeda, done by Correggio in 1520.

Doping Drinks Wouldn't Cure Mate's Thirst

Francis W. Birdseye is not a man to be discouraged easily. So, although his liquor would taste peculiar at times, he would simply remark "It's terrible stuff the bootleggers are putting out these days," throw it away and get himself a new supply, Mrs. Elsie Birdseye told Judge Schauer yesterday.

Mrs. Birdseye admitted that she was not so stalwart in the pursuit of her ends.

"Judge, I finally gave up," she said. "The reason his liquor was tasting funny was because I was putting some funny tasting stuff in it. But what can you do with a man like that? I had hoped to scare him away from booze, but it didn't work and I finally quit trying."

So she got a divorce.

Dance Treats at Shrine Luncheon

A stepping sensation was the entertainment program given at the luncheon of Al Malaikah Temple, Shrine, at the Biltmore at noon yesterday. Every act had dancing in it.

After Potentate Crabill had started proceedings and LeRoy Edwards had introduced his luncheon committee and Noble Robert Heffner had told about the show he is going to put on next Monday night at the Shrine, Paul Gordon did some comedy stuff and a bicycle-riding act. Nellie Nichols's "Youth" act, several girl singers and dancers followed. Three black aces did some nifty soft-shoe dancing and the show wound up with the "Twinkletoes" act with eight girls dancing in Tiller-trained fashion, and the Radeks as solo steppers. This act was acclaimed by all as the best. The next luncheon will be held at noon Thursday of next week.

THEATER GIVES FREE SHOW FOR MOTHERS

OCEAN PARK, Sept. 22. (Exclusive)—While it has long been the practice of motion-picture theaters to stage free performances for youngsters, the idea of entertaining mothers in the same fashion apparently never occurred to any of the enterprising managers until Charles York of the Dome Theater here acted as host to bay district mothers yesterday as part of the observance of West Coast Greater Movie Season. Guests at the affair were all mothers, and all more than 35 years of age. The program was followed by a reception at which the guests met a star and a director in an informal manner. Several hundred bay district mothers took advantage of the invitation.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

Among the most beautiful of the fall weddings and one of unusual interest to local society was that of Miss Dorothy Louis Francis, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Allen Francis, and Ambrose Frederick Edwards, Jr., of Piedmont, which took place at 8:30 o'clock last evening in St. John's Church. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. Edgar F. Gee of Oakland, with Rev. Parlour assisting.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of white georgette velvet, with a girdle of pearls. Her tulle veil, trimmed with real lace, was held in place by a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms, a shower bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley completing the exquisite picture.

Mrs. Alfred Harrison, who assisted as matron of honor, chose for her gown shell pink taffeta and velvet, and carried an arm bouquet of roses, while the other attendants, Mrs. John Wayne Higson of Piedmont, sister of Mr. Edwards, Mrs. Norman G. Wells, Miss Pamela Tyler and Miss Jeanette Strodthoff carried out the sunset shades, blue, jade, rose and orchid, in their frocks, with huge arm bouquets of Ophelia roses. Scattering rose petals before the bride, little Dorothy Lee Belden made a dainty flower girl in blue chiffon over pink. Mrs. Francis wore a French model of blue georgette velvet and carried roses, and Mrs. Edwards's gown was of gold lace over green. Mrs. Frances Sherwood, the bride's aunt, who came from Cleveland, O., for the wedding, wore American beauty velvet.

John Wayne Higson served Mr. Edwards as best man, and the ushers were Alfred Green, Fay Taylor, Dr. Alfred Higson and Lowell Davies.

The church was beautifully decorated with white chrysanthemums and ferns, the altar being lighted with a myriad of tapers. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the bride's parents, 356 South Oxford street, for more than 150 guests. The fall shades of dahlias and ferns were used in a lovely color scheme, and the bride's table was aglow with candles, centered with a floral piece of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Seated at the table were the bridal party and Miss Florence Mitchell, Mr. Edwards's cousin, Miss Dorothy Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gibson.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards left by boat for Seattle and from there will motor to Vancouver, Lake Louise and Banff, returning after October 15 to their new home in Piedmont. Mrs. Edwards attended the Marlborough School for Girls and was graduated from the University of California, where she was a member of the Pi Beta Phi sorority. Mr. Edwards also was graduated from the University of California, and is a member of the Kappa Alpha and Skull and Keys fraternities.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

Home-Made Powder Not Advised

Mrs. A. F. writes: Will you please tell me how to make a powder to use for my baby? I use —— but it is expensive and a box lasts for such a short time."

Answer: I'm sorry that I can't give you a recipe for making a good talcum powder. I think these should be much finer than could be made at home, in order that they may not be irritating to the skin. The powder you are using now is not a good one and I would advise you to make a change. You may write me again and I'll tell you personally my reasons for saying this.

Mrs. A.W.L. writes: "Can you tell me which is better to buy, silk and wool, or all wool, or all cotton shirts for a baby? Of what material should the bands be made? Is Castile soap a good soap for babies?"

A.: It depends largely on your particular climate how much wool should be in the first shirts. Half wool and cotton, or half silk and wool is generally a wise choice for the new baby. A lighter weight wool can be chosen for the summer baby. At least one garment of the baby's should contain some wool.

The first binder is made of unhemmed, fine flannel. The band, which is used after the navel is healed, is of the same knitted material as the shirt and of about the same weight. It has no sleeves and is like a small sleeveless shirt with tab for diaper, and shoulder straps. Castile is a good soap to use for the babies.

Mrs. R.W. writes: "My baby weighed over nine pounds when born and now at two and one-half months weighs over thirteen pounds. Is that the proper gain? His upper lip is dead white and he has no color in his face. He sleeps well all night and seldom cries. Is there anything you can advise me. He is a nursing baby?"

A.: It is possible that he is anemic. He has made a good gain and there certainly seems nothing very wrong with him. You might feel better satisfied if you let a doctor look at him.

Keeping a Schoolgirl Complexion

By VILMA BANKY

Never touch any but true complexion soap to your face

LAUNDER, wash, cleanse with any soap you wish. But when beauty is at stake—take care.

Modern beauty culture calls for soap and water. But that means a TRUE COMPLEXION SOAP. Soaps good for other purposes are often too harsh for the skin.

Thus, largely on expert advice, millions use Palmolive Soap; touch their faces with no other. It is made for one purpose only—to protect and beautify the skin.

Wash the face gently with Palmolive. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin. Rinse with warm water; then with cold. That is all—it's nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion.

Do that regularly, and particularly before bed. Never let powder, rouge or make-up remain on your skin over night. Note how much better your skin is in even one week.

GET REAL PALMOLIVE

Get Palmolive today. Costs but 10c a cake. Use no other on your face. But be sure you get GENUINE Palmolive. Crude imitations, represented to be of olive and palm oils, are not the same as Palmolive. Remember that and TAKE CARE. The Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, U. S. A.

Action to Oust Huntington Park Heads on Trial

The suit for dismissal of three Trustees of Huntington Park because of their failure to order an election for the recall of one of their number, after the City Clerk had certified to the sufficiency of the recall petitions, went to trail yesterday before Judge Bartlett in the Superior Court.

After extended arguments on fine drawn legal points, the cause was continued until November 7, Judge Bartlett taking the various motions under submission. It is expected that his decision will be based on his rulings on the motions, and that no further testimony or argument will be heard.

REDUCING STOMACH ACIDITY

Have you ever said, "You know, if I miss a meal I have such a gnawing feeling?" Have you always supposed that this feeling was because you were hungry? Well, disabuse your mind of that false notion just as soon as you can. You have gastritis, which simply means stomach irritation. That feeling you think is hunger is produced by inflamed stomach walls irritated by an excess of gastric juice or rubbing against each other.

Hunger is never felt in a particular place, but is an almost forgotten craving of the whole body for food. You have likely not had this normal feeling of hunger since you were a few days old. Since that time you have probably always been about three or four weeks ahead with your food supply, and what you have thought to be hunger has been only gastritis or possibly a false "appetite." A healthy stomach organ never makes its presence felt, and you should never know you have one unless you have studied physiology. However, most of you are uncomfortably conscious of this organ if you miss a meal. This is because you have developed too much acid because of wrong eating.

Digestion is carried on mostly by the chemical action of the digestive juice. In the stomach the gastric juice, composed of pepsin, rennin and hydrochloric acid, literally eats up the food by chemical action. If too much food is used or if bad mixtures are used, the only way the stomach can get rid of this excess mixture is by producing more gastric juice and thus liquefying its contents to make it ready for assimilation or expulsion. Thus the bad habit is formed of making more gastric juice than would be necessary if judicious amounts of food were used in proper combinations. Consequently, when a meal is missed, this digestive juice, strongly acid, is by force of habit thrown out into the stomach and, having no food to act upon, attacks the delicate mucous lining of the stomach organ itself and sets up an irritation which will only be relieved if food is used, or the acid diluted by drinking large quantities of water. A simple remedy which brings instant relief is to take a teaspoonful of soda in a glass or two of water to counteract the acid. Many avert more serious stomach ulcers for years by always having soda on hand to take as soon as the gnawing begins. But if one wishes to cure this gastric "itis," it is not as simple to do as to relieve the symptoms. Strict dietetic rules must be observed for a long time if the stomach is to be trained to discontinue making an excess amount of hydrochloric acid. The quickest way to get results is to fast for a few days from all food and keep the stomach full of plain water, drinking a glass of water every half hour during the day, and additional water if awakening at night. After this, live on two small meals daily, omitting lunch altogether, and using a quart or two of water through the middle of the day. After a few weeks of this regime you will find that when a meal is missed you will have no more gnawing. You will know by this test that the gastric juice is normal in amount and the membrane of the stomach has been restored to its proper tone. Learn to live with such good dietetic habits that you are never again conscious of having a stomach.

GOAT KEEPER BOOKED ON SANITATION CHARGE

Charged with keeping eighteen goats on a one-acre plot, Charles Trueb, 55 years of age, a gardener of 5822 Bushnell street, was taken into custody last night by Sanitary Inspector Tottleben. As he was being booked on violation of health ordinances, it was discovered the prisoner was out on parole under a suspended sentence of thirty days for committing a similar offense, according to police.

"JACK THE RIPPER" CUTS WOMAN'S DRESS

Apparently the victim of a "Jack the Ripper," Mrs. J. R. Keough, 1707 Phillips Way, last night reported to police that her dress had been slashed some time during the evening. Although the garment had been cut in several places with a sharp instrument, Mrs. Keough is said to have stated that she did not realize when it was done and knew nothing of it until a friend, Mrs. Arthur Thompson, called her attention to it. Highland Park detectives are investigating the case.

Accused of Murdering Pal in Local Hold-up

Arrest in New England Ends Quest of Months

The death of an asserted pal who was shot during a hold-up in Los Angeles on January 15, last, resulted last night in the arrest of Norman Baker, 28 years of age, at Nantucket Island, Mass., on a charge of murder brought by Los Angeles police.

Baker, who is reported to be a member of one of Nantucket Island's oldest families, is charged with having played a leading role in the hold-up of a grocery store operated by Mike Trifoni at 1572 East Thirty-eighth street in January.

The reports at the police station briefly stating that Paul Cotham, asserted youthful bandit, actually was the victim of the hold-up instead of Mike Trifoni, proprietor of the grocery store, writes in brief, cold paragraphs in the record bureau of the police department the tragedy of a Massachusetts aristocrat. According to these records the case is indexed merely, "Paul Cotham, murdered 1-15-27."

BULLET FINDS MARK

Further examination of the files reveals that Mike Trifoni, proprietor of a grocery store at 1572 East Thirty-eighth street, was held up by three bandits on the fateful night.

But Trifoni, custodian of the receipts of the day, was undismayed by the sinister guns of the bandit trio. Instead of yielding to their demands he seized one of the men as a shield and thrust him between himself and the apparent leader of the gang. The leader fired a shot. The shield, Paul Cotham, slumped to the floor, killed by the bullet intended for the heart of Trifoni.

The bullet which killed Cotham, the police say, was fired by young Baker, and consequently a charge of murder was placed against him.

HELD WITHOUT BAIL

For months Los Angeles police have traced the movements of Baker until his arrest at Nantucket was finally effected. Detective Lieutenants Shannon and Dryden, who have been investigating the case, are expected to leave for Massachusetts immediately to return the prisoner to Los Angeles for trial.

At Nantucket, police admitted that young Baker has been in custody for several days, but, due to his family connections, the arrest was not made public. He is held without bail.

Baker is known as the sponsor of a bohemian colony established on Nantucket Island recently. He traces his ancestors back to the earliest white settlers who inhabited the island, thirty miles south of the Massachusetts coast, shortly after the Pilgrims landed on this continent in 1620.

VICTOR HUGO'S LIFE

Victor Hugo had a happy childhood; was a brilliant pupil and when he fell in love, at an early age, he did not become dreamy and impractical, but worked harder than ever to achieve success.

His first experience of real tragedy came with the death of his mother. His relationship with her had been unusually intimate and tender. For several years the mother had been estranged from her husband, which had resulted in drawing her closer to her youngest son. Soon after his mother's death his father married the woman who had caused the estrangement.

The elder Hugo had no sympathy with his son's desire to write. He offered him a sufficient allowance if he would give up authorship and devote himself to a career that promised a larger income. Hugo indignantly refused, and shared a Paris attic with his cousin. Here he gained the knowledge of poverty that he revealed in "Les Miserables." But he was not as poor as many young geniuses have been, nor did he know poverty for any great length of time. In 1822 he married the girl with whom he had fallen in love when he was 17, and this brought a reconciliation with his father.—[London Answers.

CHARM OF OXFORD

To attempt to give any notion of the charm of Oxford is entirely vain. "Know you the secret none can utter?" the poet asks. Though many know the secret, that is, many know the charm of Oxford, I have never yet known it adequately set forth.

A brief phrase is often happier in suggestion of Oxford's great charm than a long description. Cardinal Newman says of the city he so loved: "As beautiful as youth, as venerable as age." Beauty and age do contribute to the charm.

Matthew Arnold, another son of Oxford, says, "Lovely at all times she lies, lovely tonight." "That sweet city with its dreaming spires," says William Morris. "Steeped in sentiment as she lies, spreading her gardens to the moonlight, and whispering from her towers the last enchantments of the middle ages, who will deny that Oxford, by her inaffable charm, keeps ever calling us nearer to the true goal of all of us, to the ideal, to perfection, to beauty, in a word, which is only truth seen from another side?"—["A Book of Hours," by Ellen Thompson.

INDIAN HELD FOR MURDER OVER DANCE

Slaying Held Sequel to Protest on Man's Doing Black Bottom With Girl

Confronted by direct testimony of David Brice, brother of Reuben N. Brice, fatally stabbed during a free-for-all fight in a local dance-hall on the 3rd inst., Leonard Keel, wealthy 21-year-old Chickasaw Indian, was held to answer to the Superior Court on a murder charge yesterday by Municipal Judge Baird.

Brice, placed on the stand by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Clarke as an eyewitness to the stabbing, testified that Keel killed his brother as the aftermath of an argument between the two as to whom should dance with Ethel Simpson, Oklahoma Choctaw Indian, living at 1441 East Forty-seventh street.

According to testimony of Yancy Blalock and Cassie McFee, the fight occurred in the dark near the dance-hall after Keel objected to Miss Simpson dancing the Black Bottom with Brice.

Attorney Bingham Gray, defense counsel, declined to place any witnesses on the stand at the preliminary, declaring he does not wish to reveal the nature of Keel's defense in the Superior Court.

HINDENBERG SERVES WELL

When Gen. Paul von Hindenburg was elected President of Germany a little over two years ago there were many who believed that it heralded a Hohenzollern restoration, according to John Clayton in an article in Liberty. "Instead," writes the author, "Hindenburg has proved the strongest prop of the republic. In his official capacity he has cut himself off from monarchist organizations and denied them the use of his signature in collecting funds. He has sworn a soldier's oath to support the constitution of the republic, and Germany, which believed him when he took it, believes him doubly today, after a proving time of more than two years.

"Von Hindenburg, who is 80 years of age, realizes his age. He was elected for a seven-year term of office. If God is good to him, he may live through his term, but a second term is out of the question. So Hindenburg is hampered in no way by the desire for further political honors; nor does he find it necessary to regard the will of a fickle party committee which might hold his political future in its hands.

"The President has been one of the biggest factors in restoring foreign confidence in Germany's future. He still has nearly five years before him, during which time the reconstruction should be complete."

MRS. HOWARD MAY BE TRIED

Woman Accused of Strangling Infant Child Found Sane After Tests in Sanatorium

Possibility that Mrs. Winnie Howard, who was accused of having caused the death of her infant child, may be placed on trial was admitted by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Thoms, head of the homicide department, yesterday when he received reports that Mrs. Howard has been found sane after a period of observation in a sanatorium.

The report of Mrs. Howard's mental soundness was contained in a letter to the homicide department by Mrs. Jean McCracken, parole officer, who stated that requests have been made that Mrs. Howard be allowed to leave the sanatorium and go to the home of her twin sister in Reseda. Mrs. McCracken said she was advised that the woman is normal mentally and asked for instructions from the District Attorney's office.

"I'll have to go through all the records of the case before I come to a decision in the matter," declared Thoms. "The case originally was handled by my predecessor, Mr. Dennison. If the woman is sane a complaint may be issued."

Mrs. Howard's dead child was found in a room in a hotel at Tenth and Main streets a month ago. An autopsy surgeon's report declared death was due to strangulation. A few days later Mrs. Howard was arrested near Sierra Madre after wandering in the hills for days. Later she had a hearing before the Lunacy Commission, her condition was described as "mentally sick, bordering on insanity," and she was sent to a sanatorium.

Attorney Milton Golden, retained to defend Mrs. Howard, declared yesterday that he has been informed that she was released to the custody of her sister. At the time Mrs. Howard was arrested, Attorney Golden declared that there was no evidence to disprove Mrs. Howard's story that she accidentally rolled on the child in her sleep and did not strangle it.

CORDISH JURY ACQUITS ONE

Smith Found Not Guilty and Discharge Follows Disagreement on Two Other Defendants

Clyde Edwin Smith, one of three men charged with conspiracy to obtain money by false pretenses in connection with the asserted sale of automobile-purchase contracts, said to be spurious, was found not guilty in Judge Schmidt's court yesterday while the jury disagreed on the guilt of the other two men, Nat Cordish and Earl K. Fleming, who were indicted with Smith. The jury was discharged.

The three were indicted in connection with the collapse more than a year ago of Mutual Motors, Inc., of which Cordish was the head.

The case, which has been on trial more than two weeks, ended yesterday with Judge Schmidt recommending an acquittal on the ground that the State had failed to prove a conspiracy existed among the defendants. The court, however, also advised the jurors they did not have to be bound by his recommendation.

W. H. Pond, a fourth defendant in the case, was cleared on the charge when he testified in behalf of the State.

The jury retired at 3 o'clock yesterday, but did not report to the court until a late hour.

Black Marble Inlaid No. 89 without contrasting blocks. An ultra-modern suggestion by Armstrong . . .

New Fashion is set by this Pattern-Free Floor

Tapestry motifs in this New Embossed Linoleum

There's a dainty, hand-woven effect to these tapestry patterns in the new Armstrong's Embossed Linoleum. More, there's a texture you can actually see and feel. The patterns are embossed. They reflect a bewitching play of light and shadow. You've never seen a floor quite like it.

Embossed Inlaid No. 3056

Go into any good store and ask to see Armstrong's Pattern No. 89. Examine it carefully. It will win your tasteful eye much as it has caught the searching glance of decorators the country over—this pattern-free floor of Armstrong's Marbleized Linoleum! For it has a regal richness that will not be denied.

There are no contrasting blocks. No bold evidence of pattern. The floor presents a one-tone effect given interest by a pleasing variation in the graining lines.

It's a perfect background floor. A smart formality sets it at home in the dining-room. A softness to the grained tones places it on good terms with any color scheme in the living-room.

And—anywhere in the house—this floor has a most agreeable way of not showing footprints.

Offered in black (No. 89)—quite daring; and in the lighter shadow-gray (No. 88). These exclusive Armstrong patterns will influence floor fashion for years to come.

"Times" Daily Short Story

Mrs. Charles Grimes -

By ELIZABETH IRONS FOLSOM

"Oh, yes. And a bathroom with faucets. Could we have that, Charley?"

THE summer sun dimmed the whole green earth with a yellow wash. Its mid-day glow struck blues from the shadows, put a quivering radiance over all. It made high lights that scintillated where the water lay flat to the top of the trough under the windmill: it was as if the world stood in a bath of yellow that shimmered.

Not that it occurred to Charley in his shaded corner of the back porch that the shaded corner of the splendor of a summer noon held meanings. He only squinted his eyes against the light and peered over the railing down upon the brick pavement, beyond which the close-cut grass spread in wide sweep. The clock in the tower across the yard struck twelve and he leaned farther anxiously; the clothes-lines had been up for an hour and yet Aggie had not been out with the washing.

But as he looked she came lightly up the steps from the basement, put down her basket of wet clothes to drag it by one handle out upon the grass. He bent lower over the rail.

"Hullo, Aggie," he said softly.

"Hullo, Charley."

Then she flushed and smiled and set her head a little to one side and looked up at him.

"Basket too heavy?"

"Oh, no."

"I wish I could carry it for you."

"I wouldn't let you." I'm strong. How's your back today?"

"It's pretty good. You all right, Aggie?"

"Oh, I'm fine."

Then she went out on the grass and began pinning the clothes to the line, bending her lithe body over the basket, straightening and swaying back so that her chin tipped high and the big coil of her fair hair dropped to the neck of her face its faint colorings struck clearly in the tense light.

Charley moved his crippled limbs out of the way with his hands—they were not much for moving themselves, those shrunken limbs—and lay heavier on the rail watching her with a great tenderness in his faded eyes.

It was very still for that time of day in the big institution which was their home. From the basement there was an occasional muffled sound of voices, coming with the smell of the suds through the door below; off over the grass the administration building stood grandly, silently, no member of the superintendent's family to be seen among the chairs and hammocks there; even the man driving the mower had disappeared. Charley's eyes were eager.

"It's like a home now," he whispered to himself.

He turned his head as footsteps came along the corridor. The superintendent came out on the porch beside him.

"Well, Charley," he said kindly. "How goes it?"

Charley lifted his small pale face. "It goes all right, sir. It ain't bad just to sit here and watch—Aggie hang the clothes."

"Like to watch Aggie, eh?" Musn't watch the girls too much, Charley," he said idly, half teasing.

"I don't watch none but Aggie, sir. And that's all right. We're engaged."

The superintendent turned sharply.

"That doesn't go, Charley. We don't like that idea among our people. There is no question of marrying here."

"Oh, there is no question of marrying, sir."

"But you said—"

"I said we were engaged, sir. We don't talk none of marrying. We know there's nothing like that, sir. But we like to be engaged."

"Oh, I see."

"And, sir, I'd like to have a ring bought for her. I thought maybe you would see to it sometime for me. There's no hurry but I'd like you to take some of my three hundred dollars and buy her a ring some day when you're in town. I'd like it to be a good one, sir."

"Don't you think that is foolish—to spend your money for a ring?"

"No, I don't think it is, sir. When a man's engaged he wants to do the reg'lar thing."

"Yes, that's right. He does. Aggie knows she's engaged, does she?"

"Oh, yes, sir."

The superintendent smiled as he went down the steps and across the grass. "Poor good old Charley," he said aloud. "Poor old fellow."

He need not have used the word "poor" had he seen the placid glory in the sick face, the half-smile that touched the lips, the snuggle that made him comfortable in his chair with a direct line of vision for the patch of grass above which clothes shook slackly.

Charley Grimes was the long-time resident at the institution. They called them "residents," not "inmates." It was not exactly the place for him: at no time was he enough blurred of mind to be quite congruous there but it was the best that had been thought of. He had a little money; he bought his own clothes and sundry comforts; he had his own room; he was distinctly the aristocrat of the place. Always gently, never in the way it was surprising how small a space he filled as he moved about; his crutches never made a noise; no one ever complained of him.

And as for Aggie—it was not so well with her. It was only in the vast patience of the State that she was welcome: in the institution they did not mind her spells—when she fell, the first to pass straightened her limbs, tied a knot in her apron string to put between her teeth and left her alone until warped consciousness should creep back.

It gradually filtered through the institution that it was all right for her to be Charley's "girl." It became understood that the stamp of official approval had been given the "engagement." Derisive fingers were no longer pointed at them when they sat together; it grew to be the habit to circle away from them as they watched the sunsets, the early starlights and talked in their halting way, or did not talk at all as their baffled minds decreed.

"If we were like other people, Aggie," he said to her, "we could be seeing about a house. I have all that money, you know, and I understand that if you pay part down on your lot, that you can borrow more to build your house."

"Can you? It would be nice to build without having to have money, wouldn't it?"

"It could be done, if we were like other people. Would you have wanted the cellar door inside the kitchen?"

"Oh, yes. And a bathroom with faucets! Could we have had that, Charley?"

"Of course. I tell you, Aggie—I'll have them get us some books with pictures of houses and we can pick out what we would have liked."

They spent hours over the books—selected a veranda from one, a dining-room from another, a fireplace from a third. The only difference of opinion was that Aggie did not want a sleeping porch.

"They're the thing," said Charley.

"Oh, I want to sleep inside the house," and she shuddered. "It's so big outdoors at night. The sky is so high! Oh, no! Oh, no! I should want to sleep where things are near."

He gave up the idea of the sleeping porch reluctantly. He did not see any reason to be afraid of the night and he told her so.

"It would be my business to take care of you," But that's all right," he finished magnanimously, "everything should have been your way. Aggie—I wonder how people feel who are real smart?"

"I don't know, Charley. I don't care, do you?"

"Yes, I care. Today I care. Maybe tomorrow I won't."

"I never care," she said proudly

He sighed. "Some days I think I am going to get clear in my head and stay clear. I feel sure of it sometimes."

"I hope you won't."

"Why do you hope I won't?"

"Because then you wouldn't want a girl like me who—who has—things happen to her."

"Never you mind what happens to you," he said hotly. "You'd be the only girl. Always. And if I could be sure of being all right myself, I could take care of you."

They considered it gravely; talked it over many times. The superintendent had bought the ring—it had a dull white stone and Aggie wore it haughtily.

Then one day when she fell she was not far enough from the building; her head struck aginst the stone step at the laundry door.

Charley, watching for her on the porch above, heard. He looked over the rail and saw one outstretched hand on the bricks. He did not wait to get his crutches, but crawled down and lifted her head on to his leg. Both her eyes were wide open and very blue—there was a trail of blood close down by one of them.

He spoke to her gently—and then he screamed and those who heard did not soon forget the sound, nor forget his face with her blood upon it.

They carried her away and he crawled back to the porch and sat still.

The superintendent himself told him. "It's the best thing all around," he finished. "Best for her."

"I see," said Charley, clasping and unclasping his fingers.

He had nothing more to say and they left him alone. He sat on the porch all that day looking out over the clothes yard. They passed him silently; they looked away as they went.

He sat there many days not speaking. But one afternoon the superintendent heard the soft thud of crutches. He looked up quickly; he was feeling pretty sorry for old Charley.

"I've been out to where they put Aggie, sir," he said leaning on his crutches. "And they was putting up the wood marker like the rest. I'd like, sir, to buy a real stone for Aggie. One that would last, sir. I'd like to—invest—" he used the word grandly—"invest in a stone for her. I'd like to put the whole sum in it, sir. All that's left of the three hundred dollars would buy her a good one that would always last."

"Oh, I hardly think, Charley—" the superintendent began and then stopped at the odd look in the other's eyes. It was a detached look; one that seemed to be far away from the desk along whose edge Charley was trailing a finger.

"I think, sir," and the dignity still held, "that I shan't want many more things." His thin fingers fumbled with the papers on the top of the desk. "It seems only right that, as I have no one to leave the money to—except the State and it would hardly need it, sir—"

He waited for an answer.

"No, it would not need it," said the superintendent.

"Then, sir, it seems right that I spend it as I should enjoy best and not just leave it lying round when I die—I'd like to spend it while I'm alive the way I would get the most pleasure out of it. Don't that seem reasonable, sir?"

His eyes were remarkably keen then.

"Well, what is it you want to do?"

"I shan't care for a stone for myself; there'd be nobody to set by it, so I want all I've got spent for one for Aggie that I can enjoy. One of the shining kind, gray and white mixed—that would be like her; her life was sort of gray and white mixed and I'd like her full name cut in deep letters on the front."

The superintendent cleared his throat.

"But we don't know her full name, Charley. She never was sure of it."

"Well, that's the other thing I was going to ask, sir: I'd like the name, 'Mrs. Charles Grimes' put along the front of that stone."

The superintendent stared.

"But that wasn't her name!"

"Well—what difference does that make? Who cares—but me."

The superintendent looked at him. Then he said slowly, "Maybe that's so. What difference does it make?"

It was done. And now when the sun warms the ground and makes it a pleasant place to sit the words, "Mrs. Charles Grimes," cut deep in granite, hold the smiling eyes of a pale little man who scrubs the letters with the damp cloth he always brings and, the work finished, sits there content.

Boy Struck by Auto May Die

Earnest Medrano, 12 years of age, of 1017 College street, was run down by a hit-and-run driver at Sunset Boulevard and Park avenue last night.

He was taken to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, where Police Surgeon Saverien found that he had a fractured skull, internal injuries and both legs broken. He was later removed to General Hospital. He is not expected to live.

Detective Lieutenants Condaffer and Hickey of the Central Station homicide squad are searching for the driver of the car.

BRIAND SOUND SLEEPER

Aristide Briand takes very good care of his health and is never troubled with insomnia. Leaving Paris at 9 o'clock the other evening on the Geneva express the Foreign Minister at once retired to his berth and slept soundly until 6 o'clock, when the train was drawing up to the frontier station of Bellegarde.

M. Briand's companions, M. Peyceion and M. Aime-Leroy, had not slept so well. About two hours out of Paris, somewhere between Sens and Laroche, they had been aroused by a violent jolt and a crash of broken glass. The train, however, after slowing up, had gathered speed again; so it seemed that nothing serious had happened. Three or four windows on the corridor side of the parlor car had been smashed.

At the first stop it was discovered that the locomotive, baggage car and parlor car, at the head of the train, had been scraped by some hard object, evidently a post or tree trunk projecting from a passing freight train.

The statesman was told what had occurred, and did not seem much impressed.

"I slept very well," said he. "I understand that broken windows are a lucky sign."—[L'Europe Nouvelle, Paris.

WARRING GODFREYS AT IT AGAIN

Five-Year Litigation Marathon Swings Into Court With Husband Accusing Wife of Having Five Marriages and Itching Palm

The litigating Godfreys are at it again.

This time it is a suit for annulment, filed yesterday by John Phillips Godfrey against Bertie H. Godfrey.

Since a short time after the couple married, early in 1922, their names have appeared with unusual frequency on the index of actions filed in the office of County Clerk Lampton. Ten or more suits have been instituted by one against the other or by Godfrey's mother against his wife.

In the present action Godfrey's principal aggrievement is that he thought he was marrying a widow with only one previous marital experience, whereas, he says, he has found out that he is her fifth husband.

Her policy, Godfrey charges, is to enrich herself from a succession of husbands. He relates that soon after he married her he consented to place his bank account in the joint names and deeded a parcel of Beverly Hills property to her. Promptly, he declares, she checked all the funds out of the bank and soon afterward abstracted $360 from some cash he had at hand. He also finds fault with an asserted attempt on his wife's part to get him insured for $50,000. He declares he was defrauded.

BIT FROM PLYMOUTH ROCK

S. K. Turner has in his possession a small rock, which was chipped from the famous Plymouth Rock, on which the Pilgrim Fathers landed in their quest of a home where they could worship God according to the dictates of their own hearts. The rock was obtained by Joseph H. Turner, father of S. K. Turner. Joseph H. Turner was at one time editor of the Republican Record. The small stone was mounted in a ring at one time. The ring was presented to Mr. Turner, Sr., by his office force in the year 1878. The mounting has since dropped from the ring, but is being carefully preserved by the present owner in a watch case.—[Carrollton (Mo.) Democrat.

IT WOULD HELP SOME

He had been waiting long.

"Why doesn't she come?" he muttered. "She's already hours late."

At last she appeared.

"You should carry a watch," he told her in an annoyed tone.

"But you know I always break them," she explained soothingly.

"Well, you might at least have a calendar with you."—[Boston Post.

SCENT OF VIOLETS

Manufacturers of synthetic perfumes who, in attempting to keep at home the $100,000,000 America spends annually for scents have equalled or improved upon the odor of the rose, the lily and other blossoms by chemical methods, but the modest violet thus far has guarded its secret from all scientists.

This is disclosed by Prof. Marston Taylor Bogert of Columbia University in an interview on the synthetic perfume industry.

"Each flower has a chemical formula which in almost every case can be reconstructed exactly," continued Prof. Bogert, "but the violet contains some element which has not yet been successfully analyzed. Chemical reproduction of perfumes resulted from our inability to produce perfumes from flowers as cheaply as France with its low cost of labor. Our chemists realized that hundreds of substances with individual odors may be composed of the same elements, so the problem was to discover how many atoms of each element there were in each. No one has yet done this successfully with the violet."

Prof. Bogert explains that chemical perfumes are often better than natural because chemical contents of soil, conditions of weather and advancing seasons cause variations in the scents of flowers, while the chemical formulae remain constant. Even some of the greatest French perfumers, he added, are turning to chemistry for the finer products now obtainable in Paris.—[American Magazine.

FLEET OFF FOR TACTICS TODAY

Fifty-five Men-of-War Will Engage in Maneuvers

Eight Admirals Directing Two Days' Events

Ninety Aircraft Will Make Attacks on Vessels

Fifty-five men-of-war, covering the roadstead from San Pedro to Long Beach, last night were at anchor off Los Angeles Harbor in readiness for two days of tactical maneuvers for which the battle fleet will put to sea early today. Ninety aircraft of the fleet will also be engaged.

Eight admirals, the largest number of flag officers to participate in a battle-fleet exercise, will direct the maneuvers. These officers, with their commands to participate, follow:

OFFICERS LISTED

Admiral Louis R. de Steiguer, commander-in-chief of the battle fleet, under whose direction the exercises will be executed; Rear-Admiral Harris Laning, chief-of-staff to Admiral de Steiguer; Rear-Admiral John V. Chase, acting commander of the battleship divisions; Rear-Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, commanding battleship division three; Rear-Admiral Luke McNamee, commanding destroyer squadrons; Rear-Admiral W. W. Phelps, commanding the base force; Rear-Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commanding the aircraft squadrons, and Rear-Admiral Ridley McLean, commanding the submarine divisions.

The nine units of the dreadnaught squadron will be the objects of two aircraft attacks today; a "strafing" attack just before noon by combat squadrons, and a bombing raid during the afternoon. Tonight, with lights extinguished in the entire fleet, the twenty-six destroyers led by the light cruiser Omaha, will attempt to locate and launch a torpedo attack against the battleships before being discovered. Upon completion of the final phase early tomorrow the fleet will return to bases, the battleships and base force arriving at San Pedro shortly after noon.

NINE BATTLESHIPS INCLUDED

The force engaged today will include nine battleships, headed by the U.S.S. California, fleet flagship; twenty-six destroyers, led by the light cruiser Omaha, flagship of Admiral McNamee; ninety aircraft, under Admiral Reeves, aboard the carrier Langley, flagship; seven S-type submarines, under Admiral McLean, aboard the tender Holland, and nine auxiliaries, headed by the U.S.S. Procyon, flagship of Admiral Phelps. Rear-Admiral William V. Pratt, new commander of the battleship division, is due to arrive at the port this afternoon from the East, but will not report aboard the U.S.S. West Virginia, his new flagship, until tomorrow afternoon. It is expected that Admiral Pratt will hoist his flag aboard the West Virginia in the regulation ceremony Monday morning.

The U.S.S. Texas, flagship of the United States Fleet and carrying Admiral Charles F. Hughes, retiring Commander-in-Chief, yesterday morning was 1100 miles south of Los Angeles Harbor en route here from New York. She is expected to join the fleet here shortly after daylight next Monday.

RAREST PLAY IN BASEBALL

An unassisted triple play is about the most unusual thing in baseball, yet it appeared twice in as many days recently in major-league games. Shortstop Cooney, in one of the Memorial Day games, touched second and tagged a runner coming from first on the hit-and-run play. Three out. The next day Neun, first baseman of Detroit, grabbed a line drive, touched a runner passing him and tagged second before the runner who had left that bag could return. Again three out in the twinkling of an eye.

Unlike the home run or the sparkling catch or stop, the unassisted triple play is essentially a product of circumstances, rather than of unusual skill. The stage must be set exactly right, with two men on and none out. And then an obliging batter must line directly into the hands of an infielder to offer him the opportunity of a lifetime.

The triple play in which two or more players participate probably involves greater skill in consummation; a rapid-fire double play probably does also, but the infrequency of the unassisted triple makes it the stellar set in our national game. When the 30,000 spectators who saw the remarkable world series game of 1920 between Cleveland and Brooklyn have forgotten all other details of that game, including the only home run with the bases full in the history of those interleague contests, they will remember Wambsganss's unassisted triple play, the execution of which made by Cooney.—[Cleveland Plain-Dealer.

SEA BIRD GETS SEASICK

The albatross lives on the sea but being caught and confined to the deck of a ship it invariably becomes seasick. Sailors are superstitious about killing or catching "the bird which makes the wind blow" and it is rather rare that they are encountered at close range, but on a recent scientific expedition the fears of the members of the crew were brushed aside and several of the birds were caught on a hook baited with a piece of pork and thrown overboard. Some of the distinguished scientists aboard even went to the extent of eating some of the flesh which had been cooked in the shape of a stew and they agreed that the meat was delicious.

NEW ROSE NAMED FOR CINEMA STAR

Clara Bow

A display of the newly developed rose to be known as the Clara Bow rose will be a feature of the annual rose show Saturday, October 1, next, in the showrooms of the Germain Seed and Plant Company.

This new rose, the result of experiments of horticultural experts of the Germain company, is golden bronze in hue, similar to the color of the hair of Clara Bow, film star, and for this reason the bloom is named for her. The rose has a full blossom, and its petals are decorated by a rose flame which spreads from base to tip. Its leaves are glossy. The plant is a climber and especially suited to the climate of Southern California.

The public is invited to write 100-word letters to Mis Bow, care of the Germain company, telling why California should plant more roses in their gardens. The writer of the best letter received will be given a prize of twelve rose bushes. The second prize will be eight rose bushes, the third, fourth and fifth prizes, six bushes each. Every prize group will contain one Clara Bow rose bush.

The rose show is free to the public and the doors will be open from 10 o'clock in the morning until 9 at night. The first 1000 visitors will receive autographed pictures of Miss Bow with the roses named for her.

BANDIT PAIR ROB MAN IN OWN YARD

Negroes Who Get Money and Gems Believed to Have Trailed Victim

Harry Friedman, 1124 East Twenty-third street, was held up and robbed in the rear of his home by two negroes as he was putting his car in the garage. He reported to the police that one of the men remained in a car parked near by, while the other searched him.

The robbers got $28 in cash, a wrist watch, two diamond rings and other jewelry, which Friedman said belonged to his wife, whom he had let out of his car at the front entrance to their home.

Friedman told the police that he and his wife were returning home from a dinner party and expressed the belief that they had been trailed by the bandits.

PRINCETON'S THEATER

The gift of $250,000 to Princeton University for the erection of a theater calls attention to one phase of life in our universities which is often overlooked. That is the position held by extra-curriculum activities apart from athletics. Occasionally we hear of student publications when collegiate satire breaks the bounds of good taste, occasionally a college musical show comes to town or our attention is called to dramatics, but on the whole our universities would appear to be places where those who can, play football, and those who can't, grind away after degrees. Actually all our colleges and universities have undergraduate organizations which attract hundreds of students, provide schools of experience along a dozen lines and offer an outlet for natural talent. There are dramatic clubs, musical clubs, daily journals, literary publications, debating societies, clubs interested in public affairs or questions of special interest. They are entirely student affairs, organized, managed and carried out by students. The opportunities they offer the young man or woman interested in business experience are as valuable as the chance they offer embryonic authors or actors to express themselves. Many of them are financially solvent, and even reward their members to an extent which calls down faculty limitations.—[New York Evening Post.

MRS. BERMAN ARRIVES HERE

Wife of "Bright Youngster" of Julian Stock Fiasco Comes from East to Join Husband

Mrs. Mildred Berman, wife of Jacob Berman, alias Jack Bennett, so-called "bright youngster" in the stock fiasco of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, arrived here yesterday from New York under the care of physicians, John F. Murphy, Berman's attorney, announced last night.

During the two-continent search for her husband Mrs. Berman became the mother of a baby boy in New York. The child, the attorney said, was left in the East under the care of nurses and physicians.

"Mrs. Berman has come to Southern California to recuperate in the sunshine of the Southland and to stand by her husband in his forthcoming trial in connection with the Julian matter," Attorney Murphy said. "She has all confidence in him and supports him in every way."

Berman will remain in Los Angeles for a while, but before his trial on charges of embezzlement and forgery he will return to New York and bring the baby boy to California.

"Mrs. Berman is a very sick woman," Attorney Murphy said, "but I am sure she will recover quickly here in the glorious sunshine and in the presence of her husband. She has worried tremendously during her husband's absence and has come to him at the first opportunity since being able to travel."

Coincident with the arrival of Mrs. Bennett in Los Angeles, Attorney Murphy announced that James F. Donnelly, another member of Berman's defense counsel, departed for New York to take care of matters in connection with the defense.

PROSECUTOR'S LIFE GUARDED

Threat to Kill Deputy City Attorney Reported

Friends of Liquor-Trial Defendant Involved

Plot Overheard by Women on Jury Panel

Nipping in the bud a threatened plot to take the life of Deputy City Prosecutor Harry Margid because of his persuasive arguments before a jury in a liquor case, police yesterday threw an armed guard over Municipal Judge Wood's courtroom on the seventh floor of the Hall of Justice as a precautionary measure.

First hint of the death threat was learned by the prosecutor when two women members of the jury panel, not on duty in the jury box, excitedly told Margid of a conversation of three negroes they overheard in the corridor "to get him" if the defendant in the case, a negress, is convicted.

Immediately, Margid apprised the court bailiffs of the conversation and when court reconvened for the afternoon session, policemen and bailiffs searched every colored person in the room for weapons.

Four policemen and bailiffs were assigned to duty within the courtroom and two in the corridor throughout the afternoon, while another officer was ordered to sit beside Margid.

WEAPONS NOT FOUND

Though no weapons were found on witnesses or spectators in the courtroom, it is believed by Margid that word was passed through underground channels of the plot's discovery, giving those connected with it an opportunity to escape.

Echoes of the trial of W. B. Sheffield and Frank Randolph, negro policemen, at one time charged with the murder of Sam Faulkner, also colored, were injected into the proceedings when the two officers were subpoenaed as complaining witnesses against Mrs. Emma Brown, negro, of 1416 Paloma street, arrested March 24, last, on a liquor-possession charge.

Mrs. Brown was convicted by the jury following a deliberation of less than thirty minutes and Judge Wood ordered her to appear today for sentence. Inasmuch as two prior charges are listed against her, Judge Wood is required by law to impose a jail sentence.

It was during his arguments to the jury in the case against Mrs. Brown that the two women jurors said they overheard the threat of the negroes "to get" the prosecutor if the defendant is found guilty.

CONFESSION RELATED

On testimony of the negro policemen, Prosecutor Margid issued a complaint for the apprehension of Tom Lane, charging him with possession of liquor found in Mrs. Brown's home. Randolph testified Lane came to him and confessed ownership of the pint of wine confiscated by the policemen and that if Mrs. Brown were arrested she would be forced to serve a jail sentence as two previous liquor violations were charged to her.

Lane was taken before Municipal Judge Sheldon for arraignment on the possession charge and pleaded not guilty. He requested a jury trial.

The officers testified Mrs. Brown sold them a pint of wine for $1 and that they later recovered the marked money.

The arrest of Mrs. Brown preceded by a month the charges brought against Officers Sheffield and Randolph for the asserted murder of Sam Faulkner, in a liquor raid. Sheffield was later acquitted of the murder and the charge against Randolph was dismissed.

Rich Inventor Succeeds as a Music Writer

Clifford M. Cole, inventor of the Cole visible gas gauge which is standard equipment on eighteen makes of automobiles and has made its inventor independently wealthy, has turned to music as his new field of activity.

Mr. Cole, who lives in Los Angeles, and is president of his company, has recently written twenty songs, two of which have been published and used by Mr. Frankenstein at the Orpheum. He has also decided to manage the concert destiny of Chief Yowlache, the full-blooded Yakima Indian basso cantante.

Chief Yowlache has just finished an engagement at Laguna Beach where he played the leading role in I. J. Frasee's pageant. He was also an important member of the Indian ceremonials cast at Hollywood Bowl last week.

During the performance at Laguna Beach, Chief Yowlache sang "Wah Wah Tay See," a new composition of Mr. Cole's in the presentation of which the composer used his inventive ability by making possible some very effective mechanical fireflies. The song is an Indian death song to the fireflies.

Mr. Cole's Orpheum hits were "Whose Little Baby Are You?" and "The Indian Runner."

It has been a life-long dream of Mr. Cole's to return to the music for which he showed a marked aptitude in his childhood. An interest in mechanics proved so much more profitable, however, that he abandoned the idea of music as a career and waited until good fortune made it possible for him to pursue the art he loved.

THE BEGGARS' STRIKE

Gen. Smedly Darligton Butler read up China before sailing Chinaward, and in an interview, he said:

"China's a queer country. The beggars there have a trade union, and every beggar is taxed by the municipality.

"Well, in a certain town some years ago the municipality found its coffers empty and passed an ordinance doubling the beggar tax.

"Result, the beggars struck. For a day, two days, a week, not a beggar was to be found on the streets begging.

"What a laugh! What a laugh on the beggars, eh? My boy, you don't know China. At the end of the week the city fathers, rather than lose a lot of revenue, put back the tax to its original figure, and the next day, as usual, all the streets of the town were swarming with beggars.

"Yes, China is a queer country."—[Exchange.

BEBE DANIELS' NEXT PARAMOUNT

Star Plans Perilous Riding Stunts as Girl Jockey; F. W. Murnau Will Arrive on October 15; Clyde Cook Given Big Comic Role

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Jockeying stories about for Bebe Daniels over at Paramount, they have at last jockeyed that popular young star into "Miss Jockey," according to the announcement made yesterday by B. P. Schulberg.

BEBE DANIELS

The picture will be directed by Clarence Badger, maker of all the recent Bebe Daniels successes. Lloyd Corrigan is writing the treatment of the story, which story, by the way, we have great reason to believe is the child of Bebe's own clever brain.

The Daniels-Badger-Corrigan combination has just completed "She's a Sheik," a colorful burlesque of the love-on-the-hot-sands theme.

F. W. Murnau Here Soon

The long-heralded return of F. W. Murnau, Fox director, who has been gallivanting around Europe during the past few months, is at last to take place. The director is due to arrive in Hollywood October 15, according to word received last night from Winfield R. Sheehan, vice-president of Fox films, who is now in New York.

Murnau is to direct "The Four Devils," for Fox as his next venture, the story being from the novel by Herman Bang. No cast has been selected so far. Murnau, so far from going abroad to direct pictures for Fox, according to Sheehan, is to remain right in Hollywood for the next five years under contract to Fox.

Josephine Crowell's Big Role

Josephine Crowell, who always seems to go to one extreme or the other, viz., from rags to riches, in the roles she plays, has been cast for another grand role.

Miss Crowell was signed yesterday by Universal to play the highly important part of Queen Anne in "The Man Who Laughs," to be directed by Paul Leni. Next to the star part played by Mary Philbin in the picture, Miss Crowell's role will probably be the most important feminine characterization in the picture. Conrad Veidt is to be co-starred with Miss Philbin, you will remember.

Other highly important roles have just been filled by Torven Meyer, George Siegmann and Julius Molnar.

Warner Brothers Cast

If Irene Rich doesn't make a good picture out of "Beware of Married Men," it isn't going to be the fault of Warner Brothers nor of the cast, since the latter is the best that money can buy.

Clyde Cook was signed yesterday for an important comedy role, while another important part goes to Myrna Loy. Audrey Ferris has the ingenue part, and Richard Tucker will be seen to advantage in the leading male role, added to which Armand Kaliz and Hugh Allan have been assigned. Darryl Zanuck announced the cast yesterday. Archie Mayo is to direct.

Richard Wallace Signs Again

We are just in receipt of the palpitating news that Richard Wallace has signed another long-term contract with Asher, Small and Rogers, who make pictures for National.

RICHARD WALLACE

It is likely that Wallace's first assignment will be "The Butter and Egg Man." Just at present Wallace is directing Will Rogers in "The Texas Steer" for Sam Bork and First National. Jack Mulhall, as you all remember, is to be the star of "The Butter and Egg Man."

Wallace has made many successful pictures, one of the latest and biggest hits being "McFadden's Flats."

Johnny Hines to New York

That lively young comedian, Johnny Hines, seems to feel that he owes himself a trip to New York every time he finishes a picture. Running true to form, Johnny will depart for the East, accompanied by Sam Warner, tomorrow morning. Following the preview tonight of his latest picture, "Home Made."

The comedian says that he isn't going east for pleasure, but that it is to attend to business and buy himself a couple of new stories. For the benefit of the feminine friends whose fluttering hearts Johnny leaves behind, I will give the further information that he expects to be gone about a month.

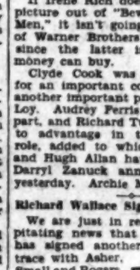
Rex Ingram Ill

Letters from friends of Rex Ingram, noted Metro director, who is now in Paris, are to the effect that Ingram is seriously ill.

Ingram's picture, "The Four Horsemen," is one of the triumphs of filmland. His latest film, a screen version of Hichens's "Garden of Allah," is said to reflect the foreign scenic beauty that he loves.

Edna May Signs

If you don't know who Edna May is, you are sure to learn ere long, thinks Johnny Hines, comedian, who has just signed Miss May on a contract to act as his leading lady in a series of pictures.



EDNA MAY

Miss May appears in "Home Made," Hines's latest comedy. And if you saw Pola Negri in "Flower of the Night," you probably remember the dancing girl in the picture, played by Miss May. Following that came roles in "Padlocked," "Children of Divorce," "Collegian" series, "College Widow" and others.

Edna May is a native of St. Joseph, Mo., who came West to go into the movies; but before her mother would give her consent to her daughter leaving home, said daughter had to learn the millinery trade. And, as it happened, Edna May began her movie career in the wardrobe department of Paramount. Paul Bern, the director, saw her and asked her to play in "Flower of the Night."

Evelyn Brent Vacations

Evelyn Brent, just in case anybody should inquire, has gone to San Diego and Tia Juana for a vacation, following her hard work and many injuries sustained as leading lady in Paramount's "Beau Ibabreur."

John Clayton Poole Rehearses

John Clayton Poole, who made such a huge success at the costuming and staging of "Peggy Ann" at the Music Box under the Macloon regime there, is now readying for vaudeville the tabloid revue which he put on so successfully at the Gables a few weeks ago.

Marian Douglas In It

Marion Douglas has been assigned by Charles P. Rogers to the feminine lead opposite Ken Maynard in "The Caravan Trail."

Maurice Costello will play the heroine's father, and others in important roles are Paul Weigel, Fred Malatesta, George Davis and Charles Ellis.

George Nichols's Record

Maybe few people remember it, outside of those of us who knew him years ago, just what a power was that splendid old actor, George Nichols, who was buried yesterday.

Nichols directed the very first comedies in which Charles Chaplin and Roscoe Arbuckle played, in the old Sennett days. He gave Erich Von Stroheim his first part in a picture. When those well-known directors, Charles Brabin, Edwin Carew and James Cruze were acting in pictures, Nichols directed them. He also later directed William Russell, Lew Cody, Reena Owen, Kathlyn Williams and Earle Foxe.

Nichols's latest successes in the acting world were in Von Stroheim's "Wedding March" and in "White Gold." You will probably remember his splendid performance with Mabel Normand in "Mickey."

East Applauds Leni Photoplay

According to reports, New York is applauding the directorial effort of Paul Leni in "The Cat and the Canary" for Universal, which is now showing to capacity houses at the Colony.

This being Leni's first American production, critics, it is understood, were extremely anxious to see what Leni would bring to the screen in his initial effort, as Europe considers him one of her leading directors.

Notwithstanding that the original story handed this megaphonist was thoroughly an English opus in every aspect, Leni, it is said, readily adapted himself to its locale and met all of the expectations of executives.

Murder Satire is Under Way

Frank Urson yesterday launched the production of "Chicago" with Cecil B. De Mille present and with many of the De Mille stars and attaches on hand to wish him well in the studio's most difficult undertaking of the current season.

The complete Urson cast of the Maurine Watkins play adapted by Lenore Coffee, is composed of Phyllis Haver, Victor Varconi, Julia Faye, Robert Edeson, May Robson, T. Roy Barnes, Sidney D'Albrook, Warner Richmond, Clarence Burton, Eugene Pallette, with one important role yet to be filled.

WHEN WOMEN LOOK BEST

An international observer of feminine beauty says that American women look best in the morning, Frenchwomen in the afternoon, and Englishwomen in the evening. The vital, boyish quality of American women makes them splendid when the day is young, continues the observer, as reported by Eileen Bourne, in an article in Liberty, who explains further that our women haven't the French chic to retrieve the dull after-luncheon period, nor that regal English manner of wearing shoulders and jewels by lamp-and-candle-light.

"Granting that every generality is wrong," comments Miss Bourne on these remarks, "isn't there a hint of truth in this? Don't we Americans accent too much the boyish note—not only with slim figures and extremely bobbed hair, but by being too impatient for elegance and too-self-conscious for the magnificence achieved by women of other nations?"

TWENTY-SIX LETTERS

How many sentences can you form which contain within themselves all the letters of the alphabet? Here is one:

"Pack my box with five dozen liquor jugs."—[Outlook.

"Glory" Held at Pantages

"What Price Glory" is to be held over for the second week at Pantages Theater.

Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe play their parts admirably, while Dolores Del Rio, who characterizes Charmaine, and wears only $30 worth of wardrobe, is excellent withal. Ted McNamara, as Private Kiper, and Sammy Cohen, as Private Lipinsky, comprise, perhaps as good a comedy team as the screen records.

McNamara and Cohen will make a personal appearance in connection with the picture in which they starred, on Monday night, the beginning of the second week's run at Pantages Theater.

Bronze Paint is Hazardous

Bronze paint for wardrobe has its drawbacks. It is a matter of record that an acrobat who employed the pigment once went to sleep and failed to wake up. The paint had clogged the pores, causing death. Twice in "Gay Paree" a young woman appears in this liquid investment—and little else. Irene Corneil in "Kandahar Isle in "Gold Plaque" is visible thus. The paint is not applied until a few moments before she appears, and is washed off immediately after. "Gay Paree" is appearing at the Biltmore Theater for two weeks, terminating a week from tomorrow.

Actor Avoids 'Type' Roles

Montagu Love's appearance in a picture invariably arouses the curiosity of the audience as to his type.

Is he a villain, or is his characterization more sympathetic in nature?

In "Rose of the Golden West," Loew's State attraction beginning today, Love plays a sympathetic role. He is a swash-buckling Spaniard, father of Mary Astor, who is starred in the picture.

Love admits a liking for variety in his screen roles. He does not believe in standardized types; that is, he dislikes to see pictures in which he knows, the moment certain actors appear, that they are villains or heroes, as the case may be.

WRITERS GIVE PLAYS

Club Arranges Diverse Themes for Performance Tonight

Tonight the Writers' Club will give its first drama program of the season in the playroom of the club, 6700 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood. It will also be the last program of the present play committee and the latter has made an effort so have its final performance one of the most notable, in the way of plays and casts, of the series with which it has been identified.

The first play on the program is "U. S. A.," an original drama by Roland Bottomley. It has been directed by Arthur Lubin and in the cast are Belle Bennett, Olaf Hytten, Grace Goodall and Lois Moran.

This will be followed by "The Wonderful Son," a comedy by Barrington Gasko directed by Henry Kolker and presented by Zelda Sears, Sidney Bracy and Jessie Arnold.

The next play on the program is a farce by Eliot Crawshay-Williams, "Cupboard Love." In the cast of this are Lilyan Tashman, Leslie Fenton and Belle Mitchell. Its performance was directed by Sidney Olcott.

The fourth and last number to be presented will be a new play by the well-known dramatist, Martin Flavin, entitled "Casualties." This will be presented by Robert Orr, who has directed the staging of it, Doris Lyon and Walter Long.

The performance of the four plays will be repeated tomorrow night.

COLUMNS ARE FEATURE

Two huge Corinthian columns of specially quarried white marble will be one of the many unique features in the elaborate new Tower Theater a Eighth and Broadway, which is scheduled to open October 12. These columns, which flank the stairs in the center of the main lobby, are the largest columns of this particular marble that have been imported into this country, for many years, it is said, and weigh 1500 pounds each.

TRAVELING BAND

When the Alhambra High School Band with their friends come to San Gabriel on Saturday night to attend a performance of David Belasco's western drama, "The Girl of the Golden West," they will bring their instruments with them and give a concert outside the theater before the performance begins.

SPLENDID ORCHESTRA IS HEARD

Rube Wolf Achieves Rare Result With Symphonists; Negri Film Shown

BY MARQUIS BUSBY

Not since the days of the old California Theater, when the orchestra there used to regale music lovers with selections from the classics, has there been such a rare treat in a motion-picture theater as is offered at the Metropolitan this week.

Rube Wolf conducts a splendid symphony orchestra of seventy-five pieces on the Metropolitan stage, and Rube surprises with his ability to interpret the works of Wagner, Tschaikowsky and Rimsky-Korsakow.

Perhaps Wagner's familiar march from "Tannhauser" proved the most popular of the selections, but the brilliant "Marche Slave" of Tschaikowsky was beautifully played, as was the sparkling novelty, "The Flight of the Bumblebee," by Rimsky-Korsakow. The lighter offering programed was the ever-popular "Blue Danube."

The one vocalist on the program was a child singer who surprised with a remarkable clarity and sweetness of voice in opera selections.

Pola Negri in "The Woman on Trial" is the screen feature of the week at the Metropolitan. It is a baffling thing to judge, combining much that is unbelievably bad and considerable that is good.

The Ernst Vajda play from which the screen story is adapted belongs to the "Madame X" period of handkerchief dramas, and the treatment has done little to bring the screen story up to date. The drama is told by the central character, a woman on trial for murder, and such a manner of narrating a tale is almost invariably tedious.

Briefly, the story tells of a young Parisienne who weds a wealthy man she does not love in order that she may send her lover to the Alps for his health. After marriage the husband turns out to be considerable of a brute, and the woman's one interest is her little son. Because she pays a visit to her dying lover the husband orders the wife from his house. The divorce court awards her the child. From this the drama builds to its climax. To regain his child the father places the woman in a compromising position. The woman kills the husband's accomplice.

There is a good red-blooded drama in the story, but the murder is insufficiently motivated. Miss Negri is not placed in a particularly sympathetic light through it. She does do excellent work in most instances, however. She is weak in the murder scene, but the situation in itself is unconvincing.

In the supporting roles Andre Sarti scores emphatically as the husband. Here is a new, suavely sinister heavy. Arnold Kent is the accomplice of the husband, and Einar Hanson gives a finely tempered characterization as the lover. Baby Brock is the child, Paul.

The production was directed by Maurits Stiller for Paramount.

MAY RESUME ASSOCIATION

The team of Irene Rich and Huntley Gordon, popular about two years ago in a series of successful wife-and-husband comedy dramas, may soon be reunited in a Warner Brothers picture. Miss Rich is a star under contract to that company. Gordon is not under contract but may be engaged for more than one production.

DR. KARA ARRIVES

From an uneducated foreigner to a college graduate through human radio, Dr. Paul Kara, who will appear in person at the Forum Theater for one week, starting Monday, has become a noted psychologist. He founded the new psychological science, human radiology.

Home-Town Doings are Mirrored

Hazel McConnell

In the cast of the comedy by George M. Cohan, chronicling salient episodes in the lives of a group of interesting persons, which is holding forth at the Hollywood Play House. It has been pertinently called "The Home Towners."

DRAMA IS WELL RECEIVED

"The Devil's Plum Tree" opened at the Curran Theater in San Francisco the middle of last week, following reconstruction and strengthening and has already established a box-office record. The play is an adaptation by John Colton of "Rain" and "The Shanghai Gesture," of Miliam Begovic's Magyar drama.

The composition is called unique, bizarre and strongly dramatic. Miss Chatterton's role is that of a young Croatian girl, the willful, passionate Mara, daughter of a Councilman in a mountain village, in 1630. She is said to give a worthy performance, making Mara a splendid creature of fire, her most impressive scenes being those in the final act between her husband and her returned lover.

There is a decided frankness in many of the situations in the unfolding of the story of the impetuous Mara, the affianced bride of Josef, the priest, and her irresistible attraction for Kristan, the brigand. The production of Homer Curran, in association with Belasco, Butler and Davis, has been termed "sumptuous, picturesque and complete; the costumes are beautiful and the lighting is splendid."

"The Devil's Plum Tree" follows the seventeen-week run of Taylor Holmes in "The Great Necker," which closes October 2 and goes east.

SCREEN STAR GUIDES GIRL IN STAGE ROLE

Una Allen, the blond with Edward Everett Horton in "So This Is Love" at the Hollywood Music Box, is facing a crucial test these days under the critical eye of George Bancroft, Paramount star, her first stage tutor.

During virtually every performance the pair of shrewd eyes are watching her work and at the conclusion, George Bancroft, chief protagonist of "Underworld," takes his protege to task if there have been any defects in her work.

The film star's memory of his association with Miss Allen in New York is made particularly fresh by the fact that her first role was a child part in his initial starring vehicle on the stage. The success of the stage production, both on Broadway and along the Atlantic seaboard, attracted considerable interest to the little girl's work and she was hailed as one of the best child prodigies uncovered that season, according to Bancroft.

ILDERIM COLORFULLY PORTRAYED BY LEWIS

Ilderim, the proud possessor of the Arabian horses driven by Ben Hur against Messala in the thrilling chariot race sequence of the story "Ben Hur," is portrayed by Mitchell Lewis in the screen version of the story, now playing at the Million Dollar Theater.

Lewis is seen as a real Egyptian sheik, with all his trimmings and trappings, typical of the early period when sheiks reigned supreme, possessors of untold wealth, slaves and dancing girls of the Far East, and the finest of Arabian steeds.

Those accustomed to seeing Lewis in the role of a "mean" man, ruling everything with an iron fist, are not disappointed in his portrayal of the Egyptian, for he is again master of the situation.

LOS ANGELES IS NOW VALUED PLAY CENTER

The theatrical status of Los Angeles and San Francisco has been revised. In former years all of the big eastern successes made their first West Coast appearance in the northern city. Now Los Angeles is one of the two theatrical centers of the West. As a case in point, "The Wild Westcotts," the popular comedy having its western premiere here at the Vine Street Theater, will open in San Francisco soon.

Henry Kolker and Arthur William Green, Vine Street Theater producers, are preparing to give Los Angeles the world premiere of a drama by a local playwright and featuring well known local players. This is in accordance with their announced intentions of furthering local production to the utmost.

NOTED DANCERS SIGNED

Jack Laughlin, producer of prologues at the Carthay Circle Theater, announces that he has succeeded in securing Edwardo and Elisa Cansino, well-known Spanish dancing team, as stars of his prologue to "Loves of Carmen," which is to have its premiere at the Carthay Circle Theater October 7, following the twenty-three-week run of "Seventh Heaven."

With the addition of these two headliners to his list of artists, Laughlin is confident that his new production is going to be brilliant and colorful. Special scenery and costumes are now being prepared for it, and rehearsals are being held daily in the big rehearsal hall that Manager Miller provides for him out on Pico Boulevard.

Producers Will Remain Lessees for One Year

Because of the success of their first two ventures in the Orange Grove, "The Scarlet Virgin" and "The Ruined Lady," Monte Carter and Sydney Miller yesterday announced that they had taken a year's lease on the Grand-avenue playhouse and plan to present a number of New York successes during that time.

With "The Ruined Lady," costarring Helen Bolton and William Davidson, in its second successful week at the Orange Grove, the two showmen were yesterday jubilant over the fact that they had succeeded in negotiating the lease, which also gives them an option for renewal at the end of a year.

"My Maryland" Arrives Soon

Theater-goers here are to have an opportunity of seeing the American operetta, "My Maryland," a musical romance which the Shuberts will present at the Biltmore Theater the coming season.

Those names made memorable because of "The Student Prince" and "Blossom Time" are also responsible for "My Maryland;" the Shuberts have produced the operetta, Sigmund Romberg has written the music, Dorothy Donnelly the book and lyrics and J. C. Huffman has staged the book and all ensembles.

All the old-time tunes of Civil War days and of a time preceding have been utilized in assembling the melodies, with strains of martial music and of patriotic airs.

The Shuberts have made a lavish and sumptuous production of "My Maryland" and have given it a brilliant cast, a large and well-trained chorus, with "a background of colorful beauty that surpasses anything hitherto done on the stage in this country," it is announced. Every detail of production gives evidence of care in the preparations of the settings and the costumes, together with the many songs, the dances and the melodramatic conflicts.

Actor's Family Distinguished

Denis d'Auburn, who enacts the hazardous role of the Duke of Durham in Elsie Janis's musical comedy success, "Oh Kay!" at the Mayan Theater, is the son of an Englishman more distinguished than many who are titled. The family name is St. Aubin, and the original home was in the Jersey Islands in the English Channel.

Gen. St. Aubin, Denis d'Auburn's father, now retired and living at Nice, France, was for many years Governor-General of India. The family has a splendid war record. The eight sons living at the time of the outbreak of the World War enlisted in the British service, Denis d'Auburn being a member of the Royal Air Force. Five were killed in action.

While Miss Janis was playing in London en route to France to entertain the American forces, she met d'Auburn, who had left a theatrical production to enter the service. She was agreeably surprised to learn that he had been cast for the role of the Duke when she arrived in Los Angeles to star in "Oh, Kay!"

Suave Hero is Grizzled Miner

The dashing hero of recent Morosco productions has become an old gold-mine prospect back in his Connecticut home town after twenty-five years in an Arizona desert. John Litel, popular leading man at the Morosco, after weeks of playing "straight" leading roles, is appearing in "Hell's Bells" with gray hair, and the costume and speech of a typical desert "rat."

The story involves the complications arising when Jap Stillson and his partner, "D. O.," who have been prospecting together for twenty-five years, return to Stillson's home town as multimillionaires. It is all very well to do a multimillionaire if you have the necessary millions. But Stillson and "D. O." haven't. In fact, they haven't a cent.

Complications reach a climax when the sisters who refused to help Stillson years before attempt to have him confined in an insane asylum so that they can gain control of his money.

Litel is said to portray the character role with attention to detail of speech and action. Kay Hammond plays the feminine lead.

Eltinge Orders Gowns Designed

Hollywood will be definitely marked as a style center during Julian Eltinge's tour of the Orpheum circuit, for the impersonator of the fair sex has had his entire wardrobe of gowns designed and executed in Hollywood.

"Hollywood is as much of a style center as Paris or New York and I'm going to tell the world about it on my travels," says the star, who starts his tour as the headliner at the Orpheum Sunday.

Eltinge's new gowns were designed by Cora MacGeachy and executed by Winn Ritchie.

Uptown Offers Gene Morgan

Gene Morgan makes his debut today at the Uptown Theater as leader of the Uptown Band.

He will appear at the matinee performance but the real treat, declares the management, is his performance tonight, when tribute will be paid him by stars who have promised to do all they can toward welcoming Gene to the Uptown.

Gene will have with him his green hat and his cigar.

SERIOUS BREAK AMONG GROWERS

Important Association May Quit Exchange

Trouble Arises Over Domination of Auctions

Prominent Director Files His Resignation

REDLANDS, Sept. 22.—Strained relations between the Gold Buckle Citrus Association of East Highlands, probably the largest single orange packing association in the California Fruit Growers' Exchange and for many years a model plant, have not improved since they first became public a week ago, according to a statement issued today by J. S. Edwards of Redlands, manager of the association.

In his statement Mr. Edwards says that the exchange is as nearly faultless as a man-made organization could be but there has been a leakage. He does not call it a fight but a controversy over policies. The immediate question is the use of certain auctions, he says, but certain principles are involved such as freedom from commercial domination, power of majorities, consideration of minorities, coercive tactics versus diplomacy, the managers' prerogatives, responsibilities and obligations.

He says the controversy is over the influence of Joseph Di Giorgio in the fruit auctions. The exchange uses ten auctions now and Mr. Edwards says Di Giorgio is a factor in five and unquestionably has designs on the other five and any future auctions and that he secured these interests by purchase, maneuver and connection with the exchange.

Mr. Edwards admits frankly he and R. G. Dezell, manager of the exchange have disagreed over the Di Giorgio influence, which Mr. Edwards says is entirely commercial and all authority acquired by Di Giorgio is used in a dictatorial method. Dezell says that the word of Di Giorgio is good and that as long as it can not be shown the exchange is losing money through being associated with him he is for him. Friction reached a head a year ago when Dezell, according to Edwards, insisted in putting Di Giorgio in the Detroit auction field.

Mr. Edwards says that when he found Mr. Dezell over his protest, had put Di Giorgio in Detroit, he saw that the intention of Mr. Dezell was to have a showdown or test of his authority. When Mr. Edwards declined that after the expiration of present contracts in force to November 1, 1927, he would never permit any fruit of his to be sold in a Di Giorgio auction. Later his association, the Gold Buckle, took the same stand and later the Redlands-Highland Fruit Exchange, of which Mark Anderson of Redlands is manager and which ships for all exchange houses in Redlands and East Highlands, took the same stand. Then after several months the directors of the Redlands-Highlands exchange reversed themselves and Mr. Edwards, who for years has been their representative on the California Fruit Growers Exchange board, resigned. "But not because of press of other interests," he says.

Mr. Edwards asserts that his attorney assures him the Gold Buckle has a right to say where its fruit shall be sold. The exchange attorney says it has no such right. And there the matter stands. The Gold Buckle will not sell through Di Giorgio's auctions and if the exchange insists Mr. Edwards says "under the discipline now being administered by our agent the Gold Buckle will simply gravitate to the outside."

He suggests the exchange directors find a solution of this deadlock rather than be so intent on punishing his association and suggests that if his association finds itself outside the exchange, it will certainly attempt to start a co-operative sales organization and teach co-operative principles.

HIT-AND-RUN VICTIM SERIOUSLY INJURED

EL CENTRO, Sept. 22.—S. Shope, for many years resident of this city, is lying in a local hospital suffering from a fractured skull and broken leg caused by an unknown hit-and-run driver on the highway near Seeley some time late last night, and it is feared that the injuries may prove fatal.

He has been unconscious since the accident. Shope was driving along the highway in a mule-drawn cart when an approaching motorist struck his vehicle with such force as to toss it fully sixty feet, according to marks on the highway. The cart was completely demolished. The hit-and-run car was traveling toward San Diego, and its driver did not offer to stop and render aid, as nearly as can be learned.

NEW COMMANDER

LEMOORE, Sept. 22.—Lemoore Post American Legion last evening installed G. E. Follett as post commander and the new corps of officers who are to have charge of the county-wide Armistice Day celebration. There is to be a parade, a patriotic program with Lieut.-Gov. Buron R. Fitts as speaker, afternoon sports and a grand ball at night.

FAIR ATTENDANCE GAINS

Each Day Sees Larger Crowds at Annual Los Angeles County Exhibition at Pomona

POMONA, Sept. 22.—Showing a gain in attendance over the corresponding day last year of 35 per cent, 24,675 paid admissions were recorded at the turnstiles of the Los Angeles County Fair in the second day of its run this year yesterday, while 10,000 filled the grand stand and bleachers for the matinee horse races and night horse show, according to figures given out today by B. Chaffey Shepherd, fair treasurer, after the official compilation of receipts this morning.

Highly elated over the enthusiasm being shown by fair visitors as indicated by the record attendance, officials stated that today's crowd was also a record breaker, the exhibit tents being filled to overflowing throughout the day and night, while hundreds were turned away from the grand stand at the horse races this afternoon when the stands were filled to capacity long before the start of the races at 1:30 p.m.

Today was Santa Monica, Bay District and Lions Club Day, the two former areas apparently besieging the fair grounds en masse as ticket takers at the turnstiles worked frantically to keep the visitors moving through the gates at a lively pace. Preceding the horse races in the afternoon, concerts were given in the grand stand by the Union Pacific, Pomona and Santa Monica bands, the concerts being duplicated in the evening also just before the night horse show.

Wednesday evening's horse show brought forth a wonderful array of fine equines competing in the following classes: Ladies' hunters, heavy harness ponies in singles, roadsters, Shetland ponies, three-gaited saddle, harness pairs, while the feature event of the evening, the eight-in-hand heavy harness class was won by A. C. Ruby of Portland, with C. W. Bowers of Sacramento taking second. Much enthusiasm was shown by the audience when Revel Lindsey English exhibited his national champion, Edna Mays King, although she was not entered in competition.

Friday will bring out a huge assemblage which is expected to far eclipse all attendance records so far, being designated as Long Beach, Orange county, Riverside county and San Bernardino county day.

Barbecue to Win Support for New Park

LA CRESCENTA, Sept. 22.—County officials, bankers, motion-picture magnates and stars will be guests of honor at a venison barbecue to be held on the 27th inst. at Whiting's Woods near here, to launch the movement to advance the proposed Verdugo Hills Park project for Los Angeles county.

Among those who have been invited are the members of the Board of County Supervisors, Irving Hellman, Mary Pickford, Sol Lesser, Arthur S. Bent, D. F. McGarry, H. W. O'Melveny, H. O. Averill, John Treanor, George Cochran, Oscar Mueller, J. D. Miller, P. H. O'Neill and W. K. Barnard.

The party will make a tour of inspection of the valley to view the site where it is planned to establish a county park. The women of the auxiliary of the Verdugo Hills American Legion post will have charge of the barbecue, assisted by the members of other women's organizations.

John Steven McGroarty will be one of the principal speakers, with Harold Nurum, attorney, as program chairman. The project is also to be presented to various organized bodies throughout the valley to enlist the strongest possible measure of support for the proposed park, which will include approximately 2000 acres of land.

Kern County to Join in Parade Armistice Day

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 22. — Plans are complete for the greatest Armistice Day parade ever held in Kern county, a parade which will include veterans of every American war, floats and representatives of civic, service and fraternal orders, uniformed police officers, firemen, and "Gold Star" mothers of Kern county who will be escorted by armed and uniformed American Legion veterans.

Such was the announcement made last night at the second joint meeting of the citizens and American Legion armistice celebration committees, which convened in Legion Hall today to discuss further plans for the big celebration here November 11.

Robinson, captain of Bakersfield's champion purple-guard drill team, will be grand marshal of the parade. Standard bearers with forty or fifty flags will head the armistice parade, which will start its march through the city at 10 a.m.

Learn Identity of Bank Bandits

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 22.—Identity of two unmasked bandits who held up the Guadalupe branch of the Los Angeles First National Trust and Savings Bank last Tuesday afternoon and escaped with more than $4000 in cash, was definitely established this afternoon, when Manager George Dalessi and his three employees selected two photographs from a group of known bank bandits shown them by detectives.

The photographs identified by the banking group were those of William O'Brien, ex-Folsom convict, and Martin McGowan, San Francisco bail jumper, both of whom, detectives believed, were connected with the Guadalupe bank robbery.

O'Brien has been sought for three other hold-ups since his release from Folsom six months ago, and the methods of directing the Guadalupe hold-up were said to have been his. Sheriff James Ross and bank detectives hope to apprehend O'Brien and McGowan through trailing a green automobile used by the bandits in the hold-up.

LINDBERGH TO GIVE VALLEY A THRILL

CALEXICO, Sept. 22.—Col. Charles Lindbergh will give the people of Calexico and El Centro an intimate glimpse of the Spirit of St. Louis between 11:30 and noon tomorrow by circling over both cities twice on his way toward Arizona, according to announcement made today.

The Lone Eagle of the Atlantic consented to make these two flights on the request of Chief of Police Manas of this city, who was initiated into the Sciots in the same class with the famous flyer, and by Toparch Reed of the El Centro Chamber of Sciots, who assisted in initiating Lindbergh.

DISCOVER REMAINS OF FOREST MONARCH

PORTERVILLE, Sept. 22.—Believed to have been at least 400 or 500 years old, evidence of a previous forest monarch rearing its lofty head in an untamed wild long before feet of man started the march of progress in Porterville has been disclosed in discovery of a huge stump beneath a building in the heart of the business district here.

Old-timers are speculating over the question of how many years ago this great river oak spread its branches over this portion of the site of Porterville. It was revealed by workmen looking for gas connections beneath the floors of the Ting Building on South Main street.

FINED FOR CONTEMPT

SANTA ANA, Sept. 22.—For his action in roughly snatching a paper from the hand of a witness, Harold I. Cruzan, Los Angeles attorney, was fined $5 for contempt of court by Superior Judge James L. Allen.

The incident interrupted proceedings in the trial of a suit brought by J. B. Graham against Cruzan's client, against C. W. Puntneny, involving a dispute over a contract for the purchase of Arizona land.

MILLIONS OF DUCKS ASSEMBLE

Region Surrounding Salton Sea Filled With Game Birds as Season Opens

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 22.—Opening of the duck season on October 1 is expected to find hundreds seeking these birds about the ponds, lakes and ditches of the Salton Sea district.

Millions of ducks are said to infest the Salton Sea this year, although one should know the particular area which they frequent, according to preliminary survey made by sportsmen from Riverside and Los Angeles.

Within one-half mile of Salton Sea, near Mecca, the Nevin duck ranch is "jammed" with ducks, as a party of Riversiders express the situation they found there yesterday. Don Nevin, owner, has here an artesian well that is throwing forty inches of fresh water into nine ponds. Rice has been planted and thousands of ducks subsist thereon.

Among the varieties seen there yesterday were Mallard, Sprig, Teal, Redhead and Black Sea Brant. The ponds on the Nevin ranch are private property, he says, and the privilege to hunt there when the season opens is open only to friends and owners of the ranch. However, the birds are said to exist in great quantities in other sections about the Salton Sea and hunters will probably find a paradise in this section of Riverside county, say those who have made investigation of the duck prospects this season.

Suit Involves Half Million

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 22.—With a stake of $500,000 involved, the Borax Consolidated Company has filed suit in Superior Court here against John Sukow, asking that title to rich mining claims in this county be quieted and that Mr. Sukow be forced to make an accounting of the property and the ore removed.

The claims are about thirty miles east of Mojave and twenty miles south of the Rand mining district. Sukow owns a half interest in the property and the Borax company also owns a half interest.

Attorneys charge that the defendant has barred the plaintiffs from the claims and that he has continued in his mining operations and refuses to make an accounting to the other owners.

In the complaint it is asked that the title be cleared and that the defendant's half be declared proper and an accounting ordered.

Rich in borate of soda and borate of lime the property is described as the west half of the southeast quarter of Sec. 14, 11-8.

The complaint has been filed at the County Clerk's office. The claim is said to be one of the richest of its kind on the Mojave Desert, which is saturated with alkaline deposits of various sorts.

Big Crowds at Tulare Fair

TULARE COUNTY FAIRGROUNDS, Sept. 22.—Crowds attending the eighth annual Tulare County Fair, now in its third day, displayed the same interest and enthusiasm as shown Tuesday night when the big show made a flying start for a full week of entertainment.

Judges in all departments are experiencing considerable difficulty in placing awards, F. M. Rasmussen, the superintendent of parks of Fresno city; Hugh P. Donnell, Stanislaus county development board, Modesto; and Judge Wallace Sullivan, County Farm Adviser of Kings county, are acting as judges of horticulture, agriculture and viticulture.

Music today was supplied by the Porterville band. The girls' revue pleased again with a varied program. Saddle and running races, and baby show were other features.

This evening fight fans of the valley crowded the arena for the boxing show staged under auspices of Tulare Legion. A special feature was radio returns of the Dempsey-Tunney bout.

PREPARE TO HANDLE RECORD NUT PACK

PUENTE, Sept. 22.—This week the La Puente Valley Walnut Growers' Association began packing the largest crop in the history of the association. It is estimated that the crop will be from 4400 to 4700 tons. The crop of 1925, which held the record until this year, was 3700 tons.

The La Puente Valley Walnut Growers' Association covers 7000 acres in the Puente, Walnut, West Covina and Baldwin Park districts. Last week the association set a price of 50 cents per sack in budded groves and 60 cents per sack in seedling groves as the wage for pickers.

The California Walnut Growers' Association will announce the prices to be received for the crop during the first week of October. This association, which in the past has done a large business in damaged nuts at the Puente packinghouse, has discontinued selling nuts locally.

INQUEST RESULTS IN MURDER VERDICT

GLENDALE, Sept. 22.—A Coroner's jury investigating the death of George Moses, 55 years of age, found dead in a shack adjoining the Patten-Davies Lumber Company's yard on Sunday afternoon, found a verdict that death was due to gunshot wounds inflicted by persons unknown.

Mike Curran, a room-mate of the deceased, is sought by police and Sheriff's deputies for questioning, and faces a charge of suspicion of murder. The three bullet wounds in Moses's chest are believed to have been inflicted with a pistol found in a garbage can, and witnesses testified at today's inquest that the gun belonged to Curran, who has disappeared since the shooting.

BOY FIGHTS FOR LIFE

Victim of Accidental Shooting Near Death in Hospital at Monrovia; Has Chance of Recovery

MONROVIA, Sept. 22.—With his intestines punctured in three places by a 22-rifle bullet from the gun of his nephew, Jose Ferre, 15 years of age, Edwin Tennie, 14-year-old high school boy, was fighting for his life today in the Monrovia Hospital following an accidental shooting yesterday in front of the Fern Leaf Grocery Store, 215 South California avenue.

Returning from Sawpit Wash, where some person is said to have paid the lads 5 cents for each woodpecker they shot, Tennie asked Ferre to hold his gun while he took a splinter from his foot.

With Ferre carrying both rifles, Tennie suggested that they cross the street and get some candy. They approached the door of the store, one of the guns mysteriously exploded, sending a bullet through Tennie's abdomen.

Ferre, questioned by Police Chief Frank Scott, said he could give no reason why the gun went off.

The wounded boy was rushed to the Monrovia Hospital and an operation was performed by Dr. Scott D. Gleeten. Reports from the hospital today said that he might recover if no infections developed.

The lad, a freshman at Monrovia High School, faced the tragedy bravely, and as he laid on the sidewalk without shedding a tear, was heard to utter these feeble words: "I think I'm paralyzed; I can't move my legs."

Both guns were .22 single-shot rifles. Ferre has been in Monrovia only a week, coming here from New York, so he could enter high school as a freshman. His mother is expected here later. Tennie's father is dead and his mother works to support him and his borther, it was said.

Shake-up Plan Affects Officers

MONROVIA, Sept. 22.—Reorganization of the Monrovia Police Department, effective today, was announced by Chief of Police Frank Scott, following failure of Motorcycle Officer Frank Ryan to report for duty after expiration of his vacation.

Ryan left on his vacation the 2nd inst. and was to return to work the 19th inst. He has not appeared yet and his whereabouts is not known, Scott said. "Ryan has violated the vacation rules of the department," Mr. Scott said today, "and under the regulations of the force, he is automatically dropped from the personnel of the department."

In revealing the shake-up, Scott announced the appointment of J. L. Boller, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Boller, 231 East Lemon avenue. Boller, although comparatively new in police work, recently was accredited as a finger-print expert and will be a valuable addition to the local department, Scott said.

Motorcycle Officer George Spickerman will take Ryan's rank on the force, while Ralph Ordwarker will be advanced to Spickerman's place. Boller will replace Ordwarker, Scott stated.

Love Tangle Ends in Court

HANFORD, Sept. 22.—Fortunado Macias, a young Mexican, was held to answer to the Superior Court by Justice H. H. Warnock under bond of $1000 on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of Mary Perry, 15-year-old girl of Portuguese parentage with whom he disappeared from Corcoran last July.

The couple were located about three weeks ago at Willowa living together, having been refused a marriage license, and Macias was charged with child stealing and was brought to Hanford.

As the girl admitted she went willingly and that she asked Macias to take her, the charge of child stealing is to be dismissed.

The girl, an unwilling witness, said that they were sweethearts and she would marry Macias as soon as she is 16, next January, with the consent of her father, who is now willing she should wed Macias, and will take them to his home.

IF YOU KNOW BEANS YOU CAN GROW BEANS

RESEDA, Sept. 22. — It's all in knowing how, and when you know how one doesn't squawk like the others. Notwithstanding the fact that it has been announced the lima bean acreage in San Fernando Valley this year will produce on an average of eleven sacks, compared with twenty sacks to the acre last year, F. C. Swartz, who knows how, hasn't paid much attention to the figures. The Swartz ranch is on Sherman Way between here and Owensmouth. He has just threshed out 511 sacks from fourteen acres, which is an average of thirty-six and one-half sacks to the acre. The record is nothing usual for Swartz. He formerly was a sheep and grain man and came here from Montana about three years has ago. Last year he threshed out thirty-five sacks to the acre. Swartz has fine bean land, but he says the way he tends his crop is the reason he is getting three times more product than his neighbors.

ANGELENO IS INJURED WHEN CAR OVERTURNS

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 22.—Plans for a three-weeks' vacation at Lake Tahoe were ruined this morning for Henry Wacker of Los Angeles. Twenty-five miles south of Bakersfield on the Golden State highway, his car left the pavement, skidded into loose sand and overturned.

Wacker is at Bakersfield Emergency Hospital with two ribs fractured, a deep gut on his arm and severe leg bruises. The entire top of the sedan Wacker was driving was demolished. The crash victim was alone.

PASADENA, Sept. 22.—Arthur P. Ohrmund was elected commander of the Pasadena Post, No. 13, of the American Legion last night, defeating Dr. Floyd L. Hanes. Other officers elected are Henry D. Lyman, vice-commander; Keeton Arnett, second vice-commander, Harry Sherwood, treasurer, and Dr. Floyd L. Hanes, W. W. Colton, Ruel I. Strand, Robert D. Walker, Roy Youngiove, Joe T. RAZE OLD BUILDINGS

ORANGE, Sept. 22.—Work of wrecking the old National Bank Building, which will soon give way to a $50,000 modern bank structure to be occupied by the Consolidated First National Bank, got under way yesterday, with a large crew of men on the job. The contract to raze the old structure, said to be the oldest brick building in Orange, was awarded to John Richardson, local contractor. Richardson was rushing work on the wrecking.

LINDBERGH SPOILS PLANS FOR AIRPORT

ONTARIO, Sept. 22.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh threw this city's plans for a joint airport all a-jumble yesterday. Before the coming of the "Lone Eagle" to Southern California, Ontario, Upland, Pomona, Claremont and Pomona College were heartily in accord with plans for an airport to be so situated it would serve all five communities and would be supported by all.

Then W. K. Kellogg of Battle Creek, Mich., of health-food fame, who owns a large estate near Pomona, offered to donate a tract of his valuable ranch to the air service, provided Lindbergh would circle the Kellogg ranch with the Spirit of St. Louis.

Yesterday while Lindbergh was on his flight from Los Angeles to San Diego he fulfilled the wish of Mr. Kellogg. He swooped low over the property and circled it two or three times. Then he flew over the Pomona fair grounds and headed for San Diego.

As Lindbergh did as Mr. Kellogg requested, local committees are satisfied the tract will be donated for an airport on the Kellogg ranch. If such is the case, Pomona and Claremont, and possibly Pomona College will withdraw from the five-community airport pact. That leaves Ontario and Upland to figure out an airport program for themselves.

Chino had been invited to get in on the airport program, but declined, making it known they prefer one of their own.

Attempt at Suicide of Pasadena W

Effects of Gas Not Fatal

Fear of Nervous Breakdown the Cause

PASADENA, Sept. 22.—efforts were endeavoring today to save the life of Miss Anna Gustave of age, who was found unconscious late last night after she had attempted to commit suicide by gas in the bathroom of the home of G. R. Wagner, 1 street, where she was employed as housekeeper.

Fugate returned from Catalina Island, to find a note addressed to him which she was afraid of and locked herself down and of being found by an inmate of the house called detectives who broke in the bathroom, where she was found lying.

She was rushed to the Pasadena Hospital, where physicians said her condition was critical. Fugate reported today that she was only fair, with no chance of recovery. She had taken gas, placed a tube from the gas jet over her mouth and fastened the door after wrapping a towel around her head. Her note to him read:

"Mr. Fugate, I am sorry to do this way, but I am afraid of a nervous breakdown if I should think of going to live with you. The thought of going to live with you drives me to this. Please tell Albert Godfrey, 5484 Chicago avenue, Detroit, Mich. Also tell Elliot in Los Angeles, to see after my clothes as I have no money. Also phone Roy Murray, 1 checks cashed at his store. FINE DOGS POISONED AT VENTURA

Enemy of Canines Carries on Active Campaign in Neighboring City

VENTURA, Sept. 22.—Ventura's dog poisoner is at work again. During the last month twenty-two dogs have been brought to Dr. J. A. Deserpa as a result of the campaign of the fiend. Most of them have been poisoned with strychnine, but some of them have been victims of ground glass. Many dogs died before medical attention could be given them.

The latest victim of the poisoner is Lady Hewston, Al Hewstone's fine cocker spaniel. The dog was found poisoned yesterday afternoon and rushed to the veterinarian just in time to save her life. A Boston bull belonging to L. E. Van Vleck was saved by the doctor. A bird dog belonging to Mrs. Sheridan was another victim. Three or four dogs are known to have died this week before they could be gottem to the veterinarian.

Oil was given by Dr. Deserpa this morning as the only possible temporary remedy for the poison. Dr. Deserpa said there should be more concern for the loss of human life from the activities of Ventura's "great coward," than for the dogs themselves. "It is bad enough," he declared, "to poison the puppies but when the strychnine is put on sausages and cooked meat it means that sooner or later some little child is going to find the meat and put it to his mouth. He doesn't have to eat the sausage. It is enough that he lick the poison off."

School Board Feud Settled at Carpinteria

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 22.—An interlocking directorate of the Carpinteria Union High School and grammar school districts was brought about today with the appointment of Nelson Smith and William McCampbell as members of the high school board of trustees to fill vacancies left by the resignations of Mrs. Phoebe Catlin and Neal Ballard recently. Smith and McCampbell already are members of the grammar school board of trustees.

Mrs. Catlin and Ballard resigned when they were informed that they would be outvoted regularly on any proposition they might make.

Charges have been made to Arthur S. Pope, County Superintendent of Schools, that the high school board has regularly been taking property belonging to the grammar school, such as clocks and much of the seating equipment of the lower school.

Smith and McCampbell thus become members of the board which it is charged is misappropriating the property, and at the same time remain members of the group making the charges.

The split in Carpinteria school affairs became serious when the old high school board dismissed Otto Kluge, music teacher. In the election, which followed, Kluge was made an election issue, and the school board elected and rehired Kluge at a higher salary than he had been receiving.

Mrs. Cravens, who has held her office here for a number of years, is one of the best-known fair secretaries in the West. She is the only woman to hold that position in a fair the size of the exposition here.

While in Sacramento Mrs. Cravens obtained many entries fo rthe fair here which opens next Tuesday, closing Sunday night. She predicts that the show will be the greatest in the point of attendance ever held in Riverside, and arrangements are being made to handle record crowds every day.

Many exhibits are already being placed, although most of them will not arrive until the week-end. Three huge tents have been erected and all space has been taken.

Riverside county's exhibit, which will, of course, be shown here, won many ribbon at the State Fair.

HIGHER FARES OR NO STREET CARS

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 22.—"Higher fares or no street cars," residents of Santa Barbara were warned last night during the course of an address by W. E. Erwin, manager of the Santa Barbara and Suburban Railway, a subsidiary of the Southern California Edison Company. "The time has come when the community and the street-car company must get together and find some way to allow the latter to at least pay expenses if you want street-car service," continued Mr. Erwin.

"The street-car company lost $10,000 in the operation of its bus lines alone in 1926, and the time must inevitably come when it will have to quit or make a profit," he continued.

"Street-car fares in Santa Barbara are now 8 cents, with a bus fare of 10 cents. The street-car company has petitioned for an increase in rates and the State Railroad Commission will hear evidence here October 4."

LUCKY HUNTER BAGS BIG GAME

PORTERVILLE, Sept. 22.—His wildest expectations realized, Omar Avery, local sportsman, has returned from an outing near Camp Nelson in which he not only bagged the forked-horn buck for which he hoped, but a 500-pound bear which he had not dreamed of.

Bruin broke through the bushes within a few feet of the hunter, offering a ready target for his gun. The first shot struck between the animal's eyes but only tore away a bit of the hide, while the other shots were fired as he retreated into the bushes, where he died.

FEAST ON ANCIENT FOODS
Not many people have eaten and enjoyed a cake fifty years old, as was the case at the golden weddi.g banquet given recently at Hollywood, but the record for ancient fare probably belongs to the Brussels antiquary who, a few years ago, invited some of his colleagues to a remarkable feast.
The bread at the Brussels banquet was made from wheat found in one of the Pyramids, believed to have been there 3000 years, and it was buttered with butter made in the reign of Queen Elizabeth.
Wine centuries old, recovered from a vault in Corinth, was drunk, and included in the menu were apples 1800 years old, discovered among the ruins of Pompeii.—[London Tit-Bits.

LOCAL WHALING HUNT TO START

Los Angeles Group Launches Operating Company

Venture First of Kind Here Since Early Sixties

Expedition With Three Ships Due to Sail Shortly

The Los Angeles Whaling Company was brought into being this week, with a fleet of three vessels to comprise the first mammal-hunting expedition operating with Los Angeles as its own home port since the early '60's.

The fleet will sally forth from port next week to prey upon the whales reported in large numbers immediately offshore, and bring their oil to this port where it will be sold to soap companies or refined parts may be made into edible items.

The vessels are the factory ship Coronado, formerly the Mexico and later the Porvenir, and the killer ships Clemente and Barbara, formerly the Diomed and the Bering. All were former Norwegian craft, and are now to be operated under the Panamanian registry.

Among the backers of the recently incorporated company are B. F. Gillespie, Los Angeles oil man; C. A. Bandini, capitalist; B. F. Mueller, head of the Vegetable Oil Company; Capt. G. M. Bryde, agent for several whaling companies, and three others whose names yesterday were not available.

Capt. August F. Christensen, a former Norwegian whaling master who has been in Los Angeles the last two years, has been put in command of the expedition and is now in San Francisco recruiting a crew of experienced whalers to man the fleet. It is understood the vessels will put to sea within a fortnight, operating within a short radius of Los Angeles, which since the coming of Capt. Bryde three years ago has developed into a whaling port of material proportions. Bryde has attracted several other fleets to these waters in the last few years and has found a ready market for the whale oil in the Vegetable Oil Company and several other local concerns.

The Mexico Whaling Company's fleet, also based at Los Angeles Harbor, is beginning to outfit for the beginning of the whaling season off Lower California next month.

LASCO LINER BACK FROM PLEASURE TRIP

The Los Angeles Steamship Company's new liner City of Honolulu returned yesterday morning from San Diego, where it carried upward of 500 Los Angeles folk to attend the homecoming of Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, and last night entertained 3000 guests at a Chamber of Commerce reception aboard ship. She will depart tomorrow for Hawaii with more than 300 passengers.

The excursion to San Diego also permitted folk of that city to glimpse the largest commercial liner ever to visit that port and more than 13,000 took advantage of the "open house" to inspect the liner, 6000 at one time.

The Los Angeles delegation was met at the gangplank by Mayor Clark of San Diego, a brass band and a delegation of Sciots which initiated Col. Lindbergh on his arrival. They were put in the parade and given choice seats at the stadium for the flyer's reception. Luncheon for the San Diego Chamber members also was served aboard ship.

Among the Los Angeles shipping men making the trip were Capt. S. B. Sandberg, port traffic manager; Ralph J. Chandler and R. F. Cullen, president and general passenger agent of the line; Sam Krieder, Harry J. Summers, American Bureau of Shipping; S. P. Trood, C. A. James, assistant director of the trade extension division of the Los Angeles Chamber; James J. Murray, Associated Oil; George Lehr, Shell Oil; Edwin Nichols, Marine Service Bureau; Edwin Vance, Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company; Frank Howe, Will Rogers, George Bancroft, Edgar M. Wilson, Dollar Line agent, and Steve Lindo, operating manager of the line.

James E. Davis, Chief of Police of Los Angeles, and aides were luncheon guests aboard the Hamburg-American passenger steamer Albert Vogler yesterday noon, while the ship was embarking passengers and finishing loading for Northern Europe. The dinner was given by W. P. Montague, passenger agent, and Capt. William Ziegemeyer, master, as a forerunner of a campaign for passenger travel direct to Europe which the line soon will inaugurate when it gets its four new motor liners, Portland, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles on this run. With Chief Davis were Deputy Chief C. F. P. Jackson, Capt. C. P. Sweeney, Capt. L. L. Oakley, Lt. E. T. Barnes and Milo S. Smith, deputy chief prosecutor, and members of the press.

When the steamer departed at 5 p.m. for Northern Europe she carried thirty passengers and more than 5000 tons of Pacific Coast cargo, her capacity of both.

Los Angeles and San Francisco Navigation Company announces the addition of the liner San Juan to augment the four-day service of the liner Humboldt on the San Francisco passenger and freight run, due to overwhelming business. The San Juan will run opposite the Humboldt, now on a four-day round-trip schedule, the new dates to be announced within a week, according to J. H. Fay, general agent at Los Angeles.

In line with reductions by other coastwise passenger companies, the line announced a new low fare one way between Los Angeles and San Francisco on either of the liners, from the present $12 to $9, effective yesterday and lasting all winter.

Four hundred Chevrolet automobile salesmen from all over Southern California comprised a special party which chartered the Wrigley liner Cabrillo yesterday for a trip to Catalina Island. They represent every salesman in the area who sold more than seventy-two cars each during the last year. All returned last night.

One hundred and ten naval recruits are due over the Union Pacific Lines from the Naval Training Station at Great Lakes the 27th inst., for assignment to the battle fleet here. It is the fourth such contingent to arrive over the same lines from Chicago during the last thirty days.

Count Felix Von Luckner's globe-girdling exhibit ship Vaterland which has been tied up in a slip in the outer harbor the last month, is reported soon to move to Long Beach small store thousands to inspect the German displays aboard.

A new sixteen-page tariff covering class and commodity rates between California and Central America, has just been issued by Guy E. Buck, general freight agent for the Panama Mail Steamship Company. It is the first comprehensive schedule since the old Pacific Mail Steamship Company got out a single sheet on rates seventy years ago. The revised tariff is known as No. 1C, and is effective October 1. Buck devoted more than three months to the compilation.
